OVERWHELMED IN ROGUE'S RAPIDS

Boat of Two Over-Adventurous Strangers Found Below Perilous Waters.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Grants Pass, Or., Jan. 24.—Two men whose names could not be learned, but who were supposed to be miners on their way to the lower Rogue river gold district, loaded a rowboat with a supply of grub and a camping outfit and started down Rogue river from Grants Pass, intending to shoot the rapids. Report was received here yesterday that the boat, bottom side up, minus the men and supplies, was picked up by miners at Galice camp, 25 miles below here. It is supposed the boat was swamped in the terrible maelstrom and whirlpools of Hell Gate, between Grants Pass and Galice. The rapids of Hell Gate are considered far more treacherous and difficult to run than the White Horse of the Yukon. Very few men in boats built especially for Rogue river. BAKER REPUBLICANS ORGANIZING CLUB

Young Men Will Hold First Banquet on Lincoln's Birthday.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Baltimore, Md., Jan. 24.—That recent developments in Oregon politics has not chilled the patriotism and energy of the young Republicans of Baker county was illustrated when Henry M. McKinney, one of the native sons who was rocked in a Republican cradle and never strayed from his early teachings, circulated a paper among the young men of Baker for the purpose of starting a roll of members for the Republican club now forming.

February 12, Lincoln's birthday, is the date set for the club to have its first meeting, at which time a banquet and smoker will be embellished with speeches from Republican party workers from over the county.

Federation of Laymen. (United Press Leased Wire.) New York, Jan. 24.—A conference of the Church Laymen's union of the Episcopal church began in this city today and will continue over tomorrow. The union was given birth at a meeting held at the Episcopal general convention in Richmond last fall, when a number of the deputies and visitors met and discussed the work which the men of the church might do for missions. As a result of this conference a federative movement was started and organizations of men in New York, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Providence and other cities were formed. Now representatives from the various centers have met for a two days' conference to consider and coordinate the efforts of the laymen everywhere to help the missionary work of the church.

DRY FARMERS AT SALT LAKE CITY

Transmississippi Congress May Attack Public Land Policy of Country.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Salt Lake City, Utah, Jan. 24.—With delegates present from eleven states west of the Mississippi river representing practically all of the great territory included in the semi-arid and arid region of the country, and the state and territorial governments, the second annual meeting of the Trans-Mississippi Dry Farming Congress began its business sessions here yesterday. The sessions will continue through the remainder of the week, and during that time important action is expected to be taken looking toward the reclamation of the vast unsettled territory of the west that needs but a fully developed system of dry farming to make it blossom and bear fruit.

Not since the beginning of the dry-farming movement has so much interest been taken in the subject, and during the three days' session every phase of the problem will be discussed. Among the speakers will be governors and other public men of prominence, government experts on forestry and lands, and representatives of many commercial organizations and colonization movements. Delegates continue to pour into the city, every train arriving this morning bringing in scores interested in the work of the congress.

Papers bearing on the various phases of dry farming and the tremendous field for its development in the arid regions of the west will be read by a number of experts from the United States department of agriculture and by practical dry farmers from many states. It is expected also that the administration's policy with regard to forestry and public lands will be attacked and an attempt made to have adopted resolutions criticizing these policies.

Besides the discussion of methods for conserving the deposited moisture, the congress will deal with the selection of food plants best adapted to the region of partial aridity. The department of agriculture has covered the matter with its experts in a search of that character, and it has found something for almost every condition within the wide range of the United States. The results of these researches will form a portion of the information given out by the congress.
