

LITTLETON CARRIERS' CONFIDENT CAMPAIGN

Harry Thaw's Attorney's Only Fear Now Is That Court Will Send His Client to Insane Asylum for Rest of His Life.

Fifty-four Newspaper Deliverers of The Journal Start Contest for New Subscribers February 1—Winners to Be Given Prize.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Jan. 25.—Confident he has succeeded in proving to the satisfaction of the jury that Harry K. Thaw was insane when he slew Stanford White, Martin W. Littleton, his chief counsel, will now devote his entire time to an effort to keep him out of the asylum. He is combating the efforts of the district attorney as to Thaw's present mental condition.

Jerome will argue that if Thaw was crazy when arrested he is still so and endeavor to ask each expert witness testifying to Thaw's past insanity for his opinion as to the prisoner's exact mental state at present. This is just what Littleton wants to avoid. He has seen to it that neither Dr. Evans, Dr. Wagner nor Mr. Jelliffe has examined Thaw for a year. If Jerome has them, Littleton will argue they are not qualified to answer and he expects to be upheld.

Many verdicts are possible by this jury. They may convict of murder in two degrees, of the several degrees of manslaughter, or even of assault. While again it may return an unqualified verdict of acquittal, or acquittal for insanity when the crime was committed, or not guilty on the ground of insanity.

This latter verdict would require Justice Dowling to commit Thaw to a state hospital for the insane. If a verdict of guilty is returned Jerome will ask that Thaw be recommitted for examination as to his present mental condition.

In either event Littleton is prepared to fight. He will, if present plans are carried out, seek a writ of habeas corpus to obtain Thaw's release. Littleton is confident that Thaw can convince a commission that he is now sane and he expects to soon obtain freedom from him should this jury acquit on the insanity basis.

Littleton spent the day conferring with his witnesses who arrived on the Atlantic from abroad. They consist of English, French and Italian physicians and two nurses who cared for Thaw while he was ill abroad.

It's The Journal carriers to the front again.
Fifty-four of them, the busiest, brightest boys in Portland, will start the first of February, the month of carnival and jubilation with a contest to see which of the six teams of carriers can win the most new subscribers for The Journal.

The contest will last two months—through February and March and at the end the winning team will be given a prize in celebration of its victory.

Each team consists of a captain and eight boys. The entire city is divided into carriers' routes, each captain having charge of a district and each boy in a team carrying some route in the district. By this method the carriers are able to compare the results of their work and see which team is winning the new subscriptions.

If you ever saw 18 men contest a baseball game or 22 men try out their strength on the gridiron you have some faint idea of what it will mean when the Journal's carriers start out to see which of their six teams is the strongest.

Every boy on the force is going at it for the pride and glory of his team. Some captains have better districts than others—that is, their territory is larger—but that fact is often counterbalanced by the circumstance that there may not be so large a percentage of Journal subscribers in his rival's territory.

Here is the names of the teams and the boys in each. Glance down the number and see if your carrier's name is there. It is his help that he gets the prize for his team. He's probably a good friend of yours anyway, and if he is you will want to see that he gets the fair chance towards winning The Journal's prize. The teams are: No. 1, Ralph Bristol, captain; Bernard Mercer, Crawford Corbett, Fred Van Dusen, Harry Grayson, William Dibbern, Car Olopper, Clyde Sheets and Robert Sheldon; No. 2, Waldemar Link, captain; Reginald Fox, Horace Wilson, Francis Haffenden, Victor Niesderer, Albert Voorhies, Walter Wolfe, Cecil Spicer, Paul Cook; No. 3, James O'Connor, captain; George Delaney, Roy Camp, Max Sommer, A. J. Truesdell, Leroy Hall, Ralph Roberts, Franklin Funk, Lytle Young; No. 4, James Bain, captain; Artie Sussman, Harold Berger, Garrett Babitt, Miles Farwell, Clare Turner, Wallace Kaddery, Edward Pearing, Sterling Trumann; No. 5, Walter Krunkle, captain; Chester Wilcox, Ralph Jones, Otto Egan, Earl McCulloch, Frank Johnston, Fred Lester, Percy Miller, Charles Rapp; No. 6, Chester Owens, captain; Brooks Hanson, Raymond Castet, John Wilton, Lloyd Holmes, W. L. Churchill, Byron Wright, Earl Bernard, Vere Windnager.

