

PRESIDENT WANTS WAY

Roosevelt Will Call Extra Session of Congress Next Summer Unless Legislative Reforms He Recommends Are Adopted.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—There is an impression based on excellent foundation that President Roosevelt is considering calling congress in extraordinary session this summer if it adjourns without attempting to safeguard what he considers the welfare of the people.

If this step is taken it will mean that congress may be kept here during the entire time of the nominating conventions and the campaign, those who have talked with the president in the last few days believe he will not quietly submit to a do-nothing policy by congress, but will insist upon an enactment of an employer's liability law and continue to urge strengthening the Sherman anti-trust and Elkins law.

Politicians now interpret the president's red-hot message of yesterday that there must be a separation in congress of sheep from goats, that is a call for friends of the administration to stand by Roosevelt and notification to the politicians and public that if Secretary Cort cannot carry out his presidential nomination, the president will take it himself.

Roosevelt's closest political friends say he is more determined to carry out his policies and although they admit there is open warfare between the congress and the president they believe Roosevelt will win.

The president's message promises to be more than a nine-day wonder. Representative Henry Cavert, tonight bitterly attacked the president for his recent utterances against large corporations.

It seems as though the chief purpose of every publication by public and private individuals recently, has started, is to fan the flames of the discordance and economic unrest. President Roosevelt's denunciations of predatory wealth, highway fortunes and evil corporations have been such as to create general business distrust and alarm, yet, when the recent financial crash came the men labeled as manufacturers of great wealth came to the rescue.

This was Ohio night at the Waldorf-Astoria and two recognized candidates for the presidency sat at the long dining table—Joseph Benson Foraker and Judson Harmon.

Judson Harmon made a strong speech against government ownership of railroads although admitting governmental supervision has much to commend it. He declared that the railroads do not follow a new plan and more emphatically safeguard the interests of the nation, government ownership will be forced.

"The management of railroads must be either private or public," he said, "and any attempt to mix the two will be harmful both to the public and the railroads. This would, therefore, have to mean government ownership and I do not think the country desires this."

There appears to be every probability that Iowa Republicans, when they meet in state convention in Des Moines in March, will endorse the Taft candidacy. Both factions of the party are said to be agreed on this.

CROWN PRINCE IN TRAINING FOR THRONE

Berlin, Feb. 1.—Notwithstanding the official declaration of the renewed health of the Kaiser, it is noted that the crown prince now takes active part in conferences with the chancellor, Von Buelow, on national affairs. The crown prince contemplates a voyage to Cort in February when, it is probable, he will be accompanied by the empress.

There appears to be every probability that Iowa Republicans, when they meet in state convention in Des Moines in March, will endorse the Taft candidacy. Both factions of the party are said to be agreed on this.

MAUD IS OUT AGAIN.

The Oregonian, as a looker-on in politics, thought not a party advocate, will go ahead on an easy canter or career round the field, and sometimes perhaps make short cuts across it, asking nobody.—Oregonian editorial, February 1, 1906.

COLD SPELL'S BACK BEGINS TO BREAK

With the temperature turning a trifle milder last night there is little hope of good skating here unless the wind conditions sweeping in from the east. Last night was not as frigid as Friday night and today will probably be milder than yesterday.

District Forecaster Beale predicts a continuation of fair weather, easier winds surrounding the city, and believes that the worst of the cold spell is over.

At no time since the cold wave hit the city has the temperature fallen below 26 degrees above zero and the cold would not have been felt much had it not been for the biting wind in the higher altitudes surrounding the city.

The monthly meteorological summary of the weather bureau for January which was completed yesterday shows that last month enjoyed a higher temperature than the average, the mean for the month being 42 degrees, whereas the average is 43. The precipitation was about 2.4 inches below the average of 6.61 inches.

Kelso, Wash., Feb. 1.—Cold weather has been experienced for the past two days and nights, the thermometer registering as low as 12 degrees above zero. The days have been bright and during the middle of the day the ground thaws where the sun has a chance at it. Much trouble has been experienced from freezing water pipes, few of them being protected against such weather.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Walla Walla, Wash., Feb. 1.—Zero weather is prevailing in the Walla Walla valley tonight. It is clear and bitter cold, and the weather office predicts the temperature will fall far below zero before morning. Some fear is felt that fall wheat will be frozen out owing to the lack of snow.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Pendleton, Or., Feb. 1.—Eastern Oregon is experiencing the coldest wave of the present winter. Last night the thermometer stood at five degrees below zero and it is as cold tonight. At La Grande and Baker City it has been ten below zero and there is every sign of continued cold. Many water pipes have been frozen and the plumbers are kept busy.

