The Holy Names society of the Redemptorist parish at Piedmont will celebrate the feast of the Holy Name tomorrow. The society will be one year old. After the religious ceremony a business meeting will be held during which officers will be elected for the ensuing year. Short addresses will be made by M. J. Keating, A. L. Morris and Edward Kling. The anti-treating movement is to come up and delegates will be appointed to attend the convention to be held January 30 at the cathedral.

A. H. Birrell gave a Scotch birthday dinner to his guest, James S. Stewart of Fossil, at the Oregon grill yesterday. Scotch dishes, Scotch wit and good fellowship made the dinner an event of brilliance. Mr. Birrell was assisted in entertaining by Judge Cameron and Alexander Cavin. Others present were John Lockhart, John Stewart, Kenneth MacDonald and the brothers Meikle from Butte, Montana.

The initiative course has been adopted by the North East Side Improvement association for procuring the immediate construction of a high bridge across the Willamette from the foot of probably Hansock street to the terminal yards of the west side. It was decided at a meeting last night to draw up the petitions at once so that a special election may be called as soon as possible.

Plans for a new church were adopted Thursday evening by the congregation of the Forbes Presbyterian in Albina. The foundation of the burned church if found intact will be used for the new edifice which will save the congregation nearly $1,000. It is thought the new structure will cost close to $15,000.

The size and cost of electric signs for east side thoroughfares have been determined by the East Side Business Men's club and will be purchased and erected as soon as possible. The signs will be erected over the streets leading to the Morrison, Madison and Burnside street bridges.

WATCH THE GAY BOYS

While Heney's shooting Fulton with a bullet hard as steel,
With a gun that has a barrel about 40 furlongs long,
Not a-caring in the slightest how the senator may feel,
Please don't forget to sing or shout the old familiar song,
Watch Out for Statement No. 1.
While Taft is whaling Foraker with all his might and main,
And the country looks approvingly to see the lash descend,
And the latter is a-squirming in his agony and pain,
It behooves us, brother voters, to courageously defend
The Primary Election Law.
As we're all rejoicing greatly 'cause so bright appears the way—
Not a cloud in sight in Portland that we're able to discern—
And the wily politician seems to feel so blithe and gay,
It is well this very moment for each one of us to learn
The Initiative and Referendum is in Peril.

R U THE OWNER OF THE U. R. ROAD?

Council Wants to Know If You Are Interested in United Railways.

Who owns the United Railways company? This is a question being asked by several councilmen, and to that effect Dr. W. I. Cottel urged the adoption of a clause in the company's franchise, which was up before the street committee of the city council yesterday, requiring the company to furnish the city a list of the officers and stockholders of the company on the acceptance of the franchise.

This was objected to, on the ground that the city charter requires holders and owners of franchises to make quarterly reports to the city auditor and to allow the auditor free access to the company's books at all reasonable hours.

While Herman Wittenberg appears to be the chief promoter of the United Railways company, there has always been a belief in the minds of the councilmen that other interests were behind the company. This belief has been further established in the minds of the councilmen by the failure of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company to send a representative to the committee meetings when the franchise was under consideration. Yesterday was the first time since the United Railways company has asked for a franchise that such a representative from the Portland Railway, Light & Power company was present at a meeting.

Although the franchise is one of the most valuable ever asked for, and would be a competing line with the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, there has thus far been no objection to the granting of the franchise to the United Railways company, and it seems unreasonable to some of the councilmen that the old company would allow the new one to come in without some opposition.

This belief is further strengthened in the minds of some of the councilmen because of the friendly relations existing between the Portland Railway, Light & Power company and a majority of the council. This opinion has become so strongly entrenched in the minds of a few councilmen that an effort will be made before the franchise is granted to determine whether the old company is the real owner of the United Railways company.

If this is true the Portland Railway, Light & Power company would be the owner of two competing lines, which it could operate separately, exacting two fares from the public instead of one. The expense of operating the new system would be nominal if run by the Portland Railway, Light & Power company, while the revenues would be greatly augmented by the increased fares brought into the city by the new line and transferred to the old lines at a cost of an additional fare to the passenger.

It is believed that if the United Railways company is compelled to furnish a list of the stock owners and officers the matter could be settled definitely at the outset. That this action may be taken before the franchise is ultimately granted to the new company is probable when the matter comes up in the council next week.

SCRIPTURAL MAGNET GREATER THAN OTHERS

Dr. Foulkes Refers to Uplifted Christ in a Scientific Light.

Dr. W. H. Foulkes closed his two weeks' revival services at the First Presbyterian church last night with a sermon on "The Magnet of Christianity." That concluded the extra meetings, but tomorrow night's regular service will be a consecration meeting to perpetuate the evangelistic spirit. The pastor's text last night was, "If I be lifted up from the earth I will draw all men unto myself." He said in part:

"If an ancient scientist were to be suddenly thrust abroad in this land tonight he would be speechless at the progress of the world, yet in his day they had the simple principles of scientific truth. They knew that if they rubbed a rod it would attract things. We are proud of our advancement, yet Edison tells us we have scarcely learned our alphabet and that the next 10 years will surpass the last 50.

