ELECTRIC LINE FIGHTS MAGNATE

Road Backed by Hill Will Extend Operations Into Harriman's Field.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., Jan. 15.—The railroad war between Harriman and Hill seems likely to give Pendleton and the western portion of Umatilla county an electric line much sooner than has been expected. The efforts of the O. R. & N. company to block the building of a spur track to the Peacock flouring mill at Milton by the Wallis Wallis Traction company has embittered this war, and the traction company, which is a feeder of the Hill lines, now declares that it will extend its lines to this city in the next two years.

It also declares that it will build to every important town and city in the inland empire now touched by the O. R. & N. company and a genuine railroad war and campaign of traffic hunting is anticipated in this section.

FROM LYLE TO PASCO

North Bank Opened for Train Operation Between These Two Points Yesterday—Work on Remaining 15 Miles Rushed.

The north bank road of the Portland and Seattle Railroad company was opened yesterday for train operation from Pasco through to Lyle, the junction of the Columbia River & Northern. The line from Vancouver eastward is open as far as Wind River, and track is laid from Lyle west to Underwood, leaving a gap of but 15 miles. This will be finished and trains running from Pasco to Vancouver in four or five weeks.

Tremendous energy is being thrown into the work of completion of the north bank road. The contracting firm having the entire construction in charge has been working on a cumulative plan of increasing the remaining forces on unfinished sections by concentrating upon them the forces discharged from completed work.

At one point on the north bank where a bench of the mountain opposite Cascade Locks is being cut off to make a 60-foot fill there are no less than 12 steam shovels at work within a few rods of each other.

This week—on the run—1,000 pairs of Men's Trousers. Prices run down, but the trousers as good as ever. All our trousers must find new owners this month. From $1 to $3 cut off the price of every pair.

the connecting of this network with the main line entering the city from the north.

This work will require but a comparatively short time, as the ground has only to be leveled and drainage provided.

No Hope of Consolidation.
At the present time there is practically no prospect of a consolidation of the Hill and Harriman terminals. The Harriman companies, which control by far the larger terminal facilities in the city, and nearly all terminals on the east side of the Willamette river, have positively refused to consolidate into one terminal company unless the Hill interests will make sale of their properties to the consolidated terminal company. The Hill people refuse to sell, and only offer to lease their properties for a period equal to the life of the Northern Pacific Terminal company.

Arguments advanced in favor of the Harriman position are that, in a consolidation, all the Harriman property on the west side would go into absolute ownership of the combined company, perpetually, as these properties are already owned by the Northern Pacific Terminal company. The Hill people, in acquiring one half of the consolidated company stock, would thus become owners of one half interest in the Harriman company properties.

The latter interests contend that it is no more than fair to ask that they in turn become half owners of the Hill properties in any consolidation of terminals, and that a lease is not ownership. They say that should they accept a lease of the Hill properties, under such a consolidation, they would be continually required to watch the Hill interests and encroachments that might be calculated to bottle up and injure the original Harriman company holdings, as the Hill people would contemplate separate operation of their own terminals again at the end of the lease period.

Holds Up Rail Work.
All other questions involved in the proposed consolidation are said to have been satisfactorily adjusted, and if the Hill people could be brought to agree to a sale of their terminals to the consolidated terminal company, the deal could be effected within 24 hours. All the papers relative to these negotiations are now in the desk of E. H. Harriman at New York, and he has declined to approve of a sale instead of a lease contract.

Meantime, the Portland & Seattle Railroad company is unable to build track across the Harriman tracks where it is absolutely necessary to connect the new Hill terminals with the Portland & Seattle Railroad company's main line entering the city from the new Willamette river bridge.

ULTIMATUM HANDED WASHINGTON ROADS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Olympia, Wash., Jan. 15.—Formal notice has been served by the state railway commission on the Northern Pacific, the O. R. & N., the P. & N., and the Great Northern that the commissioners, after considering the exceptions ruled 1 and 3 filed against their rules and regulations governing the transportation of passengers, have decided that the rules will be enforced as submitted to the different boards. All railroads are given until February 1 before the commissioners will prosecute for violations.

HARDBOILED TIP FOR EGG EATERS

Oregon, the Hen Fruit Producer, Imports 10,800,000 Unhatched Ciphers Yearly.

Professor James Dryden, the new poultry expert at the Oregon Agricultural college, has issued the first bulletin on the poultry industry in the state. It is a comprehensive report of conditions as they exist in the state and for the first time it gives an idea of the importance of the industry and compares it with others in the state and United States.

In order to give an idea of the importance of the industry Mr. Dryden quotes the figures from the government statistics issued by the bureau of animal industry, showing that until 1900 from 1850 the egg product of the United States was greater each year than the gold and silver output combined. These figures do not do the industry justice for the government counts only those products on the farms and none in the small towns and cities.