HEYMAN'S WILL BE PROSECUTED "SEE AMERICA" TO BE SLOGAN

Health Board Sharpens Ax for Criminal Practices of X-Radium Institute. Commercial Club Will Bring Democratic Delegates Here From Denver.

Through the discovery of a forged death certificate in the city health office city authorities will institute criminal proceedings against Ernest Heymans, manager of the X-Radium Institute. Action may also be taken later by the district attorney's office against Heymans and others for performing criminal operations.

The action is expected to follow the report of Dr. Esther C. Pohl, city health officer, who placed the case before the city health board at its meeting yesterday morning.

Dr. Pohl stated to the board that after an investigation she learned that the forged certificate in question had been made out and signed by Heymans, who signed the name of Cora Talbott to the certificate. Further investigation by Dr. Pohl resulted in the disclosure that Dr. Talbott's given name is Carey and not Cora.

Upon questioning, Dr. Talbott asserts that she did not give Dr. Heymans permission to make out the certificate in her name. Heymans insists that she did, and to the contrary she asserts that Dr. Talbott was in charge of the case displayed a written statement which he claims was made out by Dr. Talbott and signed by the young woman the day she was brought to the institute conducted by Heymans.

Because of the conflicting statements made by Heymans and Dr. Talbott the authorities will not proceed until such convictions will follow.

As a result of the efforts to conceal such cases by institutions of this sort the matter will be taken up by the state and county medical society with a view of arriving at a definite line of action on which to prosecute. An effort will be made to revise the state law so that it will be comprehensive enough to allow the prosecution of such quacks and fakers can escape.

As it is, members of the city health board will not be able to prosecute the case until they have carried it through all the courts, where there may be a possible chance of securing a conviction. The members at yesterday's meeting placed themselves on record in insisting that the present case be prosecuted with all the vigor of the law.

MOTHER PROHIBITED FROM SEEING CHILD

The arrest of Mrs. Maggie Cummings and Gus Goodes on a statutory charge some time ago and the sentence of the latter to the penitentiary under parole is to have its natural sequence in the divorce court. Suit for separation was begun against the woman yesterday by Daniel L. Cummings.

Cummings was married in this city in March, 1904, after a previous matrimonial experience, which he in various ways the same way as the present entanglement. He blames Goodes, who is a Greek restaurant keeper, for breaking up his home, but the circumstances of the case were such that Judge Gantenbein, before whom the latter pleaded guilty last Friday, regarded the case as a proper one for parole, in view of the conduct of the wife.

Cummings' attorney yesterday secured an order giving the custody of his two-year-old child to the husband, and restraining the wife from visiting the child or interfering in any way pending the suit for divorce.

The usual order giving the custody of children to the mother in such cases was departed from because of the mother's notorious conduct.

Poisoned by Tiger Whiskers. From the London Globe. The recollection of a well-known big game hunter in India is stated that after skinning a tiger it is necessary to guard its whiskers, as the natives have an unpleasant habit of cutting them up, and mixing with the curries of the country they dislike.

The finely divided bristles set up an irritant poison, the results of which are often fatal.

The 89 United States senators now serving, 22, or nearly one fourth, have affiliated as governors of their states. Ten of the 22 are Republicans and 12 Democrats. The senatorial delegations from Arkansas, Vermont, Louisiana and Tennessee have been the chief executives of their respective states. Twelve are from the southern states and comprise nearly one half of the south's representation in the senate. Four are from the middle states and two from the western states.

C. O. P. SPEAKERS

Cleeton Stands Up for Statement No. 1; Bronaugh Favors Initiative.

At the initial meeting of the Sixth ward Republican club held last night in Jones hall, Front and Gibbs street, between 75 and 100 South Portland residents listened to political speeches by C. M. Idleman, chairman of the Republican county central committee, Judge Isaac C. Bronaugh, T. J. Cleeton as a number of speakers.

Chairman Idleman announced that he was not there to commend the direct primary law, but that it had done great damage to the Republican party but that it was the duty of every good citizen to uphold the law until it has had a chance to prove itself.

T. J. Cleeton announced in his remarks that he strongly favored the direct primary law, Statement No. 1 and the initiative and referendum. He said that he was not a Republican in principle. It means that the affairs of government will be placed in the hands of the people, where they properly belong.

The statement made by certain Republicans and newspapers that the direct primary law has resulted in turning over a number of the most important offices in the state to the Democratic party is essentially unfair and untrue," said Mr. Cleeton, continuing. He declared that the party had paved the way for its present disorganized condition long before the direct primary law was ever thought of in Oregon, and that it was enacted for the very purpose of correcting the evils of the old convention system in this state, which had proved so disastrous to the Republican party.

He declared that the party had paved the way for its present disorganized condition long before the direct primary law was ever thought of in Oregon, and that it was enacted for the very purpose of correcting the evils of the old convention system in this state, which had proved so disastrous to the Republican party.

