

THE WAYS OF GETTING READY FOR VOYAGE SOLDIERS

JAPAN WAR Pamphlet Issued in London Which Tells Weird Story of Possible Conflict With United States—Creates Excitement.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
London, Jan. 18.—"The war of 1908 for supremacy of the Pacific," is what the author calls a pamphlet just issued here, describing the naval campaign so many European statesmen think inevitable between the United States of America and Japan.

The work is said to be by a well-known German New Yorker. The fact that though ultimate victory is awarded the United States, London is receiving the pamphlet with much enthusiasm, and the fact that the shifting of the popular favor from the "Little Bismarck" recently.

The volume opens with a letter from an American banker to a London friend, saying the collapse in American prices was engineered by "silk" New York financiers to cause gold importation into the United States and provide specie to pay for a war against Japan.

About the same time a Japanese naval officer writes to London that Evans' great fleet, with Manila as a base, would overwhelm the Japanese. Therefore, the writer says, the Japanese would try to crush the squadron on its way around South America.

With this preliminary, the story proceeds in a series of chapters, each dated to the London Times.

Evans' fleet arrives at Valparaiso February 20, and Evans turns his fleet toward Honolulu. There it is joined by the Wisconsin and cruisers and transports from the Golden Gate. The fleet sails March 13. Five days later, the Japanese fleet attacks Manila. Torpedo destroyers get into the harbor and sink an American battleship and two cruisers. The Japanese then destroy a large Japanese force lands at Belayan Bay and captures Manila.

Admiral Evans is attacked March 25, 100 miles from Manila by a Japanese flying squadron. The fact that the American search-lights always sweep the horizon ahead and never allow the Japanese to sneak among the ships from the rear and blow up two battleships and two transports. Two pursuing cruisers are suddenly engaged by several Japanese cruisers. The main American squadron responds to their wireless appeals, to find the entire Japanese fleet under Admiral Togo awaiting them.

Two American cruisers and a battleship are sunk and the Georgia, Louisiana and Virginia are captured. Evans retreats off the attack all the next day but retreats at full speed when the light is resumed, the ensuing morning.

Leaving all his transports and the damaged ships at Alabang and Kintucky, all of which surrender to Togo, Evans reaches Honolulu with his remaining eight battleships and two transports. He sends a message to the United States for help and sails for San Francisco.

There is a full in fighting. Meaningless currency of trouble between two South American countries, England sells eight, Germany six, France four, and Italy four battleships to some unnamed South American power. The vessels from France and Germany arrive at Rio de Janeiro May 25 and start southward on Argentine as the possible seat of the expected trouble. June 20, British and Italian purchases "make the same port and sail immediately. July 4 the world is electrified to hear the fleet has reached Panama and that the new republic is the real purchaser. The fleet is ordered to Panama congress votes to join the United States as a new state. American commissioners at Panama hold the challenging stars and stripes and the Panama congress votes to join the United States as a new state. American commissioners at Panama hold the challenging stars and stripes and the Panama congress votes to join the United States as a new state.

With twenty-six battleships preparing to leave Honolulu August 1 to meet the Japanese, the Mikado realizes the hopelessness of the struggle with such a mighty power and arranges a peace by which the Philippines are retained, all of Japan's armored vessels are made over to the United States and Japan humbly agrees to construct no more warships for ten years.

Then the Kaiser of Germany comes forward with this telegram to President Roosevelt:

"Congratulations you and American citizens on behalf of myself and the German nation at the conclusion of peace with Japan by which the yellow danger overshadowing Europe for fifty years has been finally removed. I am pleased to think that German youth purchased from me, helped towards this happy consummation."

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)
Washington, Jan. 18.—That the military service of the United States government is thoroughly alert to the possibility of war with Japan in the near future seems to be demonstrated in the appeals which are being made to the naval and military committees of congress for appropriations to be used in perfecting the fighting arms of the nation for any such emergency.

Prominent officers of the general staff of the army are of the opinion that the house naval committee are aware that if such a struggle should occur it would be titanic, and that the Japanese aside from financial matters, are well equipped for a struggle. For this reason extraordinary efforts are now being put forth to bring both the army and the navy up to what they should be.

