

ALASKANS HAVE NEW INDUSTRY

High Prices Are Paid Fishermen for King Salmon for Mild Curing.

(Washington Bureau of the Journal.)
Washington, Jan. 10.—The total pack of salmon in Alaska for the past year has been about 2,140,000 cases of four dozen one pound cans.

A new industry, that of mild curing king salmon, has been established in southeastern Alaska during the past year, and has proved to be very profitable to the fishermen. The purchase of fish for this purpose pay much higher prices for king salmon than the canneries. It is found that this fish can be caught in various sections throughout the year, and therefore the fishermen living in Alaska are able to earn a livelihood during the entire year.

The experiment of hatching salmon fry continues under the direction of the United States Fish Commission and some of the canneries. No definite results have been obtained.

The business of halibut fishing continues to grow as transportation facilities improve.

There is a limited business in fishing for cod. A few vessels are engaged in it, catching the fish, salting and taking them for final preparation for market to San Francisco or Seattle.

Herring is at present used in the manufacture of oil and guano, and an old established oil and guano factory at Killisnoo maintains a population of 200 whites and natives. A new plant for extracting whale oil and making guano from whales, which inhabit the coast of southeastern Alaska in large numbers, has been located on Admiralty Island, and will soon be in full operation.

The value of the furs shipped from Alaska during the past year has increased 30 per cent, but this is due largely to the high prices which have prevailed the past year.

CONSTANTINE GETS A SECOND CHANCE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Olympia, Wash., Jan. 10.—William Constantine, the wealthy Seattle butcher, who was recently convicted in the superior court of King county for attempting to kill his son-in-law, Jesse M. Hall, a well-known young society man, yesterday granted a new trial before the supreme court.

Constantine, because of Hall's alleged ill-treatment of his wife, tried to kill her. His trial Constantine pleaded insanity and the jury brought in a verdict of assault with intent to do bodily harm.

Constantine was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary and to pay a fine of $5,000. He appealed. In the meantime Hall had started a civil suit asking enormous damages.

The supreme court holds that it was a reversible error to exclude evidence tending to impeach the testimony of Hall that Constantine had offered Hall money to leave the state, to pay all his hospital fees and give him a "big bunch of money besides."

WANT CHARTER LAWS CHANGED BY STATE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Or., Jan. 10.—So far as is known the first effort yet made in Oregon to revoke the law passed by the legislative assembly in 1903, which gave cities local self government and taking charter changes out of the hands of the legislature has just been made in this city where petitions asking for a resubmission of the law have been circulated by the liquor interests. Owing to the widespread sentiment in favor of prohibiting the saloons, the liquor rather risk charter changes with the legislature than with the people as under the new referendum law.

The petitions asking a resubmission of the act have been circulated on the quiet, but many names have been secured and it is believed that the saloons will secure strong petitions in eastern Oregon counties.

WALLOWA COUNTY TO IMPROVE ITS ROADS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Enterprise, Or., Jan. 10.—The county court wants to let the road contracts at its last session to gravel portions of the county road leading to Enterprise. One contract amounts to $800 and the other contract is for a smaller amount. It is expected that other contracts will be let of similar work during the year.

The county court at its last session ordered a levy of 1 1/2 mills on the assessable property in the county for the year's expenditures.

KUBELIK AND HIS VIOLIN

By G. I. W.

Jan Kubelik returned to the Portland public last night after an absence of two years. Those two years have matured and broadened out wonderfully, this artist who is yet a mere boy, and plays like a man. Formerly his work was beautiful, pleasing, polished, and refined; now it is warm and pulsating. Formerly you felt his delicate taste, his refined intellect; now you feel his beating heart, his impassioned mind.

It is no discredit to his former work to say that an artist has grown broader. An artist is always advancing in his art; he cannot be at a standstill. When he comes to a standstill he retrogrades. That is the trouble with Paderewski. His wealth of experience is not building up new experiences and new feelings and new expressions for those feelings. And so when I say that Kubelik is more matured than he was two years ago, that there is more earnestness and feeling, there is no implication that he lacked at all in musicianship before. He has merely grown greater.

Last night the Hellig audience fairly rose to him and seldom is such enthusiasm displayed in Portland. I believe when a violinist reaches the heart strings he can make them vibrate more than can any other musician. And last night's audience was evidently one that loves the violin. The young Bohemian was given recall after recall and after five or six such, literally had to play an encore.

His first number was, of course, a concerto, a Wieniawsky number in three movements. His ease and grace in the handling of his instrument, combined with sincerity of interpretation and delicate coloring and shading, made it perhaps the best number on the program. The romance movement was done with beautiful, rich, "purple" effect, and the finale in the Zingara style reproduced bewitchingly the gypsy measures, Schubert's "Ave Maria" was given as an encore with full, rich tones and soulful interpretation.

Spohr's beautiful Adagio was probably the real favorite of the evening.

AT THE THEATRES

Hellig "The Man of the Hour."

