PAYS RESPECTS TO NAPOLEON

Second Son of German Emperor Visits Tomb of Greatest Soldier.

(Heart News by Longest Leased Wire.)
Paris, Feb. 15.—The sensation of Paris this week was the visit of Prince Eitel, the second son of the German emperor, to the tomb of Napoleon.

Prince Eitel was returning from the funeral of King Carlos and his son of Portugal, where he represented Emperor Wilhelm. He left for Paris on Monday, when he took an early drive through the deserted boulevards, seeing the street sweepers and the melancholy drooping of the morning of the night-loving city. His personal friend, Count Prince, joined him at breakfast given to Prince Eitel by the German ambassador, the Prince Radolin. Afterward he accompanied the prince on an automobile excursion to the Hotel Les Invalides, where the tomb of Napoleon is situated. The prince was the first of the conqueror of Prussia for the Hearst News Service. He said:

"Prince Eitel is a much bigger man than his father, resembling his famous grandfather, Wilhelm I. He has blue eyes and the fair complexion of his mother, and a frank, good-natured face. When we drove up to Les Invalides we were received by a French officer, crippled in the war of 1870, who did not know the prince. This officer led us into the vaulted chapel where Napoleon lies in a porphyry tomb, and Prince Eitel stood, hat in hand. When we saw that he was weeping the old soldier asked who was this German who came to weep over the tomb of French glory. Prince Eitel who overheard him, said in his bad French: 'I am the son of a soldier standing at the grave of the greatest soldier.' Whereupon I introduced the Kaiser's son to the French officer, who had lost his arm in the battle of Chantilly."

It should be remembered that the French capital has a curious fascination for the German royal family. The Kaiser has twice visited Paris in disguise, causing enormous trouble to the Paris and Berlin secret police. In June, 1906, during the exposition, Emperor William himself was permitted to view the tomb of Napoleon at 4 o'clock in the morning.

While not a great deal has been said during the past two weeks about the work that the general fund solicitors have accomplished, the daily reports have been extremely encouraging. In the past five days more than $1,000 of new pledges have been added to the fund raised during the original campaign of last fall. There is now about $20,000 in the fund. The general fund solicitors have been made by local business houses and private citizens.

Only 5,000 rose bushes were asked for to fill the park blocks. Many additional pledges have been offered, and all such donations are to be turned over to Superintendent Jaggett of the garbage crematory, and he will see that they are set out in the tract occupied by the old garbage burner and maintained as a permanent rose garden to be drawn upon for decorative purposes at future rose festivals.

Chairman Wynn Johnson last night invited a number of prominent speakers who are to address the public school children next Thursday, and the general fund solicitors will be at the schools in the city will have all public speakers to talk about the plans and scope of the festival to the teachers and pupils.

List of Speakers.
The names of the speakers are as follows:
Arlita, Dr. Emmet Drake, Atkinson, George W. McMillan, W. J. Clemens, Brooks, Gus C. Moser, A. B. Stinson, Chapman, George L. Hutchin, F. J. Longman, Clinton-Kelly, N. J. Levinson, C. C. Gunnar, Couch, Robert Tucker, Julius Meier, Failing, Russell, Sewall, Phillip Gevartz, Hawthorne, F. V. Holman, R. M. Gray, East Portland High, C. W. Hodson, W. P. Olds, West Portland High, S. G. Reed, J. P. Carroll, Highland, George L. Baker, W. T. Vaughn, Holliday, W. P. Strandsborg, A. B. Santfeld, Rev. J. W. Frougier, H. M. Calk, Lents, Lewis M. Head, Montavilla, B. J. Daseint, Mount Tabor, R. M. Hall, North, Rev. J. W. Frougier, McKenna, General O. Summers, Sellwood, Lewis B. Reed, J. A. Horan, Shaver, Charles N. Black, Shattuck, D. R. Blair, Rev. J. W. Assurance has been given the manager of the rose planting celebration by officers of the Portland Chamber of Commerce that they will be out in force to secure snap-shots and art studies of the scenes that are bound to be enacted in connection with this unique celebration.

There will be a large representation of the boys and girls of the public schools for not only is Washington's birthday a national holiday, but it comes on Saturday, and the youngsters are to be asked to participate in the capacity of rose-bearers, to deliver the plants from the central point of gathering to the various park blocks.

They are to be accompanied by a military escort composed of the entire command of Colonel Charles E. McDonnell of the Third Regiment, O. N. G., and the battery of light artillery as well as the regimental band will be called out to join the escort. Efforts in this connection are being made to have Washington's birthday declared a whole holiday, and perhaps a whole holiday, in case it is decided at tomorrow's meeting to hold the formal ceremonies in the forenoon of next Saturday.

