

SHIPPERS BUY EASTERN STOCK AND THEN RESHIP THEM AS STRICTLY FRESH.

Produce Market Features: Ship eastern eggs as Oregon. Poultry market very dull. Chinook salmon from the Clackamas. Smelt still in hiding. Eggs to one firm. Dressed meats holding firm. No demand shown for turkeys. Hop market remains active.

Ship Eastern Eggs as Oregon.
A trick for the like of which you would have to interview the oriental, is being played by some country shippers. They are shipping eastern eggs to the markets and therefor obtaining the price of local stock. The trick they play is practiced for a while by some commission men but operations were stopped by their fear of government prosecution under the act of government country shippers buys a large amount of eastern eggs in the Portland or Seattle market at a very low figure—say 20c a dozen. These eggs are shipped to his home station and then removed from the brand new eastern packers to old Pacific coast eggs—this latter is done under the buyer that they are fresh ranch stock. Then they are shipped to market. The shippers are too wise to ship all eggs to one firm, for the great volume would excite suspicion, so he sends a few cases to each dealer.

Greed Unravels Trick.
However, like all market tricks played by the shippers, it is bound to be unraveled. He wants to get a profit on his operations. Therefore he buys the cheapest grade of eastern eggs because they are the best price. This is why he trips him up and the Sherlock Holmes of commission row soon finds him out. The eggs are not fresh, but he sends a few cases to each dealer.

SHOULD NOT SHIP ALL STOCKS TOGETHER

Eggs are coming in freely and price is lower with prospects, if weather continues mild, of still dropping.

"Butter" is in large supply and generally weak.

"Poultry has suffered a relapse this week, for the extreme prices of last week seem to have brought out a great amount of this product, and the market has been fairly swamped.

Prices have suffered greatly. If shippers will let their goods come forward by degrees prices will be better sustained, and there will be none too much on the market at any time. In the end we will find very short, for this country does not produce nearly enough poultry to supply the demands.

"In demand for a little more freely but fancy is still in demand at record prices. Portland has been in large receipt the past week, but is still a good seller at fine prices for fine goods.

"Potatoes are still dull and quiet."—Tom Farrell of Everding & Farrell.

Foreigners Out of Market.
At present foreign buyers are out of the market, except at prices much lower than those expected. In the trade have been awaiting declines in wheat and flour in order to replenish their holdings in foreign affairs are in a better condition and are now improving, flour will sell more freely. It is probable that buyers will realize that prices will not go down, and a moderate beginning to normal conditions will ensue. They will not come in at once, but will be continuous. They will have to buy at the present level, and the demand for flour will mean an increased demand for wheat, and if this article holds its price, a moderate decline will have to follow suit. Millers who are in need of wheat at the present must pay a premium to draw the same out of farmers' hands, and it is expected that there will be any decline in flour this season. In a short time, when prices begin to become normal, the extraordinary good foreign demand for wheat will take place between the millers and shippers, and the same prices will prevail. At the present time no one expects to see much business this month, but as soon as the Chinese market opens, a moderate decline is looked for in China and its northern ports. Japan at present is only buying when prices become normal, and a moderate decline is looked for in the market for wheat from this country, evidently having come to the conclusion that prices for the same are too high. Some buyers over there are calling for prices on flour, and those whose stocks are low are buying at a higher price than at a lower figure than that which millers are now quoting.

Chicago Market Is Slow With Prices Higher at the Start.

Chicago Wheat Market.
Chicago, Jan. 10.—Gains abroad at the opening added much to the attractiveness of the local wheat market at the start. Values opened unchanged but were higher than the market made a good fractional advance early but this was lost on the demerit of the local pool in the day. This cost the Chicago market all its early advance and left the closing 1/4 to 1/2 cent under yesterday. Corn opened 1/2 cent higher to a shade lower and closed about 1/4 cent under yesterday. Oats market opened 1/4 cent lower but lost an additional 1/4 cent before the close. Pork dropped 15 cents for January and 20 cents for May option because of the extreme weakness in hogs.

