By appealing to the circuit court from the decision of the viewers regarding damages to her property by the opening of a new road on Portland Heights, Mrs. Isabella M. Barnes hoped to obtain a substantial payment from the city, but the verdict of the jury that heard the evidence yesterday disappointed her. The viewers declared her benefits exceeded the damages by $33, and the jury cut the figures in half, finding that her property is $41 gainer by the new highway, which connects Terrace drive with Montgomery street.

CHURCH NOTICES

APPEAR TOMORROW

Notices of services at the various churches in the city, which generally appear in Saturday's issue, will be published in tomorrow's paper. The change is made necessary this week owing to lack of space.

FATE OF THE FAMILY PET.

The mother taught her darling boy to love both himself and her, and the child, like the dear little tot that he was, never offered at all to be parted from her. It was a long time till he ruled the whole house, and often that mother did fret.

but he never bothered about that at all, for he was the family pet, and he stole from the purse that his mother concealed—twas cunning, and elegant fun—by a package of cigarettes and a 44-caliber gun.

KELLAR CHOSEN FOR NEW HOTEL

Former Manager Waldorf-Astoria Will Be in Charge of The Cornelius.

N. M. Kellar, who opened the Fairmont in San Francisco, former assistant manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, and who has managed the St. Regis and the Knickerbocker hotels in New York city, will in all probability be the new manager of the Cornelius, Portland's newest hotel, which is to be opened within the next six weeks.

Mr. Kellar is at the Oregon hotel having arrived here several days ago to consult with Dr. C. W. Cornelius regarding the opening of the new hotel. The building was originally leased by Clinton A. Harrison, but several weeks ago he made other arrangements and withdrew from the contract.

Since then Dr. Cornelius has had three offers from parties desiring to operate the new hotel, but he has practically decided to run the hotel himself with Mr. Kellar as manager. As soon as the deal is completed Mr. Kellar will begin making all arrangements for the opening.

Mr. Kellar is one of the best known hotel men in the country. At the time the Fairmont in San Francisco again passed into the ownership of the Palace hotel estate controlled by Mrs. Herman Heichs there was also a change in the management. Sidney Ackerman prevailed upon Mr. Kellar to come to Portland with a view of taking the management and his visit here and the probability that he will take the management of the hotel is particularly adapted to be made home-like and up to date in every way. The building is the finest on the coast. Entrance of the hotel is as fine as any small hotel in the country.

The Cornelius, Alder and Park streets, has 100 rooms, 40 suites of which are provided with bath. It is seven stories in height and equipped in every way with all modern conveniences. It was built by Dr. Cornelius at a cost of something like $300,000. The grill or rathskeller is one of the features of the hotel.

Workers are now putting the finishing touches to the interior of the building and within a few days the task of furnishing the lobby and rooms will begin. It is expected that the new hotel will open for business some time in March.

HEARTY GOOD WILL EXTENDED TO PASTOR

Dr. Brougher Tendered Reception by Friends and Members of Church.

"Dr. J. Whitecomb Brougher's fourth anniversary in Portland as pastor of the White Temple was celebrated last night, the reception being given under the auspices of the reception committee and the ushers of the church. The building was appropriately decorated for the occasion, and during the evening refreshments were served by the young women members.

The speakers were all laymen and represented different phases of the city's life. Among those who spoke were H. W. Stone, T. W. MacDaniel, John E. Carroll, Tom Richardson and Dr. Brougher himself. During the program Miss Ethel Snes, Miss Kathleen Lawler and Mrs. Walter Reed sang songs. Afterward Dr. and Mrs. Brougher shook hands with the several hundred persons who attended.

"Everybody likes Brougher, even if they are shocked sometimes by his methods," Mr. Stone said, "and they believe in his sincerity and know that he is a man who does things." The Y. M. C. A. believes in him. He is an association man. As soon as he came to the White Temple he made the Y. M. C. A. a part of his work.

Mr. MacDaniel spoke on behalf of the other denominations of the city and the Municipal association. "I bring you greetings," Dr. Brougher, said to the speakers, "from 125 churches and 25,000 members or constituents, who rejoice with you and wish for your church and this city that you may be here for the next 40 years."

DISHONESTY

Experts File Report After Close Examination of the Title Guarantee & Trust Company—Report Shows Dishonesty.

An elaborately compiled report embodying the results of an examination of the affairs of the Title Guarantee & Trust company by E. H. Collis, assisted by Seneca Smith, for the federal court, and J. W. Ferguson, for the district attorney has been filed. The attorney-general is also furnished with a copy of the report. Concluding their report the examiners ask the question: What caused the failure of the Title Guarantee & Trust company? They answer their own question in the following language:

"Incompetent and extravagant management, excessive loans and dishonest officials."

