STATES WITHIN CONSTITUTION

Federal Judge Wolverton Declares State's Rights Are Subservient.

Eulogistic praise of Daniel Webster based upon a true appreciation of the great statesman's ability as an orator, lawyer, jurist and patriot was the theme of the speeches delivered at the seventh annual dinner of the American Patriotic club at the Portland hotel last night.

"We hear of state rights, but only of rights to be maintained within, not without, the union; of patriotic submission to the constitution, and of state rights to be fostered and perpetuated in consonance with the true spirit of that constitution—the supreme law of the land."

Judge Wolverton's remark was at the center of his speech in which he had quoted from Webster's letter to Horace Greeley, wherein the noted orator declared he would save the union in the shortest way under the constitution.

At the conclusion of his address Judge Wolverton was greeted with a hearty applause from those present, including representatives of the bar and business world of the city.

Following Judge Wolverton, Judge George H. Williams delivered the guest address upon the toast, "Daniel Webster."

His remarks were peculiarly adapted to the spirit of the evening and were delivered in a delightful vein. "American Oratory" was discussed by William B. Wheelwright in place of James B. McKee, who was unable to attend.

Mr. Clark also referred to the decision of the Missouri supreme court which, after due deliberation, decided that a certain well-known brand of beer was an intoxicating beverage.

At the conclusion of the dinner, for which 40 covers were laid, Judge Wolverton was elected president, General Charles E. Beebe vice-president, and George W. Hazen secretary.

LISTON HAD BEEN A STRANGE ACTOR

Baseball and Card Crazy, and Queer Otherwise—Went to Indiana.

Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 18.—Harry F. Liston, superintendent and general distributing agent for the Indian agencies of this state and charged with the sale of Indian lands, who is missing, it is said tonight, left three weeks ago suddenly to attend the bedside of his father, who is ill at his home in Indiana.

"Liston is missing, and whether there is a shortage in his accounts I do not know and am in no position to even hazard a guess."

For a year, and especially during the past six months, Liston had been acting very queerly. He seemed carried away with baseball and was very fond of cards, but whether he gambled or not I do not know.

That was the last heard from him and the word comes from Indiana that he has disappeared from there.

James J. Anderson, legal advisor of the Liston family, has made the following statement: "Liston is missing, and whether there is a shortage in his accounts I do not know and am in no position to even hazard a guess."

From the Chicago Tribune. The prophets predict that ere many years have passed there will be at least three railroads across the Andes, one of them trans-continental, the others connecting with steamers on the Amazon or its tributaries.

The line which now runs from Valparaiso to Juncaj in Peru is to be extended through a long tunnel which in five or ten years will be finished, and it will connect with an Argentine road at Mendoza.

The remarkable Central Peruvian road, which rises 6,000 feet in 50 miles from its terminus and crosses the eastern range at an elevation of 15,655 feet, will in no great time be ready to carry passengers to the Ucayali river; thence there is an 800-mile river journey ere the traveler reaches the head of navigation for ocean-going vessels.

At that place is 2,000 miles from the Atlantic. Another line, further to the north will greatly shorten the journey.

Mr. Clark also referred to the decision of the Missouri supreme court which, after due deliberation, decided that a certain well-known brand of beer was an intoxicating beverage.

ADMEN PUT OUT THE GLAD HAND

Visiting Brethren Royally Welcomed by Local Publicity Writers.

The Adman's Symphony. To rest content with small smokes; to seek sandwiches rather than ambrosias, and claret punch rather than absinthe; to be hungry, not ravenous; some wealthy, not broke; to brace up, come early, talk occasionally, applaud freely, to listen to gulps and jokes, to stifle and chestnut with open heart; to glad hand cheerfully; to hurrah bravely, welcome luncheon; smile ever—in a word to let comradeship, unbidden and unconscious, whoop up through the evening.—Chinning.

A smoker, a luncheon, an entertainment, music and speeches and everything else that constitutes a good time all combined, were the features of last night's meeting of the Portland Ad club in honor of the visiting members of the order from the northwest cities who joined the Portland meet here, on their way to Oakland to attend the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Advertising Men's association.

From the Astoria men the Portlanders were invited for an automobile ride on the finest natural roadbed in Oregon, from Astoria to Seaside along the beach, and with room for all who accept. All accepted. From Spokane came the information that the members were coming to Portland next summer in two special cars. There were good words from Lewiston, Idaho, Vancouver, Washington, where the member said he soon expected his town to outgrow Portland, and other cheering words from almost everywhere along the coast.

LATEST FIGHTER WITH TORPEDOES

Designers Conceive a Craft to Be Known as Torpedo Battleships.