Sunday night next and all week, with matinee Wednesday and Saturday, at the Hellig theatre, George Broadhurst's drama, "The Man of the Hour," will be the attraction. It is said to be the greatest dramatic success of the past 50 years, and is now in its second year at the Savoy theatre, New York. Seats are now selling at theatre.

"Sham" at the Marquam.

Miss Florence Roberts will appear in "Sham," tonight at the Marquam. This will be the first time that this society comedy has been played in Portland and it is the first time that Miss Roberts has ever played other than an emotional role in this city. "Sham" will be repeated tomorrow afternoon and night. Seats are now selling at the box office.

"$10,000 Beauty" at Marquam.

Beginning Sunday Lewis & Lake will bring to the Marquam their latest musical comedy, "A $10,000 Beauty," which is said to be a mine of merriment. There is a big company of pretty singing and dancing girls, a number of clever comedians and any number of catchy song numbers and lively jokes. Big added feature, "Doomday," the sensation of the age. Thousands who have seen it have been awed by its splendor.

"Soldiers of Fortune."

The scenes of Richard Harding Davis' "Soldiers of Fortune," which the Baker company is adding to its laurels with this week, are all laid down in South America, and concern the brilliant adventures that befall a party of people from the United States during one of the revolutions. Latest performances tonight, tomorrow matinee and night.

"The Other Girl" Next Week.

The Baker Stock company will be the first to present Augustus Thomas' great comedy success, "The Other Girl," in Portland, and the opening performance will be next Sunday afternoon. It is comedy, but one in which many thrilling situations are introduced.

"The Texas Outlaw" Next Week.

There are a series of thrilling melodramatic scenes in "The Texas Outlaw" which comes to the Empire, Sunday matinee for a week's run, which never fall to excite the wildest applause from all parts of the house. It is a story of a struggle between two men, one an outlaw and the other a good, upright man, for the hand of a beautiful girl.

"At the Old Cross Roads."

The last performances of Arthur Assante's "At the Old Cross Roads" will be given at the Empire tonight, tomorrow matinee and night. The scenes of this play are laid in the vicinity of Vicksburg, Mississippi, a place noted for its picturesque surroundings and odd characters.

GERMAN FIRM TO BUILD RAILROAD

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 10.—A contract has been made by this government with a German firm for the construction of a railroad line from the port of Arica, an important port of the Pacific coast, to La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, a distance of 400 miles of difficult mountain region for $3,000,000, to be completed in four years. At the same time it has been arranged that the Deutsch bank will take the whole amount of the bonds as the work proceeds, at 6 per cent. It is estimated to be an advantageous bargain considering the present financial condition throughout the business world.

LOGAN MURDER TRIAL BEGINS IN FEBRUARY

Court Appoints Attorney to Defend Anderson—Rush of Other Business.

The trial of Joseph Anderson, charged with the murder of Harry M. Logan, the engineer who was slain on the Fourth street bridge in October, will begin on February 11. The date was fixed before Judge Cleland yesterday and J. A. Jeffrey was appointed to defend him. Mr. Jeffrey had the name of William G. Hale entered as assistant counsel.

Pleas of guilty were entered by Harry French, charged with larceny; by William Emerick, charged with stealing $100 worth of clearing house certificates from E. Salberg, and by E. E. Chapman, who is held on a statutory misdemeanor. Time for sentence was fixed for this afternoon.

Cornelia Emerick pleaded not guilty to the charge of stealing a diamond buckle worth $25 from the Annex on Yamhill street, and her trial was set for March 6. Mrs. J. J. Jones likewise declared her innocence of the charge of stealing $450 and articles of jewelry from N. O. Davidson, and the case was set for trial on March 4.

William A. Haley's attorney asked for reduction of his bond from $1,000 to $500, saying that the bond and the charge alike were unusual, the defendant being accused of the larceny of 20 tons of cast iron. He said he believed the bail excessive. Deputy District Attorney Haley said that if he is guilty, Haley's offense is serious, as it involved a lot of drays and carried away the iron. The bond was reduced to $1,000. Allen, charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, trial February 11; William Wren, larceny, February 7; Beard, assault and battery upon his wife, March 2; J. P. Beaman, larceny, March 3; Dudley Beamer, larceny, March 3; A. W. Hunt, larceny, March 3; George H. Hanlon, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and E. B. Henderson, larceny, February 12.

Germany has high priced products. (United Press Leased Wire.) Berlin, Jan. 10.—The socialist members of parliament have interpolated a chancellor on what measures he proposes to adopt to impede the increasing rise in price of articles of prime necessity and of coal. The conservatives think also to interpolate him on the difficulties arising from the increased price of coal. The minister asks permission to obtain from the imperial bank $90,000,000 for treasury bonds, to be deposited in the bank. On account of the unfavorable condition of the national finances it has been resolved to postpone the amortization of the estimated budget. The government asks earnestly an increase in import duties to make headway against the expenses.
