

SEVEN WORDS FROM THE CROSS

Dr. Brounger Speaks on Love Having Its Own Way.

THIRD SERMON IN PASTOR'S SERIES

Wonderful Words Spoken by Dying Savior Appeal to Finest and Most Cherished Senses of Mankind—Show Christ's Motive in Life.

Rev. J. Whitcomb Brounger preached to a congregation at the White Temple yesterday morning which crowded the church to the limit and a few of those who gathered were forced to leave unable to secure admittance. Dr. Brounger gave his third sermon in the series entitled "Seven Words from the Cross." The subject was "Mother, Son and Friend, or Love Having Its Own Way," taken from the text, John 12:19-27. Dr. Brounger said in part:

"Jesus on the cross throws a wonderful light upon life and all its relations. No one can listen to the gracious words that proceed from his mouth in his dying hour and not know that the controlling motive of his life was love. How wonderful is the manifestation of love as he prays for his enemies. 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do.'"

"How marvelous is its expression as he swings the gates of Paradise open and says to the penitent praying thief on the cross at his side, 'Today thou shalt be with me in Paradise.' But how tender and sweet is its expression when he turns to make provision for the future welfare of his mother. There are three striking thoughts filled with overflowing love that are to be found in this third expression from the cross.

The Three Thoughts.
"The first is mother, and manifests a mother's love for her son. Thirty-three years before this beautiful young Jewish mother with a heart overflowing with love and joy brought her infant son to the Temple to offer him to God. She was the happiest mother on earth that day. Many tokens had come to assure her that her infant son was destined for greatness and honor. She had been assured by the prophetic vision of a clear-eyed saint that the child was indeed the Lord's Christ. But in the midst of the triumphant song and prophecy there came the minor key. 'Yes, sword shall pierce through thine own soul also.' The hour had come when this prophecy was being fulfilled.

Behind the cross in tears.
"The weeping mother stood, bent 'neath the weight of years, and viewed his flowing blood; Her mind with grief was torn, Her strength was ebbing fast, And through her heart forsook the sword of anguish passed."

"What must have been the feeling of Mary on this occasion? All the hopes of her coming generation, the expectation given her for his earthly honor, all the aspirations she had concerning the glory of his kingdom were now suddenly dashed to pieces, but her love never failed. She had suffered with him during the days of his persecution and stood close to the cross to sustain him by the fidelity of her love.

"There is an enduring tenderness in the love of a mother for her son that transcends all other affections of the heart. 'It can never be chilled by selfishness nor daunted by danger nor weakened by worthlessness or stifled by ingratitude.' Whatever may come she will love him to the end. If the world cast him off she will be all the world to him.

Son's Love for Mother.
"The second word is son, and manifests the love of a son for his mother. 'No son can ever repay a mother's love. Men of genius and piety seem

SUMMER DAY IN MID-WINTER TAKES THOUSANDS OUT OF DOORS

Portland homes were deserted yesterday. No excursions were more complete. The fathers and mothers, children, brothers and sisters, and health and sweaters went out into the sunshine to revel in the glories of a beautiful day.

The city park, the street cars, the paths over the hills and streets were filled with a happy, laughing throng that was an inspiration to visiting easterners. Memories of snow-blinded Broadway and gale-swept Michigan avenue haunted the minds of these visitors as they left their overcoats at the hotels and sauntered forth to join the crowds that were "taking the air."

Never was day more perfect and the atmosphere was as bracing as any atmosphere ever dared to be. Clear skies and bright sunshine in which the mountains loomed up in dazzling whiteness. Old Mount Hood topped all the others and was the center of attraction to the thousands who strolled about the city.

To add zest to the day's enjoyment hundreds of young people engaged rowboats on the river and rowed as far up stream as Ross Island and the Oaks. There was nothing in the way of summer sports or pleasures that were not participated in yesterday. The weather bars were down and everybody reverted to his favorite summer day amusement.

When the day was over the crowds lingered longingly out doors hating the thought of withdrawing into their homes with the cool of night. Those who stayed out late were rewarded by one of the most beautiful and showy displays of the most beautiful and showy in diamond-like brilliancy that formed a fitting climax to the day's beauty.

out of employment was advocated last night by Rev. James D. Corby at the Universalist church. He said in part: "There are practically 2,000,000 children in the United States engaged in gainful occupations. I believe in work for children, work for head and hand. 'Out of the motor does the best' so that the invention of a new machine will not drive them out of employment to despair and suicide. The prototype of the many printers out of work, and what befell them is facing the locomotive engineer; the motorman touches a button and the motor does the rest."