SAW HIM, BUT DIDN'T SEE HIM SAW THE WOOD
A feud having its inception in a dispute over the lease of a piece of land at Montavilla will be aired in the police court tomorrow morning when Frederick Metzger and Samuel Sloan appear to answer to a charge of assault and battery preferred by Abner Hoskins. The complainants applied to Deputy District Attorney John Stevenson this morning for redress and displayed various pieces of evidence, including a photograph to bear out the truth of their statements. Hoskins, who is the proprietor of a wood-sawing machine, says he went to the place owned by Metzger and Sloan to saw some wood for a man named Green, a tenant on the place. An objection was raised as to his presence there, the net result being an assault on Hoskins and his man, Searies, and the blowing of wood being the weapons used. Metzger and Sloan are charged with assault and battery.

WHEAT IS BEING TAKEN TO THE TRADE

Exporters' Want of Grain Is Increasing, Especially Near Portland.

Exporters continue to buy an increasing amount of wheat in this territory at the recent advanced values. They say they are in the market for still larger lots, but not above the present market value for the present, at least.

The wheat market is daily gaining strength all over the Pacific coast, but the leading demand continues to be shown by Portland shippers and millers. Editor Leo Peterson of the Portland Commercial Review writes today regarding the flour situation:

"Millers talk more hopefully regarding the flour situation. They admit that there is a slight improvement from the dull conditions which have existed for over three months. During the last few weeks foreign buyers evidently must have permitted a moderate run down. With stocks small, it is natural to anticipate a good buying period. The price quoted by millers is one of the reasons that trading for months was checked.

Foreigners Out of Market.
At present foreign buyers are out of the market, except at prices much lower than those expected. In the trade have been awaiting declines in wheat and flour in order to replenish their holdings in foreign affairs are in a better condition and are now improving, flour will sell more freely. Chancellor Who Defended Rockefeller Finds Public Sentiment Against Him.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 10.—Chancellor E. Benjamin Andrews of the University of Nebraska is said to have placed his resignation in the hands of the regents of the institution, to take effect at the pleasure of the board.

The report is that the resignation will be brought about because of the unpopularity of the chancellor's championship of Rockefeller and his solicitation of endowment funds from the Standard Oil magnate. President Andrews is on the pension list of the Rockefeller endowment fund, and his future is provided for.

He came to the Nebraska university during the days of free silver, when he championed, and it was because of that championship that Bryan and the other silver people placed him at the head of the Nebraska institution.

Judges at the poultry show are still busy deciding which of the aristocratic birds displaying their best feathers over on Grand avenue will be hailed as the "cock of the walk" during 1908 in Oregon. The judges thought they were through, but were called back again today to look over several pens they had overlooked yesterday. With these the judging is done and the awards about ready to announce.

The East Side Business Men's club has selected this evening for their annual meeting of agriculture and the forestry officials asking that the date of payments for grazing privileges in the Wallowa county forest reserve be postponed until August 1, on account of the temporary financial stringency in eastern Oregon.

The range payments are due April 15, but at that season of the year the heavy expenses of shearing and dipping wool must be met and the wool growers desire a few months respite in the payment of range dues.

A total of 14,000 head of sheep are being wintered in Wallowa county this winter, this being 10,000 more than last year. Over $14,000 will be paid by this county in forest reserve dues.

At the meeting J. H. Dobbin was re-elected president, W. H. Graves vice-president and Thomas Morgan secretary.

Reading was again a leading issue, making several points in the past hour, and the liquidating force became so strong that the tide of values was changed. Weakness marked the closing transactions.

Dog Tries to Follow Example of Bellingham Boys and Instantly Dies.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Bellingham, Wash., Jan. 10.—By some unexplained freak of nonconduction, eight Bellingham boys were saved from death from the current of a wire which after sparing them proved its deadly power by striking dead a dog which accidentally stepped on it.

Made daring by their ignorance and by the fascination of danger, the boys stepped on the dangerously charged wire walking on it boldly and enjoying the slight shocks which they received from it. In the midst of their play a large dog belonging to one of the boys, walking after his little master, his foot touched the conductor. Instantly the dog stepped on the dangerously charged wire walking on it boldly and enjoying the slight shocks which they received from it.
