FATE OF THAW

Hummel is now serving a term on Blackwell's island and as he will not be released until March District Attorney Jerome must get along without his aid. There is much speculation as to whether or not Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, the school girl-like figure about which the storm and tempest of the first trial beat out its fury, will again take the stand in her husband's defense. A report has been current for some time that she will not, but a definite decision in the matter may not be arrived at until the trial is well under way. Without her testimony, there would be difficulty in making out a case of emotional insanity. If medical or hereditary insanity be the plea of the defense, the best Thaw can hope for is an indefinite commitment to the state hospital for the criminal insane.

Successful Testimony.
A successful plea of emotional insanity is the only defense which can be relied upon to gain Thaw absolute freedom. Neither Thaw nor his wife relishes the idea of placing the plea at the mercy of another cross-examination by Mr. Jerome, who, unmoved by her tears or her burning cheeks of shame, forced her to admit the long-continued relations between her and Stanford White, and to tell the jury in plain words of the two European affairs she made with Thaw before becoming his wife. It was on one of these tours, the girl declared, that Thaw demanded to know of her the reason why she would not consent to be his wife. Then she told him her life history and of the alleged wrong which she claimed had ruined her career. Told for the second time, the wonderful story might lose much of the dramatic effect of its first offering, and it is not generally believed that young Mrs.

Thaw in the knowledge of the cross-examination that would come, could hold herself together as well as she did at the first trial.
District Attorney Jerome and Francis P. Garvan, his first assistant, again will have charge of the prosecution, but Thaw has made an important change of attorneys. Replacing Mr. Delmas as chief counsel will be Martin W. Littleton, of Brooklyn. Mr. Littleton is known as a capable lawyer, and brilliant orator. He is a southern man, a native of Tennessee. For a while he was assistant prosecuting attorney in Dallas, Texas. Later he removed to Brooklyn and at once became a prominent figure in politics and at the bar. He will have among his associates Daniel O'Reilly, who was one of the counsel for Thaw in the first trial.
It is believed that the second trial will be much shorter than the first one, which covered a period of 12 weeks. All of the attorneys in the case expect the coming trial to be over in a few weeks.

FEDERATION TO DISCUSS HINDU Labor Organization Will Hold Annual Meeting at Tacoma Next Week.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Tacoma, Jan. 4.—The seventh annual convention of the State Federation of Labor will meet here next Wednesday, lasting four days.
The subject to take up the most of the time of the convention is that of cheap oriental labor. A decidedly new phase has been given to this matter since the convention last met by the advent of the Hindus. These are a factor around which hinges a great deal of uncertainty in organized labor circles of the northwest.
There are no exclusion laws against the incoming of the Hindus, and as they are British subjects labor men here believe that no such law can be enacted by the government without a great risk of making trouble with England and endangering the friendly relations of the two countries.
Resolutions have already been framed, according to statements made here, which the convention will be asked to endorse on the labor question.
About 300 delegates will be present at the convention. Efforts are making to secure the noted English labor leader, Ben Tillett, secretary of the London Dockworkers' union, to be present during the convention and make several addresses. He was due to arrive in San Francisco yesterday.
Frank W. Cotterill of Seattle is president of the state federation and George Humphrey of this city, secretary-treasurer.

HOLIDAYS DELAY WORK ON EUGENE RAILROAD
Lane County Court Grants Company More Time to Secure Funds.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Eugene, Or., Jan. 4.—The Lane county court has granted the Eugene & Eastern Railway company an extension of time in which to begin work on building the electric line over the county road between Eugene and Springfield.
On September 6, 1907, the court granted the franchise with the provision that work should begin on that portion of the line which will traverse the county road within 90 days from the time of the granting of the franchise, but owing to the holidays the company was unable to secure money with which to pay its men and the work, which had already been started, had to cease. The court granted the company another 90 days, and the latter announces that work will be resumed within a few weeks.

FOUR WEEKS UNTIL MINERS ARE FREED
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Ely, Nev., Jan. 4.—Rescuers in the Alpha shaft are now working a short distance below the 75-foot mark, and the 500 level. Solid ground is expected to be reached about 100 feet lower, when the progress will be much faster. The rescuers are averaging about 10 feet a day. The three entombed men, when told it would probably be some time before their rescue could be released, appeared satisfied that everything possible was being done. The prisoners are in good health and seem cheerful.

ALASKA MINERS FIELD MASTODON

Flesh on Body in Almost Complete State of Preservation When Dug Up.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 4.—John Froling has just returned from a seven years' stay in Alaska and the Yukon territory, during which he traveled incessantly over the country for years on end in a fevered search for the yellow metal. He brings the fact of the finding of the remains of one of the extinct mastodon almost in a complete state of preservation. The body was found 40 feet below the surface seven miles up and chopper's creek, a small stream that flows into the Yukon 40 or 50 miles above Circle.
Several miners there had staked out claims and were going down through the frosty earth in an effort to strike pay dirt. They were operating a steam plant running down "potholes" and were one day much surprised by noticing a peculiar smell of flesh emanating from the excavation. They investigated and found that they were immediately upon the carcass of some immense animal which the almost red-hot steam was rapidly decaying after it had lain in the frozen clasp of its earthly bed for untold millenniums.
By a great effort they got the carcass out of the earth. Much of the meat was still in a good stage of preservation when brought to the surface and was eaten by the dogs of the miners and the animals that came about the camp at night.
The bones of the mammoth were all intact, and the last Mr. Froling had arrangements made to have the skeleton to some museum as a curiosity.

AN M. D. ON KIDNEY DISEASE

Writing on kidney disease, the medical term for which is Nephritis, Dr. J. W. Chismond says in the "MEDICAL BRIEF":
"In its incipency it is as curable as any malady that the system is heir to. It develops so unconsciously that one POSSESS NO SPECIFIC FOR ITS RAVAGES."
Where does that leave the kidney medicines you have been taking? And just as we have said over and over, it doesn't make much difference what you call kidney trouble, fast-fasters, physicians and druggists have had no successful treatment for it. True, it commonly gets well at first, but if it does not, it comes back with a vengeance that was incurable up to the discovery of Fulton's Renal Compound, which is the first thing known to reduce inflammation in kidney tissues.
When does the second stage come? Dr. Chismond says: "IT DEVELOPS SO UNCONSCIOUSLY THAT IT IS AS A RULE FAR ADVANCED BEFORE IT IS DISCOVERED."
In view of these acknowledged facts, people with kidney trouble should do some very serious thinking before taking futile kidney medicines under which the kidney deaths have risen to over 170 per day. Even if the inflammation is in the first stage, a course of futile medicine is delay that develops the very condition that Dr. Chismond says is "irreparable" and that was irreparable up to the date of Fulton's beneficent discovery.
If you have kidney trouble, either starting or seated, how can there be any question about your taking the only known specific for inflammation of the kidneys, which, in spite of chronic, is the real difficulty with kidney troubled people.