The certainty that the evolution of machinery narrows our men so that no one trade alone is really to be desired, makes it imperative that children be trained in versatility and thoroughness. The state is derelict when it leaves to private enterprise such as correspondence schools and the Y. M. C. A. the training of those who desire not only to make a living but to develop a life. Trade schools do not fill the need, though a broad treatment such as the State Agricultural school affords is headed in the right direction."

VERSATILITY NEEDED.

"The ancients represented friendship in art as a young man, bareheaded and carrying a spear, the symbol of activity and aptness for service. Upon the fringe of his garment was written 'Death and Life.' For either friendship is always the same. On his forehead was inscribed 'Summer and Winter,' for in prosperity or adversity friendship knows no change.

"The left shoulder and the arm were naked down to the heart. Over it were written the words 'Far and Near,' and the forefinger of the right hand pointed at them, for true friendship can never be impaired by time or dissolved by distance. Jesus knew that in committing his mother to John that the charge would be accepted not as a burden, but as a privilege. Friendship shows its strength as much by the readiness with which it accepts a gift or a burden as by the freedom with which it gives them.

"Never was there a more delicate expression of friendship than the act of Jesus in turning over his mother to the care and thought and love of his friend John. Jesus did not ask John if he were willing. He knew it. He took his devotion for granted and John gave back the proof of his great friendship by accepting graciously and gladly the gift. He felt himself honored above all men.

"Christ on the cross has sanctified every relation in life by the manifestation of his pure love. In him we may see how we may love our enemies and our neighbor as ourselves. In fact, his love has made every destitute woman an object of my thought and care. He has put every destitute man before me as my brother and every homeless child has become my child. His love has transformed the character of the home and made it the best, the happiest, the sweetest place on earth."

DRUNKENNESS A Curable Disease

Eminent Physicians and Scientific Men Agree That It Should Be Treated as Such.

Drunkenness is a progressive disease; the moderate drinker is not satisfied with two or three drinks a day, the craving for more and more becomes irresistible as the disease advances; the result is Chronic Alcoholism.

The treatment used successfully by thousands right in their own homes is Orrine. It is a scientific cure for Drunkenness and has given such universal satisfaction that it is sold under a positive guarantee to effect a cure or your money will be refunded.

This guarantee is given in good faith and is carried out to the letter. Orrine is not a new remedy; it has been sold by the leading druggists in every city for years. It has lifted tens of thousands from the depths to worthy manhood and has the hearty endorsement of grateful men and women in every state in the Union.

Orrine No. 1 is the secret remedy; Orrine No. 2 is for those willing to take the treatment. Either form costs $1.00. The guarantee is the same in either case. Write to The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C., for free literature on Drunkenness, mailed in plain sealed envelope. Orrine will be mailed sealed on receipt of price. Sold by the leading druggists in every town and city, and in this city by Clarks-Woodward Drug Co. and nearly all druggists in Portland.

the work is going on, and he suggested four points to be carried from the industrial association to the annual Oregon conference this spring. First, that churches in towns and cities shall cooperate as far as possible; second, that where one church is organized and the others are not, ministers use their influence to have all affairs with the other denomination; third, that Bible conferences, campmeetings and conferences be held at the same time at the campground of the Evangelical association at Jennings Lodge; fourth, that the Evangelical association increase the work of the training college, founded by the United Evangelical church, closing his appeal for union, Mr. Winter said:

EVOLUTION AND REVOLUTION.

"Evolution is a process—revolution is the consummation; the theory of evolution is that everything physical, industrial and political, is in a constant state of change, revolution means a revolting from the lower to the higher," said Walter Thomas Mills of Seattle, in his address before the People's Forum last night on "Evolution and Revolution in Modern Life." Continuing, the speaker said: "Reforms are not to be effected by antagonizing the present order, but by discovering where society is lagging right and quickening the processes of social and industrial evolution and thus carrying it forward to the next stage of revolution. Discover the trend of the social forces; use such power as you have to, so modify the result as shall be without harm to the conservative parties on both sides that the union of two branches of our own church. May God speed the day when we shall be one."

UNITING CHURCHES.

