

MARKET VALUES

VALUES AT PRIMARY POINTS ADVANCE Owing to Better Demand in South.

Produce market features: Sharp advance in provisions. Onion market stronger. Haulbut supplies very scarce. Dressed meats unusually scarce. Cheap apples sell the best. Orange market is firmer. Celery market is quite good. Quoting sweet potatoes higher.

Onion Market Stronger Higher.

On account of a sharp improvement in demand at fractionally higher prices, 10c per 100 pounds was added to the local price of onions at country points today by shippers. At shipping stations buyers are sending out warnings to the local price of onions at country points today by shippers. Potatoes in a Slump.

The potato market is far from pleasing to either the shipper or producer. Prices are generally lower than at the beginning of the season. The market is slightly up and hold their stocks. Buyers claim that the market has every prospect of making another fractional rise but prices will not go very high because onions will be brought from the coast to Pacific coast figures warrant it.

Cheaper Butter Quite Plentiful.

The cheaper grades of butter continue to be plentiful for the demand and the result is that most sales of first-class product are not being made at the usual prices. Inside creamery are increasing and even city creameries report a greater volume of cream shipments than in previous months. The supplies of cold storage butter were never so great in the east nor on the coast than at present.

Quoting Sweet Potatoes Higher.

Repacked sweet potatoes are selling at an advance of 25c in the local market. Orange market is quite firm at former range. Supplies just about equal demand. Demand for cheap-quality apples is increasing and the range of value is quite wide. Celery market is firmer here as a result of the better tone in the south. Key buyers still want Kops.

MURDERER GOES FREE

Negro Who Killed Ruhl Laughs at Puerile Efforts of Police—Latter Gave Him Seven Days in Which to Get Away.

The murderer of L. C. Ruhl is still at large and up to noon today the police had no clue as to his whereabouts. The case is one that illustrates the methods now in vogue in the department. Ruhl, who was the white proprietor of a negro lodging-house at 122 North Seventh street, was beaten over the head by one of his lodgers on the evening of December 30 and left for dead in a room where the murderous assault occurred.

Some of the people in the building found the unconscious man, sent him to the hospital and informed the police of what had occurred. Patrolman I. Hirsch was sent to the house to make an investigation and made the following report:

About 9:30 p. m. a colored man by the name of Everman came to Mr. Ruhl's room, 122 North Seventh street, and beat him over the head with a gun. He remains there in room No. 5. He is a small man with a mustache. With this report the police investigation of the case came to an end, and was only resumed when the authorities at Good Samaritan hospital, where Ruhl was held, informed the police yesterday morning that Ruhl had died as the result of his injuries.

Surplus of White Labor Permits Californians to Oust Insolent Brown Men.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Los Angeles, Jan. 7.—The surplus of white labor, owing to the reduction in the working forces of the big corporations, has given the orchardists and fruit-growers of this section the long looked for opportunity of ridding themselves of Japanese, who for months have controlled the labor situation in the fruit districts.

A year ago, when the Japs had driven the Chinese orchard workers out of the fruit districts and were in complete domination of the labor situation, the growers' association attempted to secure other workers, without success. Labor was at a premium, especially white labor. The insolence of the Japs was almost unbearable, and many small growers were coerced into leasing or selling their holdings to the aggressive Asiatics.

WEATHER REPORT

Reports from the stations along the Washington coast are missing this morning, but the observations at Interlaken indicate that the pressure is falling very rapidly. No indications appear as yet of the approach of a disturbance. Cloudiness prevails over western Oregon and western Washington this morning, but no appreciable amount of rain has fallen.
