Portland Dog Fancier Believes He Has at Last Proceeded Properly.

Fred W. Wagner, who has been advised by J. P. Norman of the Pacific advisory board of the American Kennel association to bring charges against the Seattle Dog Fancier's association for non-payment of a trophy, is having difficulty in filing his complaint. Wagner has not been able to get his papers met with the objection that his papers were not in the form required by the constitution of the kennel association.

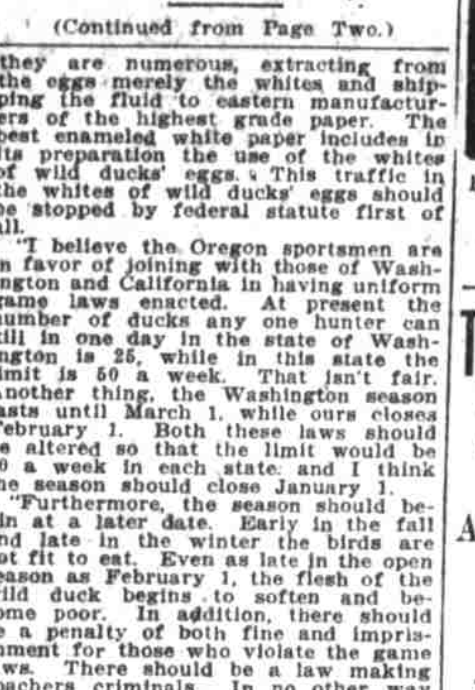

Yesterday Wagner filed the third time and he believes now that he has complied with all regulations and that he will receive satisfaction.

Wagner was ignorant of the rules of the American Kennel association and he did not know his charges correctly. The first time he had not acknowledged the complaint before a notary, and the second time the complaint was sent back because it was not accompanied with the fee of $10. These qualifications have now been complied with. According to the rules of the association, if the charges are substantiated the money will be returned; if not, the $10 remains in the treasury of the association.

In his complaint Wagner alleges that he won a silver cup at the Seattle dog show last spring offered by Butterworth & Son, of which he has been unable to obtain possession. He is bringing the action to compel the Seattle association to come through with the trophy. Wagner to apply for the trophy, and the president and the directors of the award to substantiate his claims.

COAST MEN BRING MANY ANIMALS WITH RECORDS.

Circuit Opens in Pasadena This Month With Prominent Judges Looking Over Entries—Chase Will Exhibit Boston Terriers.

Three hundred dogs or more will be shown in Portland at the spring dog show, giving a rating of four months points toward the winners' championships. Never has such interest been apparent and Oregon fanciers are writing to the kennel club people for additional information along show lines. Among the correspondents are many farmers, who are raising fine dogs for their own amusement, and from present indications the countryside will be well represented.

Secretary Chase of the local club is in correspondence with Seattle and Vancouver relative to securing a judge and was instructed to apply for the dates, April 29, 30 and May 1 and 2, for the annual show. It is very probable that George Thomas of Hattis, Mass., Massachusetts, one of the best known eastern judges, will officiate at the show.

Mr. Thomas is at present in England, where he went to judge the national terrier show in London the middle of January. He is bringing home with him a number of celebrated terriers and dogs of other breeds which will be shown at the New York show the middle of this month.

Club to Own Benches.

The local club will also take up the matter of owning its benches, as it has cost in the neighborhood of $600 to bench the show, and the president, David and the other officers are very anxious to do away with this heavy loss each year.

An innovation at the coming show will be the handsome rosettes and ribbons which will be awarded the prize winners in the various classes. The rosettes will be stamped with the class and award and will make an attractive prize.

At the coming annual show of the Westminster Kennel Club in New York City, the middle of this month, over 300 dogs will be benched, representing $1,000,000 worth of dogs.

Many of the most famous dogs in Great Britain have been brought over to American customers by the promoters of the show, and it is expected that many of the most famous dogs in America will be shown at the coming show. The judges from all parts of Europe and America will pass upon the different breeds and thousands of dollars worth of cash and other prizes will be awarded to the winners of the different classes. This will be the greatest dog show, as to numbers and quality, ever held in the United States and will even exceed the great Crystal Palace show recently held in London, England. Following this show will be the Westminster Kennel Club show at Boston, where considerably over 1,000 dogs will be on exhibition, and the show will extend only to the great New York show.