Rear Admiral Mason of the bureau of ordnance of the navy recently had a hearing before the house naval committee pointing out the dire situation of this country so far as torpedo equipment is concerned, the importance of the necessary appropriations for such weapons, also of making large appropriations for remodeling the turrets of our ships in accordance with the design adopted after the occurrence of the Georgia accident, and of bringing all of the older batteries of the navy up to the latest designs of the newer ships.

Three Appropriation.

And while Rear Admiral Mason was testifying before the naval committee, a communication was laid before the house from the war department urging that appropriations be made for the next four years with which to provide an emergency reserve supply of 250,000 sets of uniforms for the army. These uniforms are of the newly adopted so-called "invisible" kind approved by General Duval and General Bell. The general staff of the army, all of the necessary sum of $5,537,500 to pay for these 250,000 sets of service uniforms is not asked to be appropriated in the event of war, there will be a special appropriation of $3,500,000 this year to begin work upon the assembling of such a supply of clothing.

In the event of war, there will be a call for about 250,000 volunteers at once, and it is desired to have a reserve supply of uniforms on hand all the time for use by the volunteers.

The plan now submitted to congress was adopted by the general staff on October 11 last by Quartermaster General Aleshire on January 7, and by the war department on last Friday, and was submitted in the form of a supplemental estimate, accompanied by letters from Secretary Oliver, General Duval, Bell and Aleshire.

The reasons for the plan as set forth by the general staff and signed by Generals Bell and Aleshire are set forth, partly as follows.

Uniforms Selected.

"After experiments extending over several years, a uniform has been definitely fixed for the army, the essential feature of which is invisibility. The uniform is made of all-wool olive-drab material for use in temperate and northern latitudes, and of all-cotton khaki material for use in the tropics.

"Having adopted this system of uniform, the fact must not be lost sight of that the color and kind of cloths are not found in the general market and the army have to be especially made for the purpose.

"Should war be imminent and the organization of a large army necessary, there would be absolutely no modern Albany, N. Y., Jan. 18.—Not since the administration of Governor Arthur, when the famous half-breed stalwart campaign resulted in Grover Cleveland being elected, has the Republican party been so beset as now in Governor Hughes' campaign and the fight of the Republican factions to control the delegates to the national convention. And Roosevelt elements have rallied to the Hughes banner, raised by self-appointed boomers, who still await one public word of encouragement from their champion.

With former Governor Frank S. Black, who placed Roosevelt's name before the last convention, allied with former Governor Odell and a practically complete state organization behind them, the Hughes leaders believe they can wrest the state from the Roosevelt men, represented by State Republican Chairman Woodruff, and Congressman Parsons' committee.

William Barnes, Jr., former chairman of the state executive committee today summed up:

"The convention nominates any man who is not an avowed antagonist of Roosevelt, his election will be highly improbable. The Hughes boomers realize the political situation to every man who does not bow down and worship the idol they have set up—and for what purpose? The control of the Republican party in New York state is in the hands of the Roosevelt men, and Hughes' followers, financially backed by Harriman and other great interests, who have obtained a positive refusal of Governor Hughes to accept renomination, will defeat his selection at Chicago. In the name of the Republican party, the work of demolition was done daily."

Others, however, who see the same final result, say Roosevelt will be elected for the next four years, and will force William H. Taft upon a community which they contend enthusiastically, favors the governor.

GOVERNOR OUSTED BY MAIDEN'S TEARS

Sheldon Flees From Wailing Girl Who Pleads for a Man's Pardon.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Lincoln, Neb., Jan. 18.—Stealing into the private office of Governor Sheldon, Miss Inga Anderson today threw herself at the feet of the executive and began an impassioned plea for the release of her father, John Anderson, who was convicted of the murder of Mrs. Sobbs, prayers and moans formed part of her pathetic appeal. Falling to her knees, Governor Sheldon darted out of the office. Miss Anderson came here from Alaska to plead the cause of her sweetheart, who was convicted of swindling.

AFTER THE GRIP

That is when the severity of the trouble is past, then comes a period of great danger. The patient continues in a weak, enfeebled condition, does not seem to rally, strength comes slowly. At this time Hood's Sarsaparilla does a grand work in revitalizing the blood and building up the strength so that all danger of attacks from other diseases is removed and health fully restored.

