

BEDDING SENT THROUGH TUBE

Imprisoned Miners at Ely, Nevada, Get Blankets Via Six-Inch Tube.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Ely, Nev., Jan. 10.—Just one month ago the Alpha shaft of the Giroux mine caved in. The timbers, like straws before the titanic force, collapsed, and thousands of tons of rocks and earth filled the shaft from below the 1,000-foot level up to 600 feet below the surface. Three men, A. D. Bailey, Fred Brown and Peter McDonald, were imprisoned in the pump house, are there now with 415 feet of debris between them and liberty and probably will remain there at least a month longer. The marvelous ingenuity of men when they are combating forces which would destroy them has been exemplified in this case. Buttoned up in a pocket of the earth, as it were, the rescuing party not only has established communication with the captives, but has supplied them with practically everything they could desire, save liberty. A demonstration of this fertility of resources has just been given. The weather here is very cold and snow covers the ground. Down in the pump-house it is much warmer, but the men needed blankets. The only means by which articles can be lowered is through a six-inch water pipe, each made into a closed cylinder by means of a chain, secured to their ends and the two fastened together end to end with a chain, and lowered. It was an easy matter to let down food, water, candles, newspapers, tobacco and even an incandescent bulb by which they are now supplied with light, but to furnish them blankets was another thing. The problem was solved, however, by Mrs. Bailey, wife of one of the prisoners. She tore blankets into small strips so they could be stuffed into the carrier. More than a dozen trips were required to lower a single blanket, and it took half a day to send down three blankets. Then Mrs. Bailey filled up one of the cylinders with thread and needles and telephoned instructions to her husband about the sewing. It took them a day to complete one blanket and it probably is a weird looking thing. Every hour or so would come a call for more needles; they are breaking them in the same way. In the same way caps, laid down and with pieces of iron they found coats have been constructed. Brown has been a victim of insomnia; in fact, has not slept more than an hour at a time since his imprisonment. That their appetites are good, however, is attested by the amount of food which is sent down daily. Everyone in Ely agrees that Brown, Bailey and McDonald are having a far easier and more comfortable time than the men of the rescue party. The latter are exposed to the hardships of a Nevada winter, as well as to the dangers which beset those who work in the shaft. Business in the town is almost at a standstill, owing to the general interest taken in the situation. Housewives vie with each other in cooking dainties for the men and there is nothing in the line of food refreshment too good for them. One excellent woman believing the time had come for the trio to think seriously of matters pertaining to the future life and to seek salvation, won out over certain obstructionists who thought the carrying out of her purpose might be too suggestive of immediate future possibilities and sent down a roll of tracts. One of these bore an admonition referring to "the pit," and McDonald telephoned up "say, who is that cheerful person that wants to rub it in on us?" The Elks, to which Bailey belongs, have completed plans for a big banquet when the men are liberated. He was told to eat sparingly on the last day of captivity to be well prepared, by virtue of general emptiness, for the elaborate dinner. "You tell them," he said, "that I will eat three squares a day up to the time of the banquet and they can bury me over if I don't do justice to it!"

PHYSICIAN MAY DONATE SERVICE

Tacoma Doctor Says He Will Give Free Medical Advice If He Is Prosecuted.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 10.—"I came to Washington to practice medicine after graduating from two reputable colleges and passing the rigid examination of the state board of medical examiners of Indiana in 1903, obtaining a grade of 89 per cent. I have since practiced here and practice medicine if it is necessary for me to carry my contention to the supreme court of the United States," said Dr. W. H. Wheeler of Tacoma, arrested early last week for practicing medicine without a license. Dr. Wheeler came to Washington last May and immediately after his arrival in Seattle he paid his $100 fee to the Northwest Quizzmasters' association, composed of Dr. Charles E. McClure, who practiced with Dr. C. W. Sharples, secretary of the state board of medical examiners; Dr. Charles B. Ford and Dr. W. E. Griswold, office partners of Dr. J. B. Baggeson, also of the state board. For the $100, as promised in their letter of solicitation, written to Dr. Wheeler immediately after he had written from Indiana to the state board of examiners to obtain information about a license to practice, Dr. Wheeler was given a seven weeks' "quiz." Dr. Wheeler says the quiz might have, in a way, been beneficial but that his natural supposition, when he received a letter from the Quizzmasters' association was that, if he took the quiz he would get his license for 71.9 per cent. "I received grade of 71.9 per cent," said Dr. Wheeler, "and was not allowed a license. The examinations were of such a character that it would be an easy matter for the examiners to say who would be allowed to pass and who would be marked down. It was told by Dr. Sharples that I could practice medicine if I desired until the time of the next state examination, although I would never be immune from prosecution during that time. The doctor, however, assured me that before any likelihood of arrest would appear he would notify me to discontinue my practice. "It will be only a matter of a short time until a national law is passed providing that a man who has had a good medical training and who has passed the examinations of one state board will be allowed to practice in any state. "I do not wish to antagonize the examining board, but I do say that the system this state has of licensing physicians is poorly arranged and inadequate. It makes the examiners merely plucking a liberal proportion of those who take the state examinations. "The quiz class, of which Dr. Wheeler was charged, consisted of 10 candidates for licenses, and netted the quizzmasters $945, it is said. A similar quiz is now in progress and letters signed by Dr. C. A. Warhnick have been received in Tacoma by men who have asked the state board for information concerning the January examinations. All of the Tacoma men are unable to say how it was that the quizzmasters obtained their addresses unless it was through the medium of members of the board of state medical examiners. Dr. Wheeler's offices in the Equitable building are adorned with diplomas of two Indiana medical colleges, a certificate showing that he was examined on 18 subjects before the Indiana board of medical examiners on April 14, 1903, and passed with a grade of 89 per cent. He was given a license to practice anywhere in that state and all other states of the union except Montana, Washington, Oregon and California. "If necessary I will give my services away and depend for support on voluntary contributions from my patrons," said Dr. Wheeler.

