

BOURNE'S DEFENSE OF SCHUBBEL

Rehobel justice, to assume the entire responsibility to exhibit the appointee as he is. I ask you to quote this letter: "Cincinnati, Ohio, Dec. 3, 1907. "Hon. Jonathan Bourne Jr., Senator, Washington, D. C. My Dear Senator—Since starting for home I have been considering the question of my application for United States district attorney for Oregon, and appreciate your kindness in me in supporting me for that position. I know that I could and would fill the office with credit should I be selected, but it is more important to the state of Oregon that the delegation should be united and working in harmony than that I should be selected. My ambition is the appointment of district attorney. I would suggest that should you deem it necessary for harmony in the delegation, and for the best interests of the state that you withdraw my name as a candidate, and I hope that the delegation may unite on a good, clean, competent man to fill the position. "Thanking you very much for the kindness shown me, I am your sincere friend."

Inferred by McBride.
Mr. Schubel is a young man—young in years and young in his profession. The most distinguished and able practitioners were once young. Some of them, notably the late Judge Cooley, graduated from the school of manual labor and the practice of law. There is no royal road to learning except that of effort. District Judge Thomas A. McBride, in whose court Mr. Schubel has had his chief practice, gives him this endorsement:

Oregon City, Aug. 5, 1907.
"Hon. Jonathan Bourne Jr., Washington, D. C. My dear Sir—I want to say a word in behalf of my friend Mr. Christian Schubel, who would like to be appointed United States district attorney. I have known him ever since he came to Oregon City. He was a working man when he came here, having only a fair education and indomitable energy and grit for a patrimony. He began the study of law under these conditions, working in the factory in the daytime and studying at night, and in 1897 was admitted to the bar, passing more than the usual number of examinations. He has since practiced law continuously in Oregon City and his progress has been steady and upward, until he is now one of the best lawyers in the equal of any man at the local bar, and we have some pretty strong lawyers here. He is a good talker, a close reasoner and thorough student and confidently predict that if he is appointed district attorney he will make a fine record. He served four years as deputy district attorney for this district and as such had the management of most of the criminal business of this county, and this experience will be of great value in the United States district attorney's office. He will have a great advantage over other lawyers, whose studies have been altogether along civil lines. Personally he is a clean, sober, upright man, with an interesting and lovely family, a consistent member of the Presbyterian church, but not one of the kind who thrusts his religious opinions on other people. "His appointment would be a very fit one. I know that he will be independent and fearless, and that the government would, in him, get a fine officer, not only for the reasons given above, but because I think it would be the very best thing for the state. I would like to see him appointed. I would like to remain, very truly your friend."

Moore's Message.
Judge Frank A. Moore of the Oregon supreme court, the president of the following endorsement:
"Salem, Or. Jan. 2, 1908. "The President—C. Schubel has argued one case in this court, reported in the Oregonian, and I am convinced that he has mastered the principles of law involved in a masterly manner."

Judges Hayes and Dimick, with whom he has frequently appeared as attorney at law, furnished these endorsements:
"Oregon City, Dec. 24, 1907. "To Hon. Jonathan Bourne Jr., Washington, D. C.—During the past 10 years I have tried many cases with Mr. Schubel for the most part against him, but some as associate counsel. I regard him as a good lawyer and fully competent of the office of United States district attorney. I know he is a tireless worker."

"Oregon City, Or. Dec. 23, 1907. "To Hon. Jonathan Bourne Jr., Shoreham Hotel, Washington, D. C.—Dear Schubel practiced his profession as attorney at law with me for more than eight years, and for the past two years before my court. He is able, well qualified for United States district attorney, and if appointed will make an honest and efficient officer."
"GRANT B. DIMICK."

