WASHINGTON'S OIL FEVER IS REVIVING

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Olympia, Wash., Feb. 4.—The first applications for leases of state lands for oil development that have been filed since the death of the oil fever in this state about three years ago were filed in the office of the state land commissioner yesterday. Two tracts a few miles from...
...plied for, one by the Sparks-Martin company and the other by the Waukesha Oil company of Spokane.
Several years ago, hundreds of oil corporations were formed in this state and wells were bored without results in many localities. The legislature met when the fever was at its height and passed a law which permitted the leasing of state land for all purposes, the lessee to pay not less than 10 per cent royalty on the gross value of the oil sold from the land. Many main barns with horse barn and dairy were contemplated but it was found the structure as desired could not be built within the appropriation of $7,000.

CONTRACT FOR BARN AT STATE COLLEGE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Olympia, Wash., Feb. 4.—As the result of the second call for bids for the construction of the new farm buildings at the Pullman State college, the board of control has awarded the contract to E. C. Martin of Spokane, for construction only the main barn for $5,775. A main barn with horse barn and dairy structure as desired could not be built within the appropriation of $7,000.

Fighting Saloons

(United Press Special Wire.)
Richmond, Va., Feb. 4.—Encouraged by the gratifying progress made by the prohibition movement throughout the south, a host of enthusiastic delegates swarmed into Richmond today prepared to make the seventh annual convention of the Virginia Anti-Saloon league the most successful in the history of the organization. The preliminaries of the convention took place in the First Baptist church today and the regular sessions will be held in the same place tomorrow and Thursday. Prominent league workers from Maryland, Georgia, North Carolina, Ohio and other states will be heard. One of the special features of the program will be an address by Governor Glenn of North Carolina.

Wisconsin Fruit Growers

(United Press Special Wire.)
Madison, Wis., Feb. 4.—Men and women who know the orchard and its products from A to Z filled Gail hall this afternoon at the opening of the annual convention of the Wisconsin State Horticultural society. Every part of the state was represented in the attendance. The initial session was given over to the address of President R. J. Coe of Fort Atkinson and the reports of the other officers and representatives of the local societies. The feature of the program this evening will be an illustrated lecture by C. E. Meller of Milwaukee, prominent as a landscape gardener. The convention will continue until Friday.

Money to Fight Cattle Tick

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—The commissioners of agriculture of nearly the southern states are in Washington preparatory to appearing before the agricultural committee of the house tomorrow to urge an increased appropriation for the eradication of the cattle tick. Secretary Wilson is understood to favor an appropriation of $150,000, an even larger amount will be urged by the commissioners, who will acquiesce in the committee with the tremendous task the south suffers because of the tick.