Fancy Grows on Coast.

Here on the Pacific coast the doggy fancy is rapidly growing and several hundred dogs are being shown each year by coast fanciers since the shows of last year. Several prominent California fanciers have spent large sums of money in the purchase of dogs, and the week after the show at Pasadena, Washington, has purchased the champion, but the show at Pasadena, and will show her through the coast circuit. She is in the east at present continuing her winning streak. She will meet soon competition, however, here in the west and will have to be in her best shape to meet her.

Among the other eastern winners that will be seen at some of the coast shows are the Irish terrier dog, Endcliffe (Irish), and the English bulldog, which is now owned by Mr. Herr of Los Angeles. The English bulldog, which was brought by John Bradshaw, who bought the dog and twenty other splendid eastern winners to Los Angeles last month, will be shown at the coming show at Pasadena. The English bulldog, which is now owned by Mr. Herr of Los Angeles, will be shown at the coming show at Pasadena. CRACKS IN COLUMBIANS IN FINAL CONTEST OF PAGANS.

Hornet Soccer Team Beaten in Clever Game by 4 to 1 Score.

FINAL SOCCER LEAGUE STANDING.

Team.	Won.	Lost.	Points.
Columbian	6	0	12
Crescents	2	4	4
Hornets	1	5	2

A bagatelle of spectators saw the Crescents take a brace and harass the Hornets in a 4 to 1 victory in the last league game of the association football league series yesterday afternoon. The Hornets were weakened by not having Simmonds, Andrew Matthew, Dean and Mackenzie, but pressed the Crescents sufficiently hard in the last half to score one goal, cleverly made by J. K. Mackie. The victory gave the Crescents second place.

It was almost certain, in view of the strong wind blowing down the field, that the team winning would roll up a few goals in the first half, but the Hornets were not to be so easily won. The Crescents were right for the Crescents and Kilpack and Hanson, on their forward line, at once began making things so hot for the Hornets that they were unable to allow anything like a hard shot, and Cummings negotiated trouble the two three attempts that did come between the posts. Meanwhile the Crescents tallied twice more, leaving the score at half time 2 to 0.

Lively Scrimmage Commences.

Things looked in the second half as if the Hornets relying on the strength of their defense, started to press hard. Their defense men, however, failed in many instances to allow for the kicking over the line. Instead of into goal or to their forwards. This cut off a number of chances, while many.

Several nice shots came to Cummings, who got them all except one that J. K. Mackie sent through an out-of-the-way corner. Kilpack and Hanson were prominent among the victors. The defense against the wind, for the Crescents and a hot shot from their wing turned by Honeywell and Hanson scored the second chance at it. Score, 4 to 1.

Hines and T. K. Mackie were the towers of strength for the Hornets defense. Harry Matthew, who played back for a time in the first half, surprised the onlookers by his aggressiveness in that position. J. D. Hines was forward and Stevenson at forward showed that he knew the fine points. Kilpack, Hanson and Hines were most prominent among the victors. Lineups: Crescents (4)—Goal, Cummings; back, Hines and Jarro; half, Lund, Steele, Challis; forwards, Kilpack, Hanson, Lawson, Honeywell.

Hornets (1)—Goal, Keith; backs, Hines and J. D. Mackie; half, Taylor, Dickson, J. K. Mackie; forward, H. Matthew, Whitesides, Stevenson, McNichols.

DUCK HUNTERS

they are numerous, extracting from the eggs merely the whites and discarding the fluid to eastern manufacturers of the highest grade paper. The ducks are raised in the state of Washington, and the whites are included in its preparation of the use of white of wild ducks' eggs. This white in the whites of wild ducks' eggs should be stopped by federal statute first of all.

"I believe the Oregon sportsmen are in favor of joining with those of Washington and Idaho in having uniform game laws enacted. At present the number of ducks any one hunter can kill in any day in the state of Washington is 25, while in this state the limit is 50 a week. That isn't fair. Another thing, the Washington season is in the month of January, and February 1. Both these laws should be altered so that the limit would be 50 a week in each state, and I think the season should close January 31."

"Furthermore, the season should begin at a later date. Early in the fall some ducks winter in the north, and are not fit to eat. Even as late in the season as February 1, the flesh of the wild duck begins to soften and become watery. In addition, there should be a penalty of both fine and imprisonment for those who violate the game laws. There should be a law making poachers criminals, and their prey can be lawfully taken."