Pastor of Evangelical Association Speaks on Larger Church Union. Two significant events looking toward the union of the Evangelical association, United Brethren, United Evangelical and Methodist Protestant denominations took place yesterday. One was the sermon of Rev. J. Winter, pastor of the First United Evangelical church, who spoke on "The Larger Church Union," and the other was the adoption of a resolution in favor of union by the United Brethren church, on East Morrison street.

Rev. Winter gave cordial endorsement to the movement for united work by members of the four denominations, although the other denominations have tended in that direction, and particularly to the efforts of the men's club of the United Brethren church, which adopted a strong resolution last Tuesday.

Mr. Winter said that federation will be adopted in an unofficial way while

PORTLAND MUST SOLVE ITS OWN PROBLEM OF PROVIDING WORK.

Addressing the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, General Secretary H. W. Stone of the local association urged his hearers to stay in Portland, whether or not they have work. He declared that the police have no right to run anybody out of town because he has no work.

"If there is anything that is a disgrace to our American civilization," said Mr. Stone, "it is the chasing of a man out of town because he has no work. He declared that the police have no right to be here, even if they haven't jobs. Each city must face its own problem."

Portland has more jobs than any other city on the Pacific coast, the speaker declared, but there will be many unemployed men in the city because the man who is best able to hold a job is the man willing to work, who puts energy and good will into it.

M. Munroe of Fort Collins, Colorado, delivered an address at the meeting. He spoke from the text, "Therefore Get Wisdom."

GRANGE FAVORS PARCELS POST LAW.

The following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted by Washington county Pomona grange at its regular quarterly session held with Beaverton grange January 22.

"Whereas, From an article recently published in the columns of a Portland paper it appears that a certain business man, occupying, according to said article, the honored and responsible position of president of the Retail Hardware Dealers' association; and

"Whereas, This so-called business man seems to be ignorant of the well-known fact that the farmers, as a class, are unanimously in favor of a parcels post; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That Washington county Pomona grange, composed of representative farmers and their families, in session assembled with Beaverton grange this evening of January 22, 1936, do hereby most positively declare that we unconditionally favor a speedy enactment of a parcels post, and we ask our members of congress to use every means possible for the passage of the measure proposed, and to present it to the senate; and be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be furnished the press for publication."

CARRENO SEAT SALE WILL OPEN FRIDAY.

Next Friday morning, at 10 o'clock, at the Marquam box office the seats for the Teresa Carreno recital will go on sale, and as Carreno is the greatest artist living, and a wonderful favorite everywhere it is safe to predict a splendid lineup for the event. The recital will be on the following Monday evening, February 3, at the Marquam theatre under the direction of Lois Steers-Wynn Coman, and is the third in their fine series.

Carreno has just made her appearance, after several years of living abroad, but the old man paid no attention to any of them.

PIONEER OF POLK DIES OF OLD AGE.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Dales, Or., 27.—Thomas Bailey, an old and respected resident of Polk county, died at his home about a mile east of this city Friday night, aged 84 years. The cause of death was general debility and breakdown on account of advancing years. He was born in Indiana and came to Oregon in 1848. He first bought and settled on a farm in what is known as the Polk Station district, living there until about 10 years ago, when he moved to Dallas. He leaves a widow and five children.

FELT FOOLISH WHEN HE GOT ANSWER TO INNOCENT QUESTION

"Say," said one of the guests to the clerk at the Hotel Portland yesterday, "who's that fellow with a gray suit I see around the lobby so much."

"What floor is he on?" the clerk asked again with a view of solving the mystery. "The second, I think," answered the inquirer, "and if I'm not mistaken he is in room 213."

CHILD'S FACE RECALLED TO OLD MAN PAGES OF FORGOTTEN HISTORY

An old man whose head was streaked with gray, his face flushed and a certain unmistakable look of disipation about his features, sat on a bench in the plaza yesterday afternoon, apparently enjoying the sunshine and spring-like atmosphere.

Thousands of pedestrians, young and old, passed to and fro along the thoroughfares, but the old man paid no attention to any of them. Finally a woman leading a little child

BAD BLOOD

"Before I began using Cascarets, I had a bad constipation, pimples on my face, and my food was not digested as it should have been. Now I am entirely well, and the pimples have all disappeared from my face. I can truthfully say that Cascarets are just as advertised; I have taken only two boxes of them." Clarence B.