PNEUMONIA FOLLOWING GRIP

Doctors Say Pneumonia is Most Likely to Follow the Grip if Neglected.
The after-developments of the grip, if the disease is neglected, include pneumonia, and are so serious, no victim of the grip should fail of prompt and careful attention. The best thing for every man, woman and child to do in an attack of the grip is to go to bed and get warm at once, take a cathartic—the best is Hood's Pills—for a free movement of the bowels, and counteract and neutralize the grip poison in the blood by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

Sick in Bed.—"My mother was sick and very weak from the grip. She finally consented to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and soon grew well and strong."
—Mary L. Burkart, Kirk, Colo.

Better Than for a Long Time.—"I was taken with the grip. The medicine given me did not seem to do me any good. I then took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it made me feel better than for a long time. I cannot praise Hood's too much."
—Nellie V. Freas, East Conshohocken, Pa.

OLD, PENNILESS; CUTS HIS THROAT

John Larsen of Wadena County, Minnesota, Found Dead at Tacoma.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Tacoma, Wash., Jan. 25.—John Larsen, an age Scandinavian, committed suicide some time this week by cutting his throat in the brush back of the Electric bunkers. The body was found today wrapped in blood-soaked blankets. A grip with soiled clothing in it was found nearby. Naturalization papers taken out in Wadena county, Minnesota, revealed his name.

Larsen was unknown here and Coroner Stewart believes he was a laboring man who was drifting northwest and found himself caught in the pinch of hard times.

To accomplish his end Larsen selected a hidden spot and wrapping himself in his blankets lay down in an easy position and put the knife to his throat. No money was found on the body.

VANDERLIP GROOMED TO SUCCEED GAGE

New York, Jan. 25.—The brief announcement that Frank A. Vanderlip, assistant secretary of the treasury and Secretary Lyman J. Gage, had succeeded James Stillman temporarily, as director of the Union and Southern Pacific railroad companies, as well as on the executive committees of those roads, has caused the report in Wall street that Vanderlip will soon succeed Stillman as president of the National City bank, the Standard Oil company's financial institution. Stillman, it is said, is getting old and wants to retire. Vanderlip has been groomed for the job ever since he came here from the cabinet.

FIGHT KNOCKED OUT OF RICHARD M'CURDY

Former Life Insurance Magistrate Not Looking for New Battles.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Morristown, N. J., Jan. 25.—"I have not come back to America with an axe for anybody, for I do not desire to take part in any fight for the control of the Mutual Life Insurance company," said Richard A. McCurdy, former president of the Mutual, at his home tonight.

McCurdy, accompanied by his wife and son, returned from a two years' trip abroad on the Amerika today. McCurdy is suffering from a slight cold contracted on shipboard.

He would not talk of the report that he intended to finance a fight in the courts in behalf of his son-in-law, Louis G. Tebaud, to compel an accounting by the Mutual for insurance alleged to have been written by Tebaud's firm prior to the change in management of the Mutual.

Asked if he had any interest in the Mutual, McCurdy replied: "Well, I carry a $200,000 policy, and am interested to that extent. I am 72 years old and I think that entitles me to retirement. I have no intention of engaging in any business again, but will pursue the 'simple life.' While abroad my wife was ill with rheumatism but now she has entirely recovered."

WOMEN DRIVE "DRY" VOTERS TO THE POLLS

W. C. T. U. Workers Plan Local Option Fight in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Jan. 24.—Carriages, manned by women, to transport voters to the polls, W. C. T. U. workers at the polling places and all-day prayer meetings led by women in every ward of Greater Pittsburg were some of the measures decided on by the Allegheny county W. C. T. U. today to aid the local option fight during the hours of the primaries on April 11.

Mrs. Emily Clarke Scott, state secretary of the W. C. T. U., formulated the prayer meeting plan.

"We want the voters to know that a group of praying women is within a stone's throw of every election booth on that day," she said.

The county union also ordered the distribution of great quantities of maps, specially marked to show the locations of candidates on the liquor question.

Carriages for the work at the polling places are to be furnished by wealthy women members of the organization.

SAILORS' SUNDAY GAMES ARE UPHELD

Secretary Metcalf Refuses to Heed Interference of the Philadelphia Ministers.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Sunday games in the League island navy yard will not be stopped, but the public will be excluded and prevented from witnessing them or participating in them.

This is the decision of Secretary of the Navy Metcalf, upon the complaint recently made to him by clergymen and others of Philadelphia.