The law pertaining to the sale of game birds in the northwest, which wild ducks are sold. You can buy them in some of the restaurants and grills. You cannot buy them in all grills, however, and the law is not uniform. It is fair. It excludes you from getting your wife a wild duck if she is ill, and you cannot buy them if you are to get her family wild duck every week. He has the proper stand in.

The law should be changed so that ducks could be bought in the northwest, should be strictly enforced by a penalty of imprisonment. No true sportsman will oppose this proposal, for no true sportsman will sell his birds.

"Again, I think the clubs should prohibit the use of 'automatic' and 'pump' guns, but a man who uses an 'automatic' gun and I will show you a 'game-bag.' In fact, I believe those who use 'automatic' or 'pump' repeaters will soon stop their preserve, because the noise will scare away the game."

Mr. Campbell exhibits the rules of the Oregon Duck club, of which he is a member, as ideal rules. Two of the rules that he thinks should be enforced by the duck clubs are as follows:

"Repeating guns known as 'pump' and 'automatic' are prohibited from use on the grounds of this club, and this rule will be binding also on visiting members."

"The use of intoxicating liquors in the clubhouse or on the grounds of this club is positively prohibited."

"Oregon has ideal duck shooting," continued Mr. Campbell. "I have purchased in many states, and I think that in Oregon the conditions are more nearly perfect than in any place I have been. The weather is ideal, and everything else is satisfactory."

If the sport can be improved, the sportsman who really has his interest at heart has a duty to do. He should improve it, for if they don't, the sport will disappear entirely, as it has in other states. I should not like to see the sport for duck hunting in the great west stop."

TOM TRACEY TO GIVE SMOKER IN FEBRUARY

All-Weight Event in Amateur Boxing Will Be Big Feature.

The February smoker of Tommy Tracey's Columbia Athletic club promises to be the biggest thing in the amateur boxing line seen in Portland in many moons. Tommy announced last night that it would be an all-weight card, which means that there will be six events on the program.

All of Tracey's boys will be seen in the squared circle and many amateurs of local reputation will be present and participate in the events. The heavies, middles, welters, lights, feathers and bantams will be evenly matched and some interesting bouts can be expected.

Gene Sullivan, the young amateur who has created such an impression for his finished work in the northwest, will be one of the attractions, provided he is in the city on the date of the smoker.

Just what night will be assigned to the smoker has not definitely been decided upon by Tracey, but it will probably be about the middle of the month. At the last smoker the crowd was so great that the seats were not adequate and upon the next occasion accommodations will be available for several hundred more spectators.

The tourney will be open to any amateur boxer in the city and applications can be sent to the Columbia Athletic club at any time between now and February 15.

SPORTING NOTES

Local and Otherwise.

The Oregon Yacht club will hold a smoker Tuesday night, February 4. The invitations announce that the members are to bring their male friends and not to worry about being hungry or dry. An excellent program has been arranged for the entertainment of the guests.

Yale university has given up the professional coaching plan for the graduate system and Billy Lush, head coach, finds himself out of a job. Tad Jones, captain of the team, will guide the Blue during the coming season.

Tex Ricard of Goldfield, Nevada, who brought off the great fight between Joe Gans and Battling Nelson, is to the fore again as a prizefight promoter. Ricard informs Sam Fitzpatrick that he will make a bigger offer for the Burns-Jackson fight than any other club manager can give. Fitz expects Burns to win through the first of April, when negotiations will be concluded for a fight.

Kid Scaler is about as yellow a lemon as has been plucked from the citrus garden for several weeks. The Spokane writer had lost white going through a swamp. He writes: "I have given up hope of getting another pair now that that are as good as the old ones, or if I get any every good pair of boots is stolen."

The letter had traveled back and forth through the post office, and the envelope was almost worn through.

All-Weight Event in Amateur Boxing Will Be Big Feature.

The February smoker of Tommy Tracey's Columbia Athletic club promises to be the biggest thing in the amateur boxing line seen in Portland in many moons. Tommy announced last night that it would be an all-weight card, which means that there will be six events on the program.