"Very weak. I had the grip and became very weak. I then took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it did me so much good. I now take it every season and regard it as a never-failing medicine."

Mrs. Anna H. Cooper, Titusville, N. J.

Could hardly walk. My husband was taken down with the grip, and when he was able to be up again he was so weak he could hardly walk. But Hood's Sarsaparilla made him strong and gave him an appetite. Mrs. M. H. Abbott, Wamsley, Ohio.

Hot Fight on Between Men Who Favor Candidacy of Governor Hughes and Those Who Are Backing Roosevelt's Choice.

SEND DYNAMITE TO JUDGE ADAMS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Cleveland, Jan. 18.—Judge George A. Adams of the juvenile court was the latest victim today of a dynamite plot which failed for some unexplained reason. A pasteboard box containing a pound of explosive was delivered to him by mail. The package, partly broken, roused his curiosity. He opened it, to be greeted by a note reading: "Look on this and see your end." The package returned to the postoffice without the judge discovering what its contents were. The dynamite was recognized and the police called.

VARDAMAN WANTS TO GET INTO SENATE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Jackson, Miss., Jan. 18.—Unless the plans of his friends go awry, Governor Vardaman, whose term expires Tuesday, will become a candidate to succeed Congressman John Sharp Williams from the eighth Mississippi district. His supporters are framing a petition for him to enter the race. They say if elected Vardaman can give up hope of a proposition to repeal the 14th amendment to the constitution that four years hence his election as the successor of Senator McLaurin will be almost a certainty.

REVIVED AT LAST

Emaciated Woman Restored by Proper Food.

The amount of harm done from eating food which lacks the nourishing elements or is in such form that the system can't absorb it, is much greater than a pastebord box containing a pound of explosive was delivered to him by mail. The package, partly broken, roused his curiosity. He opened it, to be greeted by a note reading: "Look on this and see your end." The package returned to the postoffice without the judge discovering what its contents were. The dynamite was recognized and the police called.

"I have been a constant sufferer from stomach trouble, constipation and neuritis for the past 14 years," writes a Michigan lady, "and the past year became tired of life, of everybody and everything."

"The best doctors and several weeks at a Sanitarium afforded me only temporary relief. Finally an attack of the grip caused me to give up hope of ever being well again. I was growing weaker and more emaciated every day. At last, a doctor advised me to try some food prepared by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. My stomach would stay on my stomach. My blood sent for some Grape-Nuts, of which I ate a little bit, and then awaited the usual result."

"My stomach did not reject this food, and from that time on for several weeks, I lived on Grape-Nuts and milk. I felt no pain whatever in my stomach, my health gradually came back and in five weeks I gained 25 pounds. I derived more strength from Grape-Nuts than I ever did from a meat and potato diet. There's a reason."

railroad enterprises that were only a part of the dream that Walsh dreamed. He had looked out over the valley of the Mississippi and he had builded in his mind's eye an empire of steel that should be greater than that of a Hill or a Harriman.

The government's attorneys showed the jury the processes of the memorandums notes for hundreds of thousands of dollars at a time, the notes signed with other men's names, the hundred and one devices for using the money entrusted to his banks by the depositors. Every step of the way the battery of legal talent employed by Walsh contested with them. But in the end he took the stand and admitted it all. It was for the banks' best interests, for the country's best interests, he said; and would say no more. They could believe him or they could think him a "Napoleon of Crookedness," but to all appearances Walsh cared not. He would stand by the ideas he had fought for, and fall with them if necessary.

The motion for a new trial will be argued January 28. Walsh expects to get it. If not, he will appeal. If he should lose the appeal, he will figure out some other channel for fighting. But go to prison? To himself he may have admitted the possibility, but to others he does not even confess that it is possible.

District Attorney Sims and Assistants Dobyns and Childs are elated over their victory. They think the verdict will stand. If it does, the law provides a penalty of from five to ten years. This may apply concurrently for all the counts, or it may be longer, with only 540 years as the extreme limit.

Judge Anderson will decide that after he has ruled on the application for rehearing.

The testimony against Walsh showed that he had used $7,000,000 of the money of his banks in promoting the Southern Illinois, the Indiana Southern and several other roads. The Chicago Daily Chronicle, the newspaper he acquired a big
