Operations Will Also Be Resumed at Rich Highland Property.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Baker City, Or., Jan. 31.—The old Virtue mine is again in operation with every prospect of turning out a big quantity of metal, under lease by C. P. Somis & Co. Mr. Herbert was in the mill yesterday and said that the stamps of the mill had been dropping for the last ten days and that 200 tons of ore had been milled. The mill started in the afternoon and will be kept dropping without cessation during the whole term of the lease, which for six months more if feasible to both parties. The ore that is being milled is high grade.

Under the reorganization recently effected at the meeting of the stockholders of Baker City, the Highland Gold Mines company has been placed in a position to resume operations at Rock creek. Thomas Kennerly, a prominent mining man of Sumpter district, has been chosen as manager.

Mr. Kennedy was in the city yesterday arranging for supplies and men will once start active work on a crosscut tunnel and deeper workings.

From every standpoint the future of the Highland Gold Mines company looks encouraging, and great things are expected with the development work that it will do.

WOMAN STARVES AT BAKER CITY

Town Which Boasts of Having No Poor People Loses Reputation.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Baker City, Or., Jan. 31.—In the heart of Baker City, which has proudly boasted that it was a city without poor, Mrs. C. A. Carrott was allowed to starve to death Tuesday evening. Neighbors knew of her destitute condition but were afraid to aid her, believing she had smallpox. The woman had been living alone in a tumble-down cottage in Willowvale. Monday she complained of pains in her stomach but did not tell her neighbors that it was caused by lack of something to eat. The report was spread that she had smallpox and only one woman, Mrs. Bastian, dared enter the house. This woman discovered the true state of affairs and notified the police. Before the officers succeeded in arousing themselves to action Mrs. Carrott was dead. Although the dead woman had lived here for several months little was known of her. It is said she has four children but it is not known where they live. Baker City gained the reputation for being a city without poor a year ago last Thanksgiving when C. M. Mullen, a prominent mining man, bought 50 turkeys and publicly offered them to any worthy poor families who needed a feast. He was unable to dispose of a single turkey in the manner he had planned and was finally forced to bestow his gifts on his personal friends.