The poultry industry in Oregon is an important one, says the bulletin. "Its importance can be fully understood only by a study of the statistics of production, and the statistics, unfortunately, are not very complete. This state has collected no statistics of poultry products. The only reliable data we have is contained in the last United States census made in the year 1899 and the poultry and eggs produced in the villages, towns and cities are not included in the enumeration."

Egg Prices Advance.
"The average price of eggs per dozen in 1899 was 11 cents, in Oregon the average price in 1900 was 15 cents. The market conditions are favorable for increased production of poultry and eggs in this state. In few sections of the country are the prices of poultry and eggs better than they are in Oregon and the Pacific coast generally. At the present time (December) fresh ranch eggs are quoted in Portland at 40 cents per dozen wholesale and consumers are paying 50 cents. At this price a dozen eggs will about pay the cost of food consumed by the hen in a year.

That the markets here are better than in other parts of the country is shown by the fact that large quantities of eggs and poultry are imported from the middle west states. The writer has endeavored to secure reliable information as to the quantity of eggs that are shipped into this state from the east and has been only measurably successful. Commission men and others have been interviewed and it can almost certainly be said that 75 carloads of eggs came into Oregon in 1907. A car contains 400 cases of eggs, 20 dozen in each case, making 80,000 cases in 75 carloads.

Oregon Imports Large Quantity.
"These shipments come in the fall and winter when eggs are at the highest price, but they are storage eggs and do not command the price of local ranch eggs. Figuring on a basis of 75 cars of 80,000 cases at 25 cents a dozen, there were sent into Oregon last year $225,000 worth of eggs.

The information as to the importations of poultry are not as complete as I would like it to be. Estimates made by commission men and others vary from 5 to 20 cars of dressed poultry. About the best information obtained indicates that the product reached a value of $75,000 or $100,000 last year.

rural communities of the state are buying eastern eggs from Portland dealers. It is a condition undesirable that the poultry "farmers" of Front street, in Portland, should be selling eggs to the poultry raising communities of the Willamette valley.

Other Cities in Same Night.
"Seattle and San Francisco import a greater number of eastern eggs than does Portland. Still there were $500,000 worth of eggs imported to Seattle in 1906. The price of eggs in these communities is from 20 to 30 per cent greater than in Portland. A number of startling facts regarding the poultry industry in Oregon. Methods of incubation and a number of illustrations showing the extent of the development of the industry in the state makes the bulletin attractive. It will be mailed free to any resident of the state upon application to the college at Corvallis.

Golf Accident—Marriage.

(United Press Leased Wire.) New Haven, Conn., Jan. 15.—A romance which had its beginning on the golf links is to have its culmination here this evening when Miss Helen Carrington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Carrington, becomes the bride of Burnside Winslow of Philadelphia. The bride to be is a former national women's golf champion. When Mr. Winslow was captain of the Yale baseball team he was struck and stunned by a golf ball hit by Miss Carrington. Explanations followed, and the couple became engaged before Mr. Winslow's Yale course was half completed.

Engineers and Surveyors.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Champaign, Ill., Jan. 15.—The annual meeting of the Illinois Society of Engineers and Surveyors began today at the University of Illinois with a good attendance of members. President Charles B. Burdick opened the meeting this afternoon with his annual address. This was followed by papers dealing with laws for the prevention of stream pollution, municipal water supplies from streams of Illinois, the cost of constructing pipe sewers, and recent municipal improvements at Cairo, Illinois. The meeting will continue in session until Saturday.

Self-Recording Wireless.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Copenhagen, Jan. 15.—An apparatus for automatically recording in ink messages received by wireless aerial. This has been perfected by Waldemar Poulsen, the Danish scientist. For some time past the stations at Berlin and Newcastle-in-Tyne have been in communication with Poulsen's station at Lyngby, near Copenhagen, and using the new writing machine. The inventor claims that the experiments proved that the new method occupies less time than the cable. The rate of transmission averaged 25 words a minute, and the reproduction was most reliable.

Minnesota Poultry Show.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 15.—The annual exhibition of the Minnesota State Poultry association opened in Minneapolis today and will continue for one week. In many respects the show this year eclipses all of its predecessors. The exhibits are numerous and of an unusually high class. In conjunction with the exhibition there will be a meeting of the Northwestern branch of the American Poultry association, embracing Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Wisconsin and Montana.

Work for Local Option.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Dallas, Tex., Jan. 15.—Anti-saloon workers are doing their best to stop traffic from various parts of the liquor met in conference here today to discuss the preliminary steps in a local option campaign that is expected to be the most sweeping movement of kind ever undertaken in this state. It is proposed to carry out the campaign on strictly nonpartisan lines and to avoid any confusion with other political issues.