All of Tracey's boys will be seen in the squared circle and many amateurs of local reputation will be present and participate in the events. The heavies, middles, welters, lights, feathers and bantams will be evenly matched and some interesting bouts can be expected.

Gene Sullivan, the young amateur who has created such an impression for his finished work in the northwest, will be one of the attractions, provided he is in the city on the date of the smoker.

Just what night will be assigned to the smoker has not definitely been decided upon by Tracey, but it will probably be about the middle of the month. At the last smoker the crowd was so great that the seats were not adequate and upon the next occasion accommodations will be available for several hundred more spectators.

The tourney will be open to any amateur boxer in the city and applications can be sent to the Columbia Athletic club at any time between now and February 15.

SPORTING NOTES

Local and Otherwise.

The Oregon Yacht club will hold a smoker Tuesday night, February 4. The invitations announce that the members are to bring their male friends and not to worry about being hungry or dry. An excellent program has been arranged for the entertainment of the guests.

Yale university has given up the professional coaching plan for the graduate system and Billy Lush, head coach, finds himself out of a job. Tad Jones, captain of the team, will guide the Blue during the coming season.

Tex Ricard of Goldfield, Nevada, who brought off the great fight between Joe Gans and Battling Nelson, is to the fore again as a prizefight promoter. Ricard informs Sam Fitzpatrick that he will make a bigger offer for the Burns-Jackson fight than any other club manager can give. Fitz expects Burns to win through the first of April, when negotiations will be concluded for a fight.

Kid Scaler is about as yellow a lemon as has been plucked from the citrus garden for several weeks. The Spokane writer had lost white going through a swamp. He writes: "I have given up hope of getting another pair now that that are as good as the old ones, or if I get any every good pair of boots is stolen."

The letter had traveled back and forth through the post office, and the envelope was almost worn through.

PORTLAND SHOW WILL SEND WINNERS FOUR POINTS UP IN CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Portland Dog Fancier Believes He Has at Last Proceeded Properly.

Fred W. Wagner, who has been advised by J. P. Norman of the Pacific advisory board of the American Kennel association to bring charges against the Seattle Dog Fancier's association for non-payment of a trophy, is having difficulty in filing his complaint. Wagner has not been able to get his papers met with the objection that his papers were not in the form required by the constitution of the kennel association.

Yesterday Wagner filed the third time and he believes now that he has complied with all regulations and that he will receive satisfaction.

Wagner was ignorant of the rules of the American Kennel association and he did not know his charges correctly. The first time he had not acknowledged the complaint before a notary, and the second time the complaint was sent back because it was not accompanied with the fee of $10. These qualifications have now been complied with. According to the rules of the association, if the charges are substantiated the money will be returned; if not, the $10 remains in the treasury of the association.

In his complaint Wagner alleges that he won a silver cup at the Seattle dog show last spring offered by Butterworth & Son, of which he has been unable to obtain possession. He is bringing the action to compel the Seattle association to come through with the trophy. Wagner to apply for the trophy, and the president and the directors of the award to substantiate his claims.

Circuit Opens in Pasadena This Month With Prominent Judges Looking Over Entries—Chase Will Exhibit Boston Terriers.

Three hundred dogs or more will be shown in Portland at the spring dog show, giving a rating of four months points toward the winners' championships. Never has such interest been apparent and Oregon fanciers are writing to the kennel club people for additional information along show lines. Among the correspondents are many farmers, who are raising fine dogs for their own amusement, and from present indications the countryside will be well represented.

Secretary Chase of the local club is in correspondence with Seattle and Vancouver relative to securing a judge and was instructed to apply for the dates, April 29, 30 and May 1 and 2, for the annual show. It is very probable that George Thomas of Hattis, Mass., Massachusetts, one of the best known eastern judges, will officiate at the show.

Mr. Thomas is at present in England, where he went to judge the national terrier show in London the middle of January. He is bringing home with him a number of celebrated terriers and dogs of other breeds which will be shown at the New York show the middle of this month.

Club to Own Benches.

The local club will also take up the matter of owning its benches, as it has cost in the neighborhood of $600 to bench the show, and the president, David and the other officers are very anxious to do away with this heavy loss each year.

An innovation at the coming show will be the handsome rosettes and ribbons which will be awarded the prize winners in the various classes. The rosettes will be stamped with the class and award and will make an attractive prize.
