Burglars Ply Trade Unmolested by Police—Plucky Woman Turns on Light—Frightens Yeggman Collecting Valuables.

Burglars continue to ply their trade in spite of the efforts of the police to break the record made last month—18 burglaries and no arrests.

One of the latest victims of the yeggmen is Schiller B. Hermann, a salesman for Wadhams & Kerr, who resides at 367 Knott street. Some time during the night burglars entered his residence by the use of skeleton keys. The house was ransacked and valuable jewelry, articles of wearing apparel and silverware were stolen. The thieves escaped with the plunder collected. Mr. Hermann has asked the police to catch the robbers and recover his valuables.

Last night thieves broke into the unoccupied dwelling at the corner of Wagon and East Twenty-fourth street and stole tools to the value of $20. The tools were the property of George G. Palmer, a carpenter engaged in making repairs on the building. The thieves were forced to break open a tool chest in order to get at the tools. This morning Detective Smith found some of the stolen articles in a newspaper in the north end of town. He secured a description of the person who pawned the tools and hopes to apprehend him soon.

Mrs. Evans who resides at the southwest corner of Corbett and Whitaker streets, is congratulating herself on the fact that she had the courage to face a burglar who had forced his way into her house, as by so doing she saved a quantity of valuable jewelry and silverware which the thief had collected. The thief entered the house through one of the front windows and was ransacking the bureau drawers in Mrs. Evans' bedroom when she was awakened by his movements. Realizing the situation Mrs. Evans sat up in bed and turned on the electric light in the globe hanging by her bed. The sudden flood of light so startled the burglar that he bolted for the street, leaving behind him a pile of articles of value he had collected from the various rooms in the house.

Burglars have twice visited the residence of L. Goldenberg, a locksmith, living at 511 Kelly street, and each time they have been frightened away by Mrs. Goldenberg before they succeeded in effecting an entrance. In each case the lady was awakened by hearing the thieves trying to force the lock of the back door. Her prompt appearance on the scene with a light proved effective in frightening the housebreakers into making a hasty retreat. People living in the neighborhood have become apprehensive of the frequent visits of the yeggmen and are keeping a watch over their household belongings at night.

COMPLETE FILLING LIST OF JURYMEN

Captain J. A. Sladen of the United States court and A. Bush, jury commissioner of the United States court, yesterday completed the task of adding 539 names to the jury box. This is for the names of jurymen who may be drawn for duty during the land fraud cases which begin next Monday and any other trials which may be called for hearing during the year.

The number in the box had been reduced to something less than 200. Owing to the fact that the law calls for more than this number, the 539 additional names were added yesterday. All of the jurymen are from the valley counties. This is to save the government as much money as possible in paying the traveling expenses of those who happen to be drawn for duty.

Decision by Supreme Court Defined by Justice—Four Judges Dissatisfied.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Washington, Jan. 7.—Mr. Justice White's statement given out from the White House today relative to the decision of the supreme court yesterday declaring the employers' liability law unconstitutional. The decision was concurred in by five justices, four dissenting. The principal points are contained in Justice White's opinion, as follows:

Opinion by White.
The act, being addressed to all common carriers engaged in interstate commerce, and imposing liability upon them in favor of any of their employees, without qualification or restriction as to business in which the carriers or their employees may be engaged at the time of the injury, necessarily includes subjects wholly outside of the power of congress to regulate commerce.

As the act includes many subjects wholly beyond the power to regulate commerce, and depends for its sanction upon that authority, it results that the act is repugnant to the constitution and cannot be enforced unless there be merit in the propositions advanced to show that the statute may be saved.

NOVEL FEATURES OF CHURCH CLUB

The first meeting of the Mep's club of the First Congregational church of this city for this year was held in the church parlors last evening. Fully one hundred men, many of them recent arrivals in the city, were present. At the outset the president outlined his idea of the objects of the club and the opportunities existing on every hand for vigorous work, the improvement of which would be of great value to the church and the city at large, and called for a general expression of interest in the project respecting the thoughts he had advanced.

This precipitated general discussion, which was particularly interesting in the case of Mr. Scott, H. G. Colton, E. L. Thompson, Dr. Dyott, Mr. Withycombe, and others. A short program was rendered, consisting of a ventriloquist act and impersonations by Will Coughlin, followed by a number of tenor solos by E. Patterson. The choir, with Mr. Hutchison, recently from London, as accompanist. Mr. Patterson was, until lately, the leading tenor in the choir of the church in Chicago, and which Dr. Frank W. Gunsaulus was pastor.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) San Francisco, Jan. 7.—Clans Spreckels, who had a territorial agreement with the Havemeyer interests, or the American Sugar refinery, is in New York looking after his interests as a stockholder of the Havemeyer concern. Spreckels owns all of the refineries here with the exception of one controlled by his son Rudolph.

Clans Spreckels alleged the Havemeyer interests have been misrepresenting valuations of plants and have nothing to show for an alleged surplus. The Spreckels attorneys claim to have discovered that the Havemeyer estate does not own through the "trust" any stock in the American Beet Sugar refinery, or the National Sugar refining company. The surplus alleged by the trust was $14,225,000. Spreckels says it does not exist.