There's quite a Row about Unsanitary Bakeshops

We don't know how bad or how good they are. The papers say some startling things and the health boards are stirred up. It seems an opportune time to say that the most nourishing bread in existence is not in the shape of bread at all, but is composed of granules. That's GRAPE-NUTS. No bread in the world is so nutritious, for Grape-Nuts food is made of entire wheat and barley and goes through various processes of baking, during which the starch part is turned into a form of sugar to be seen glistening in minute particles on each granule of Grape-Nuts. The food is the easiest to digest in the entire list of all foods and it will pay to use it in place of white bread and observe how well you feel. The factories are the world's standard for cleanliness and sanitary conditions. Scores of visitors are escorted through the factories each day and see just how Grape-Nuts and Postum are made and how immaculately clean every nook and corner is. Come, you are all welcome. If you can't come, send a postal with address carefully written and we'll mail free the beautifully illustrated book, "The Door Unbolted."

It takes one all through and the pictures show the interesting machines at work. Grape-Nuts food and Postum are never touched by human hands in the processes of making. There's happy health with Postum and Grape-Nuts, and "There's a Reason" Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

They were charged with hypnotizing Cecilia Flurry, an 11-year-old child, on December 26. The first jury that tried the case failed to agree and was discharged. The present jury deliberated over three hours before bringing in the verdict. Appeal will be made and the case carried to the superior court.

ASK GOVERNMENT FOR MORE TIME

Water Users at Hermiston Want Land to Aid Them in Making Payments. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Hermiston, Jan. 10.—The Water Users' association which has charge of affairs in the settlement of the Umatilla irrigation project is preparing a petition to the secretary of the interior asking for a two year's respite or postponement of the first payments on the lands to be entered under the project. Under the reclamation law settlers will be required to pay, in cash down, the sum of $8 per acre on the cost price of the land and $1 per acre per year on the maintenance of canals, when application for water right is made. As the settlers are poor men and will have but little means to begin with this cash payment, before the land is made productive is considered to be burdensome, and the petition will ask that the time for making payments be extended from 10 to 12 or 13 years, with no payments the first two or three years, in order to give settlers a chance to develop their claims and enjoy an income from the land. The cost of clearing and leveling the land will be considerable, and it is not thought that many will be able to make the land payments in addition to these expenses.

ROAD TO OPEN NEW TIMBER DISTRICT

People of Union Want to Get at the Fine Forests on Catherine Creek. (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) La Grande, Or., Jan. 10.—The county court of Union county has granted a franchise to what is known as the Central Construction company to occupy certain portions of the county road in the construction of a railroad eastward from Union up Catherine creek. The object of the proposed road is to reach the extensive bodies of timber land of Union and an inducement in the way of promoting this enterprise, the citizens of Union last fall subscribed a subsidy of $25,000. If the plans mature as at present proposed practically all the timber of the Catherine creek district will be brought to Union and manufactured into lumber.

Pendleton, Or., Jan. 10.—Holding that the livery firm of Lang & Russell in Pendleton is responsible for the death of Dr. Emil Stoessel, his widow, Mrs. Helen Stoessel has brought suit against the firm for $7,500. Dr. Stoessel died in the construction of a railroad in Pendleton in a runaway accident on the Pilot Rock road, September 24th of last year. It is alleged in the complaint that the accident was due to a rotten neck yoke strap which allowed the tongue of the buggy to fall to the ground, causing the horses to become unmanageable and run away.