Plans Complete for Planting Day Next Saturday When 5,000 Rose Bushes Will Be Set Out in the City Park Blocks.

Things are moving rapidly in the line of preparation for the great "rose planting" day that Portland is to honor in connection with Washington's birthday next Saturday, February 22. Tomorrow afternoon a meeting of the Rose Festival, the Rose society people, together with members of the park board, will meet to consider and decide upon the nature of the exercises that are to be held that day, both of a patriotic nature and in strict keeping with the civic celebration—the setting out of acres of roses in the city park blocks.

Mayor Lane will preside at this session and every influence will be brought to bear to make it an occasion never to be forgotten.

The whirlwind campaign of four days to secure the necessary 5,000 rose bushes to fill the three plaza blocks has ended successfully, the special committees making their report to Festival headquarters showing the following donations:

Meier & Frank, 1,000; Oregonian, 500; Portland Rose society, 500; Portland Kennel club, 500; Portland Hunt club, 500; B. Pilkington, 500; A. Heins, 500; Ben Selling, 100; Rowe & Martin, 100; F. Dresser, 100; Ellis G. Hughes, 100; Warren Construction company, 100; Evening Telegram, 100; Wynn Pangle, 100; Joan Manning, 100; George B. Thomas, 100; Irwin Hodson, 100; Alex Sweek, 50; Roger B. ATKINSON WANTS TO BE GOVERNOR
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Washington, Feb. 15.—John D. Atkinson, attorney-general and former state auditor, tonight formally announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination to the office of governor at the primary election.

In a short signed statement he declares his platform to be the principle of good government, the most advantageous development of the state's resources and strict economy in the exercise of all the state's functions.

DETROIT DOCTOR WORKS CON GAME
Lady Attendant Open Evenings

Salts Gold Mine and Sets Up Consumptive Hospital at Pasadena.

(Heart News by Longest Leased Wire.)
Detroit, Mich., Feb. 15.—On a charge of fraud in a gold mine stock deal, a warrant probably will be asked for the arrest of Dr. J. Byron Sloan, formerly of Detroit, now a resident of Pasadena, California.

It is alleged that victims of the doctor have discovered that the mine into which they put a total of $150,000 was salted. These victims have been quietly investigating the affair for some months and they are said to know where the gold was bought with which to salt the mine.

Four years ago Dr. Sloan was a practicing physician in Detroit. He became interested in the Dos Cabozes gold mine and set up a separating apparatus in a barn at the rear of his residence. Here in a regular gold tester's manner he separated the gold from the other substances as taken from the Dos Cabozes mine, using a bath of quicksilver for the purpose. The golden returns from the separation were heavy, indicating that the streak of pay dust in the Dos Cabozes property was very rich.

On the strength of these showings and on reports from the mine itself Detroiters put their money in. Subsequently the investors began to suspect trouble. Finally Dos Cabozes ceased to be attractive to investors and was gradually dropped from notice.

Many Detroiters of small means who put all they had in the venture now find themselves penniless. One prominent business man is out $7,500. Some months ago the doctor went to California. In some small interior town he is said to have discovered a wonderful cure for consumption, a secret of some Indian tribe. He set up as a consumption expert in Pasadena.

LIQUOR DRIVES MAN TO DOUBLE MURDER
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Des Moines, Iowa, Feb. 15.—Crazed with liquor, M. E. Davis, a prominent druggist of Des Moines, shot and critically wounded his wife and Dr. James E. Miller, city physician, at 7 o'clock tonight. The tragedy occurred at the Davis home.

When he shot his wife a call was sent in to police headquarters and the officer in company with the surgeon, hurried to the scene. As they entered Davis came to the window and cried: "I will shoot every man on sight." Then he fired. A bullet entered the right lung of the doctor. He was taken to a hospital, where he now lies in the most critical condition.

Police reserves were called and armed with rifles broke into the house and captured the man.

Anti-Injunction Bill.
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Feb. 15.—An anti-injunction bill, said to have the support of the railroad employes, was introduced in the house today by Representative Rodenberg of Illinois. It provides that no writ of injunction shall be granted without reasonable notice to the adverse party, and divides contempt into direct and indirect, permitting the person charged with the latter a jury trial.

Married for Money.
London, Feb. 15.—Arthur Hyne, the polygamist, who now admits he is a wife, is publishing his memoirs in the Evening News. He declares that the number of his wives is thirty-two, but admits he got money from hundreds of others by promise of marriage. He also admits cynically that the only motive in each marriage was money.