Mr. U'Ren, his partner, who is factually charged with being himself a "lawyer's lawyer" under the intimate provisions of the constitution, but who enjoys the felicity of witnessing his partner in the supreme court, and who has perhaps a keener and truer appreciation of the character and fitness of his partner than any other man, has this to say in endorsement of Mr. Schubel:
From W. S. U'Ren.
"Oregon City, Or. July 13, 1907. "Hon. Jonathan Bourne Jr., Senator, Washington, D. C.—Dear Friend: I understand that some time in the near future a successor is to be appointed to the office of United States district attorney for the district of Oregon. I beg, therefore, to present the name of C. Schubel of Oregon City for that appointment. "Mr. Schubel was born in Pennsylvania in 1868 and was a breaker boy picking slate at 10 years of age. In 1873 his parents moved to Oregon and settled down to dig a farm out of what was then a wilderness about nine miles from Oregon City. He lived with them in the woods until he was 17 years of age. There were no schools in the vicinity and his parents were too poor to send him away from home. He had about six months of schooling after he was 16 years old, except the time he spent as a night student in the law school at Portland in 1894 and 1897. After leaving the home farm he worked as a lumber jack in the logging camps of Washington and later learned the carpenter's trade. In 1898 he worked at his trade daytimes in the paper mills of Oregon City. In 1899 he was elected justice of the peace in Oregon City precinct and admitted to the bar in 1901. "We have been partners since January 1, 1901. In 1904 he was appointed a deputy district attorney for Clackamas county and made an excellent official record. He resigned last February because his principal, Harrison Allen, was moving out of the district, and therefore obliged to resign. "I certify from personal knowledge that Mr. Schubel has the integrity, ability, legal knowledge and experience necessary to conduct the business of the office of United States district attorney for the district of Oregon in such manner as will honor the service well as himself. "Mr. Schubel is a Republican. He was secretary of our Republican county central committee in 1904 and has been county chairman since that time. "With Mr. Schubel's record and work as a Republican since 1900 I think you are familiar and I need not dwell on it. No one in Oregon rendered more faithful service in the campaign last year. "I hope you can and will recommend Mr. Schubel for this appointment. I am sure he abundantly fulfills all your requirements in a candidate for the public service. "I shall esteem your recommendation as a personal favor, which I shall be very glad to remember when opportunity serves. Yours truly,"

In conclusion I can only repeat that his appointment has been insisted upon by me, and I am confident that he stands for those ideals in civic for which the president himself also stands. I understand that the president will make an able, high-type public servant.

CURES ECZEMA QUICKLY.
New Drug, Psolam, Now Obtainable in Small Quantities.
Since its discovery one year ago, the new drug, psolam, has successfully cured thousands of chronic cases of eczema and other distressing skin afflictions. Heretofore psolam has been dispensed solely for the treatment of eczema patients in large jars sufficient for a month's treatment. This was found to be an inconvenience to many thousands who suffer from minor skin troubles, such as pimples, blackheads, herpes, acne, scaly scalp, complexion spots, itching, itching for minor skin troubles, which require but a small quantity to cure. To overcome this, and in response to urgent appeals, the dispensers of psolam have been obliged to adopt, in addition to the regular two-dollar package, a special 50-cent size, which in future may be found on sale at the Skidmore Drug company and other leading drug stores, or may be ordered direct from the Emergen Laboratories, No. 37 West Twenty-fifth street, New York City. In all eczema cases psolam stops itching with first application, and breaks up the crust immediately. Chronic cases being cured in two weeks. In less serious skin troubles, results are seen after an overnight application. Samples for experimental purposes may still be had, free of charge, by writing to the laboratories for them.

AT THE THEATRES
"The Man of the Hour" Tonight.
The attraction at the Heilig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, tonight at 8:15 o'clock is "The Man of the Hour," with a special price matinee Saturday, will be the famous play on the present graft situation throughout the state. You can not afford to overlook this interesting drama—it will more than amuse you. It will open your eyes on the most vital subject of the day. Seats are selling at theatre. Phones Main 1, and A-112.

Seat Sale for "Brown of Harvard."
The advance seat sale will open next Friday morning, January 17, at box office the Heilig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, for the clever young star, Henry Woodruff in "Brown of Harvard." This attraction will be the bill at the above theatre for three nights, beginning next Sunday night, January 19, with a special price matinee Tuesday afternoon.

"Devil's Auction" Coming.
Charles Yale's "Devil's Auction" will come to the Marquam next week, beginning the engagement Sunday. "The Devil's Auction" is the best-known extravaganza in America as it has been appearing season after season for 15 years, and each year finds it as popular as ever.

Marquam's Musical Show.
Musical comedy of the Weber & Fields order, which is the best-known class of burlesque, is found at the Marquam this week, where the Lewis & Lake company is filling an engagement. "A Night at the Theatre" occupies the stage, is a melange of mirth and melody. There is the prettiest chorus of the year and the girls are good singers and dancers. Matinee Saturday.

Baker: "The Other Girl."
"Kid" Garvin, champion heavyweight pugilist, has a fling at high society this week on the Empire stage, enjoys a thrilling love affair and plans and does his best to "pull off" a real sensation. "The Other Girl" is a play that he does not succeed, either—in fact he does have the element all right, and to great advantage. "The Other Girl." It is all in Augustus Thomas' great comedy, "The Other Girl," which made an immense hit. Matinee Saturday.

Empire: "A Texas Outlaw."
Those who want plays full of action—those who want things interesting or holding long conversations—should by all means attend a performance of "A Texas Outlaw" at the Empire theatre this week. It is a tale of life in the great southwest borderland, and deals with the life and adventures of an outlaw who is tempted to desert by a rival and win the heart and hand of a rich and beautiful young girl. It fulfills every expectation of Empire patrons, and will continue to be a attraction at this popular house all week. Matinee Saturday.