The report comprises their findings upon a list of 47 exhibits showing the various questionable transactions as shown on the books by the preliminary examination. They do not attempt to pass upon the value of any of the assets. The stock holdings are shown, the disbursements, the various accounts are brought out, and transactions between the different officers and departments and subsidiary companies are given. The facts shown have a great extent been already published in the newspapers.

The examiners show overdrafts from various outside parties on the bank department of the company, and that $177,788 was due the bank from the general department of the company. They assert that a considerable amount of business was done between the various departments and favored by the board of control of the federated trades council to succeed Paulina McDonald. Mr. Harris is an all-around newspaper man. He is a member of the local Typographical union and has owned several small publications in the state, among them the Mount Scott News. He has always been interested in labor and economic questions and has been prominent in the labor affairs for the past seven years.

The offices of the Labor Press are to be moved from their present location on First street to a more central place further up town.

Sign Petitions at Once. In the numerous addresses that followed the presentation of the figures for possible demand and advance for a bridge was discussed. The mayor pledged his support. Hugh McGuire, vice-president of the Commercial club, promised to put the matter in the possible light before his organization. W. M. Calk will give his assistance.

The location of the bridge was not discussed. The city council will be expected to call a special election to fall on the same date as the general election in June at which time the people of the entire city will have an opportunity to register their will in the matter.

Professional Six-Day Race, Oaks Rink Tonight. See the big race tonight! The night—Oaks rink. Card had the good luck to be following Kruse as Kruse fell, so he again finished in first place. Copland and Holt followed close at his heels. Schwartz and Farrell stole a lap on the bunch last night and got the best applause of the week. Brown took a bad fall, but regained his time, and also did some of the best sprinting ever seen at the Oaks. Harrison and Little held their own. Race continued tonight at 9 o'clock and tomorrow afternoon and evening. A special five-mile race against time.

NEW BRIDGE OR NOT?

Rousing Meeting of East Side Residents Expresses Determination to Provide Structure Across Willamette in Shortest Time.

If any doubted there would be a $2,000,000 bridge started across the river below the steel bridge within the next 18 months their doubts were dispelled by the enthusiasm displayed at the meeting held last night on Russell street in the Woodmen of the World hall. At the close of the meeting when the question was put to the 500 people present whether action should be taken to petition the council at once for such a bridge the shout that went up nearly lifted the roof. There was not a dissenting voice.

A long list of able speakers was called upon by Judge M. G. Munly, president of the North East Side Improvement association. Governor Chamberlain, Mayor Lane, W. M. Calk, W. Boise, Joseph Buchtel, Councilman Ruskait, Hugh McGuire, Thomas G. Greene, Dan McAllen and C. K. Henry, were called upon and all with one voice pledged their hearty support for the project. Mr. Henry was the exception. He asked that an effort be made to enlarge and widen the steel bridge and if that could be done he himself would support a high bridge. But a committee had already investigated that question and found it impracticable.

Section is Important One. Judge Munly had prepared statistics and figures to show the relative importance of that portion of the city to the city and the growth of the city within the last two or three years. He demanded the construction of the bridge. According to Judge Munly's figures more than one-fourth the population of the entire city of Portland lies north of Sullivan's gulch.

Based on his estimate upon a total population of 235,000 inhabitants, Judge Munly stated that 112,000 of them live on the east side and 60,000 north of Sullivan's gulch. To give an idea of the growth of the city, he stated that since the steel bridge was built figures were presented that showed the population north of Sullivan's gulch in 1891 to be 5,582. The steel bridge was completed in 1899.

Nearly 20 years ago the steel bridge was built for but little more than 400 people. Now 60,000 people are compelled to use that bridge or the Burnside bridge, built in 1892, just 12 times as many people with the accommodations increased only two times. In addition to the fact that the population of Portland including Albina, East Portland and West Portland in 1899 was about 64,791.

Enormous Traffic on Bridges. Mr. Munly's statistics also show that the assessed valuation of property that will be taxed in 1908 is $43,985,896. Building permits show that of a total of $4,256,738 of permits issued for the entire city embracing dwellings costing between $100 to $500, $3,232,238 worth were taken out for dwellings on the east side.

Figures submitted by prominent Joseph of the Portland Railway showed that an average of 38,000 people cross the bridges every day in the street cars, and 48,000 cross the steel and Burnside bridges. An average of 916 cars cross the steel bridge every day. Part of these statistics were gathered for the purpose of presenting them to the war department in the hope that the draws, the source of all this agitation for high bridges, may be regulated.

Sign Petitions at Once. In the numerous addresses that followed the presentation of the figures for possible demand and advance for a bridge was discussed. The mayor pledged his support. Hugh McGuire, vice-president of the Commercial club, promised to put the matter in the possible light before his organization. W. M. Calk will give his assistance.