Washington, Jan. 18.—Battleship designers and constructors of the navy department are discussing as a result of the recent improvements in the effectiveness of torpedoes, the development of a high speed, heavily armed vessel, tentatively known as a "torpedo battleship." It will have neither guns nor turrets, the sole means of attack being a number of torpedo tubes on either side, which can discharge at several hundred yards a powerful missile that can blow up any ship

SAYS ROOSEVELT WAS MISGUIDED

Army and Navy Register Has Hot Roast for the President.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—If this were Germany, the proprietors of the Army and Navy Register, the weekly journal devoted to these two branches, would probably be indicted for "less majesty" and other things, on account of caustic comment and castigation of the president contained in the issue of today. Commenting upon the Brownson-Rixey affair, the Register says: "Mr. Roosevelt's action toward Rear-Admiral Brownson was brutal. The language would be starting if the public were not by this time accustomed to such expletives. The fierce denunciatory passages in the president's letters concerning Rear-Admiral Brownson are characteristic of his source, much more could have accomplished for discipline by less strident, less hysterical and less defamatory reference to an individual. It is this sort of thing which has contributed to the discouragement of the personnel of both army and navy. No officer knows when his independence will be rewarded by a public reprimand, ordinarily misapplied, as if its object were a full-fledged criminal."

They strike. This discussion has been stimulated by the perfecting of maxims as a propelling power. It is admitted that three inch guns of the present type are of too short range to be effective against torpedo attacks. If the torpedo attains a range of 700 yards the present type of battleship would be helpless. On the other hand, the torpedo battleship, with its invulnerable armor, high speed and means of powerful attack, would scarcely be in danger.

WELLEN TO TELL ALL

Daniel O'Reilly, Counsel for Harry Thaw, Declares the Public Will Again Hear Recital of Young Wife's Story.

(Start News by Longest Leased Wire.) New York, Jan. 18.—Daniel O'Reilly, counsel for Harry Thaw, declared this afternoon that the story of Evelyn Thaw will again be told on the public witness stand despite the objections of the district attorney on whose protest the trial has been put over until Monday.

Mr. O'Reilly said he didn't believe Mr. Jerome was altogether sincere in asking for "private sessions" of the court. "Both my client and his wife would prefer a closed hearing, and I personally concur in Mr. Jerome's motion," said Mr. Littleton, discussing this same matter, "but the constitution of the state is so explicit in requiring open trials that believe there is little possibility of Justice Dowling ordering a private hearing."

Mrs. William Thaw came to the Tombs unexpectedly at noon today and had an hour's talk with her son. A few minutes after she left in her automobile Evelyn Nesbit Thaw arrived, but did not enter the jail. She sent a note to her husband and then rode away.

Thaw Restless. Thaw spent a very restless night in the Tombs, but was in cheerful spirits when he arose in the morning. He said he was not pleased with the sudden turning of his wife's testimony. He declared he believed that the names that are a necessary part of her testimony should be brought out and that no one should be shielded.

When Mr. Peabody called at the jail today he found the prisoner reading the newspapers and making notes of the proceedings. He immediately brought up the subject of his wife's testimony and surprised his lawyer by saying: "Justice Dowling was very wise when he refused to rule on Mr. Jerome's proposition to shut off Evelyn's story without careful reflection. You know, Peabody, that the big American idea of a prisoner's rights does not count in a chamber proceeding. They are not for these times."

Tuesday Evelyn Nesbit Thaw will probably go back to her cell, unless it should be arranged to hold the main details of her testimony in reserve until three physicians have sworn to Thaw's strange mental and physical characteristics at various stages in his early manhood.

These Doctors Attend. According to Dan O'Reilly three doctors who attend Harry Thaw while in Europe are now on their way here to take part in the trial. Two trained nurses are also coming to testify as to what they observed while attending Thaw during his visit to Europe. All are expected to arrive here by the middle of next week and their testimony, it is predicted, will add to the net work which the defense has been building up to show that Thaw was not mentally responsible for the killing of old teachers, Belle Morehouse Lawrence, who was with the prisoner when he was only six years old, has arrived here from San Francisco and is expected to testify next week. Evelyn Thaw talked of the short ordeal through which she passed while testifying in behalf of her husband.

BABIES COST THIS EMPLOYER COIN

Cafe Martin's Owner Offers Cash to His Men to Induce Them to Marry.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) New York, Jan. 18.—Upon striking a balance in his matrimonial ledger at Cafe Martin, John E. Martin found today that as an accelerator of anti-vice suicide he is making rapid strides for the medal.

Two years ago he offered $100 to each of the cooks, waiters and clerks who married, $50 upon the birth of each child in the family of any employe, $100 to the father of twins and $150 for triplets. During the year ending December 31, 1927, he paid out $5,150, and Mr. Martin says he is proud of it.

There were 26 marriages, 49 babies born into the families of employes and one pair of twins. Mr. Martin announces the same offer holds good for this year.

He says the most reliable employes are those who are married, and those who have the responsibility of children are still more so, and declares he will be the last to complain if he has to pay out double the amount this year.

Put the Sartoin into a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after it is cooled, strain through a fine cloth and add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

At this time of the year, owing to the varying diet, it is difficult to keep the face and neck free from eruptions. The simple formula below is given out by Dr. Jean Yallier, the renowned dermatologist of Paris, and is said to be the most effective obtainable for a complexion restorer and skin food, as well as for removing blackheads, pimples and blemishes.