"But we do know that there is some subtle connection between magnetism and electricity that we cannot explain. We use and control that connection but we cannot put our fingers upon it in the physical so why expect to do so in the spiritual world? We know that a magnet must have two poles and that some things may be temporarily magnetized.

"We know that the gospel of Jesus Christ has the power to draw men and despite the perversity of some of his followers and the attacks of disbelievers it has done a wonderful work for good.

"Gibbon gave as the five reasons for the church's growth, internal doctrine that was a relief from old religion, a close and compact organization, the working of miracles, the zeal of the early church and a stern morality. That is all right but how do you account for it that men possessed these powers so that in three centuries they honeycombed the Roman empire.

"Some say the magnet of Christianity is the church, which is but the body of which Christ is the head. Others say it is the word of God in the Bible but I say it is the uplifted Christ of whom the book is but the garment. It is the risen and sanctified Lord whose preaching persuades men of the reality of unseen things. He draws you by the two poles of divinity and humanity. He is both God and man with one hand reaching to you and me and one to the father.

"The uplifted Christ, raised by self-sacrifice above the clash of creeds, above theological discussions and the needs of earth to the ideal of the exalted gospel is the power. The Christian life that is not lifted up has no drawing power and the church that is not lifted up is exerting no great influence. Christ upon the cross with the arms stretching out—love and justice reconciled to a lost race—is the world's greatest magnet."

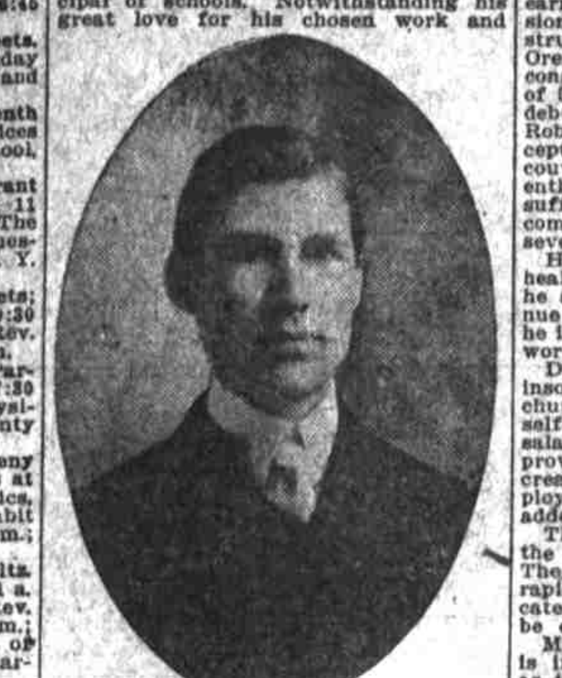
SKETCHES OF PORTLAND PASTORS.

F. Elmo Robinson, pastor of the Rodney Avenue Christian church, was born in Nebraska December 8, 1876. When a small boy he, with his widowed mother and a younger brother, removed to Michigan, where he grew to manhood. Mr. Robinson was educated in the public schools of Grand Rapids, Michigan, and later took a normal course at the Ferris Institute. He spent six years in the schoolroom as teacher and principal of schools. Notwithstanding his great love for his chosen work and his growing success as a teacher, he finally yielded to a stronger conviction that he ought to preach the gospel. He accordingly entered Olivet college where he received his training for the ministry. He was ordained to the Christian ministry at Cotner university, Lincoln, Nebraska, six years ago. His first pastorate was at Bradshaw, Nebraska, but having had his heart set upon the great northwest as his field of labor he came to Oregon five years ago. At the earnest solicitation of the state missionary board he took charge of the struggling mission church at The Dalles, Oregon. In less than two years the congregation grew from a membership of 60 to nearly 200, paid off the church debt and became self-sustaining. Mr. Robinson resigned at The Dalles to accept a call from the church at Vancouver, Washington, where he entered enthusiastically upon his work, but soon suffered a severe nervous collapse that compelled him to give up his work for several months.



Rev. F. Elmo Robinson.

Having sufficiently regained his health to resume his ministerial duties he accepted a call to the Rodney Avenue Christian church of this city, where he is just entering upon his third year's work.

During the two years since Mr. Robinson took charge of the work, the church has paid off its debt, become self-sustaining, increased the pastor's salary $200 a year, made important improvements on the building, greatly increased its missionary offerings, employed an efficient pastoral helper and added 142 to its membership.

The congregation is enthusiastic over the promising outlook for the new year. The growth of the Bible school and the rapidly-increasing congregations indicate that the building will soon have to be enlarged.

Mr. Robinson believes that the gospel is intensely practical and proclaims it as the panacea for all human ills. He believes in the drawing power of the uplifted Christ and to that end preaches him exclusively.