Each Act a Hit.
Not one indifferent or unpleasant act on the vaudeville bill at the Grand this week is the announcement of the management and the assurance of the firm by all who have seen the program. There are nine acts who have remarkable acrobatic specialties and Hammond and Forrester do a singing and dancing specialty which is a great hit.

"The White Caps."
Tomorrow there will be a matinee of "The White Caps," the thrilling attraction which the French stock company is presenting at the Grand theatre. The play is founded on facts and proves that truth is stranger than fiction. No melodramatic writer could conceive a more exciting story than that of "The White Caps." Matinee Saturday.

Lyric: "Land of the Midnight Sun."

STREETS ARE CITY'S SHARE

United East Side Clubs Determined to Carry on Unrelenting Fight Until Portland's Shameful Thoroughfares Are Bettered.

"It is a fact that there are no streets too bad for Portland, nor none too costly. I have lived in this city for a number of years. I was born and raised here and ever since I can remember Portland streets have been the worst of any city I have been in."—Mayor Lane before the United East Side clubs.

Better streets for Portland. This year, next year and each succeeding year until the shameful thoroughfares of the city are put into decent condition. This is the slogan adopted by the business men of the east side, practically all of whom are represented in the United East Side clubs, and if the ordinance drawn up by the organization last night, after a vigorous discussion of the chaotic condition of Portland's streets, is passed by the council, the greatest fight ever waged in the city for better thoroughfares will be in full swing. There is evidence of street building in Portland being revolutionized.

Mayor Urges Speedy Reform.
"We have too many streets; 800 miles of streets is just twice too much," said Mayor Lane in addressing the business men. "But since we have them we are compelled to keep them up. I advise you to bring pressure to bear on your councilmen, cooperate with the engineer in drawing up an ordinance that will embody the best and most scientific methods of building streets. Streets must be properly drained as well as careful materials used and until we begin building our streets right we will always have poor streets." Councilman Knudsen instructed the committee how to prepare the ordinance and how to have it introduced. Mr. Knudsen pledged himself to introduce the ordinance through the ways and means committee after it had been correctly prepared by the committee with the cooperation of the city attorney and city engineer. He said he thought there would be little difficulty in getting the ordinance through if the whole east side would let the council know they desired to have the ordinance passed.

Keep Everlastingly at It.
Tom Richardson spoke at length on better streets and said the only way to get them was to pound everlastingly and forever on the subject. As long as the clubs insist upon taking up so varied a list of matters they will never be able to accomplish anything, he warned given by Mr. Richardson. He said the Commercial club had endeavored during the past few years to promote the construction of better buildings in Portland and as that movement had been highly successful the club would be glad now to cooperate with the east side for better streets in every part of the city.

The meeting of the federated clubs Tuesday evening was the best attended of any previous meeting. More was probably accomplished than has been the rule at the above meetings. Attendance was due to the thorough notice of the meeting sent out to each of the clubs by the secretary. It was the first meeting of this year.

WANTS ALASKA CASE HEARD IN PORTLAND

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 15.—Representative Humphrey has introduced a bill reintroduced a bill of last session providing for the hearing of Alaska appeals to either Seattle, Portland or San Francisco instead of merely at the California city as at present. Mr. Humphrey does not expect the same trouble that was encountered last year, although Representative Kahn of California has asserted his intention of opposing its passage. Mr. Kahn claims that the majority of appeals from Alaska are in matters of California interests and that the bill is uncalled for. Mr. Humphrey, however, has promise of strong support for the measure.

Noted Men to Speak.
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Columbia, S. C., Jan. 15.—If elaborate arrangements and amusements tonight for anything the annual dinner of this city will be one of the most notable functions of its kind that has ever taken place here. The guest of honor and chief speaker will be Charles H. Treat, treasurer of the United States. Other men of prominence on the list of speakers are President Finley of the Southern railway, J. A. Fox of Arkansas and R. Goodwin Rhett of Charleston.

To Preserve Battlefields.
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 15.—Representatives of the Canadian clubs throughout the dominion met in conference here today to discuss Lord Grey's proposal to convert the more important parts of the battlefields of the plains of Abraham and St. Foye into a national park, and to erect a monument to commemorate the reconciliation of the British and French races in Canada. It is hoped to raise a fund of $1,000,000 by public subscription to supplement the grants of the federal and provincial governments toward the undertaking.

satisfactory entertainment to its patrons than that which is occupying the boards at that popular theatre this week. "The Land of the Midnight Sun," which is a dramatization of Hall Caine's great novel, "The Bondman," is one of the strongest vehicles in which the Allen stock company has ever appeared. Every member of the cast is doing himself proud in the various roles and the result is a show that simply carries the people off their feet. Go tonight and enjoy this great show while there is still a chance. Matinees tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday.