The secretary holds that athletic exercises are required by naval regulations to improve the general condition of the men of the navy. Discretion as to how these exercises should be taken reposes in the commanding officers of ships and naval stations.

Obviously, such opportunities as can be obtained to have the enlisted men engage in such exercises upon shore instead of in the confined quarters of a ship must be taken advantage of.

Therefore, the secretary announces that the discretionary authority in the matter given to commanding officers should not be interfered with.

But there is no reason why these exercises should be made a public spectacle, he believes, and he yields to Sunday observance sentiment expressed by the Philadelphia clergymen, and recs that the yard be closed on 8 days while the exercises are in progress.

DEATH OF MAN WHO SLEPT IN ASTOR'S BED

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Jan. 25.—It was death that the man who a dozen years ago wearing rags, wandered into the home of John Jacob Astor, where, without moving even so much as his boots, 591 in Astor's bed before pneumonia was discovered, should die from exposure in a snowbank. A man, who said he was Edward Wilson, identified the body of the man known as Murp who was found dead in a snowdrift front of a lodging-house Friday morning, as Francis Joseph Smith, who said had been Astor's uninvited guest. The man had been a lodger in the home near where he died. He was once a locomotive engineer. He boasted having slept in Astor's bed. There were rumors that he once had wealthy relatives.

Saturday a woman, accompanied by young girl, both well groomed, called the lodging-house and inquired for Smith. They were told his body was in the morgue, but they did not go there.

ANGER OF ACTOR PREVENTS PANIC

Thought Rush of Audience an Affront, and Attitude Raises Laugh Which Calms Fears.

Pittsburg, Pa., Jan. 25.—Henry Miller mistook an ineffectual fire panic for a demonstration against him during the second act of "The Great Divide," at the Nixon theatre, last night. But the incongruity of the actor's error made the audience laugh so heartily that it forgot its fears for a minute, and disaster was averted.

Puffs of smoke from the basement of the theatre and the clang of the fire apparatus outside brought groups of people to their feet. Miller, who had the scene with Miss Anglin, strode forward, mad.

"An unmanly critic in Pittsburg has made trouble for me here before, and shouted Mr. Miller. 'Don't be as unfair as the critic.'"

Half the audience remained to hear Mr. Miller's explanation that he was "in wrong."

Burning grease in the restaurant beneath the theatre caused the trouble.

AMUNDSEN TO GO NORTH AGAIN

Norwegian Wants to Learn Whether the Magnetic Points Are Shifting.

(Best News by Longest Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 25.—Captain Raold Amundsen, the Norwegian navigator and scientist who was the first man to succeed in getting through the Northwest passage and who two years ago redetermined the position of the north magnetic pole which had been located by Sir James Clark Ross in 1831, is going back to the Arctic. He has already begun his preparations for the expedition, which will be undertaken by ship from the coast of Greenland.

The object of this second expedition is to verify the work here accomplished, and to accurately determine whether there is any shifting of the earth's magnetic poles. Monuments were placed by Amundsen on four sides of the pole at some distance away, and the scientist upon returning to them will use the same methods of observation and reduction as before, and so determine, by comparison of the results with those previously obtained, whether or not the pole has shifted.

Amundsen will return to Norway at the close of his present lecture tour, and it is probable that he will be ready to sail for the pole early next year.

MEXICAN GOVERNMENT DEPORTS YAQUI BRAVES

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Gaudalajara, Mexico, Jan. 25.—Three hundred Yaqui Indians, men, women and children, have just passed through the city en route from Sonora to the isthmus of Tehuantepec and Yucatan. Within the last two years fully 4,000 Yaquis have been taken through this city on the way from Sonora to the "hot country." The majority of the Indians have died on plantations in the Tehuantepec country and Yucatan. It is the government's plan to clear Sonora of all Yaquis, and the work of capturing and deporting the Indians will be carried on as rapidly as possible.

ROCKEFELLER HIRES AMERICAN LABOR

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Tarrytown, N. Y., Jan. 25.—Under orders of John D. Rockefeller, Superintendent Hemenway, of the oil king's estate, today dismissed all of the foreigners recently employed on the extensive estate here. Their places are to be filled with deserving Americans of this and other towns out of employment, as a result of business depression. Married men are to have preference. Several manufacturing plants here are on half time and others are closed. About 300 idle men, it is believed, will be put to work on the Rockefeller estate next Monday.