Judge Bronaugh advised the Republicans of the Sixth ward to uphold the primary law. He said that the initiative and referendum, saying that he found many good things in the law and believed its enactment to be a long step in the right direction.

The organization of the club was perfected by the election of Willis Fisher, president; George E. Street, secretary; B. J. Jones, treasurer. On motion it was voted that the regularly elected committeemen from the Sixth ward shall constitute the executive committee of the newly organized club. The chair announced that at the next meeting a committee on constitution and by-laws will be appointed. Finance committee was appointed with L. Carnestonson as chairman.

Frank Hennessy and the Sixth ward club rendered several musical selections.

FLIRTY HUSBAND PUT TOWELS IN HER MOUTH

Kept on Flirting, Too, Despite Wife's Protests in the Matter.

Alleging that her husband is such a flirt that his flirting drove her to nervous prostration from loss of sleep and worry, Maud W. Potter has begun suit for divorce from Samuel A. Potter. She says he kept on flirting despite her protests, and that when she protested too strongly he would fly into a rage, in which condition he was almost insane with anger.

Three times within the last month there have been stormy scenes in the Potter home, according to the wife's complaint. On January 10, she says he became angry because she protested against his telephoning to other women and threw a towel around her mouth. She says he uttered terrible oaths and threatened to wring her neck. Finally she escaped his grasp, she says, and ran from the house.

On January 27, she says, her husband struck her and threatened to cut her throat and that of their three-year-old child. Three days later, she alleges, he attempted to choke her and threatened to "fix" her. She says she has supported her husband, as well as herself and child, during the last two years. She and Potter were married in San Francisco more than four years ago.

BURIED 17 YEARS, BODY OF WOMAN PETRIFIES

Limestone Spring Near a Grave Turns Corpse to Stone.

Shilpsburg, Pa., Feb. 1.—At the disintering of the body of Mrs. Sarah Geist at the old Mennonite graveyard, Ringgold, Mason and Dixon line, the body was found to be petrified and so heavy that it was lifted from the grave with much difficulty.

There were only a few traces of the coffin, but the entire body—face, hands and feet—was perfectly preserved. Even the folds of the garments were hardened so that they remained as when the body was buried, 17 years ago.

The grave is in low ground, close to a limestone spring, the water from which saturated the soil and converted the body into stone.

FOUR THOUSAND IN TAXES ON FIRST DAY

The close of the first day of tax paying yesterday placed over $4,000 in the county's strong box, and tomorrow the rush of eager taxpayers is expected to begin in earnest. All of the money yesterday was in small driblets, as none of the heavy property owners presented themselves.

Sheriff Stevens heads the roll of honor, being the first to pay his taxes. The other first payers, in the order named, were Joseph Worthheimer, J. A. Dill, C. H. Wilcox and Mrs. C. O. Reynolds.

One man offered $200 in postoffice money orders in payment of his debt to the county, the money orders being relics of the late financial disturbance when he, like many others, put his funds into money orders for safe keeping.

Couldn't See the Sport. From the Minneapolis Journal. Two ambitious but inexperienced golfers were recently battling over the Commonweath Country club, and they went fairly well, although bogey remained practically intact, until they reached a lee overlooking a pond. Each drove furiously, then cautiously, half a dozen balls into the murky depths of the pool. Standing near by was a little girl, stupid but curious, and when the twelfth ball had plunged to rise no more, she queried blankly, but sincerely, of "Say, mister, what is the fun in this game?"

Days of Long Sermons. From the Kansas City Star. In Lincoln county, Missouri, at Mount Zion, a hamlet of two or three stores, is the only church of the Associated Reformed Presbyterian faith to be found west of the Mississippi river and north of the Arkansas line. The sermons have three heads and the hour for the second church service is "early candle lighting." Captain J. A. Reid, ruling elder in the church, says that the brick building in which the congregation, numbering about 150, now meets was erected in 1821.

Holiday Coins Return to Bank. From the Boston Herald. "Nine out of every ten persons in the line are here to get gold pieces in use as Christmas presents," said a savings bank man, pointing to a long line of people waiting at the window of the paying teller's window.

"And the funny part of it is," he added, "that the bank man said every year he gives them out about $3,000 in gold in the day or two immediately preceding the holiday. Most of this money is given within the family circle, and the rule is that the members of the family soon come back to the bank with the identical pieces to be credited to their respective accounts."

"And this was her answer: 'I knew how to forget disagreeable things, I tried to master the art of saying pleasant things. I did not expect too much of my friends. I kept my nerves well in hand, and did not allow them to bother other people. I tried to find any work that came to hand congenial.'
