Hair cutting is to still cost 35 cents. Profiting by the experience in Tacoma the boss barbers held a meeting in the boss barbers held a meeting in Fortland yesterday and decided to make no attempt to cut under the present schedule. Up at Tacoma some time ago some of the burbers began to cut halr under the old schedule for 25 cents and before the war ended were trimming the article for 5 and 10 cents. Now they have all gone back to the newer schedule and have promised not to be bad any more. Portland barbers decided to stick together and accordingly the Portland men who have hair will still have to part with the usual 35.

night last night marked the place of the annual banquet of the Chin clan at Yen Kim Lum cafe. There were some 200 members of the clan present and the cost of the banquet averaged $30 a a table, each table seating about 16 diners. The Chin family is the most numerous and powerful in Portland's Chinatown and a most successful function was the result. Everything that was eaten with the exception of a few chickens and geese came from over the great waters, having been sent especially to make the hearts of the clansmen glad.

Gus Peterson a Swede, aged about 15 years, was taken sudden'y ill in his room at 152½ North Sixth street about 1:20 o'clock yesterday afternoon and died in convulsions. He complained of pains in his stomach and chest and the edity physician was hurriedly summoned.

Kay and Kienlin have "protected" certain offenders against the law and persecuted others, but neither Chief Gritzmer nor Captain of Detectives Bruin ever undertook to make a thorough investigation of the charges. The chief declines to discuss the reason for the present change, further than to say that it and all of the other changes are "for the good of the service."

Kienlin makes the statement that he has, for many months, been seeking to induce the chief to return him to patrol duty, and declares his entire satisfaction with the present in Boise, Idaho, where he was sent some days ago to bring back a man wanted here for passing fictitious checks. It is not known whether it is the intention of Chief Gritzmacher to hand him the same kind of lemon as was passed out to Klenlin. The other changes announced by the chief are as follows:

He complained of pains in his stomach and chest and the city physician was hurriedly-summoned, but was unable to do anything for the aged man. Nothing of any value could be found in his room. The remains will be interred at the county poor farm. Peterson had been staying at the Eldorado rooming-house, where he died, since last November.

Regular meeting of the Mount Scott Improvement association will take place this evening in the usual meeting place, the Armitage drug store at Kern Park. The organization is engaged at present in endeavoring to raise $850 to buy a chemical engine. A volunteer com-pany has been organized, but the ap-paratus for fighting fire is inadequate. Because of the scarcity of water in the Mount Scott district the only practi-cable fire fighting apparatus would be a chemical

The new men are being assigned to the less important beats, while the men of experience and known ability are given tours of duty where their services may be best turned to account.

One of the changes that may have some significance other than the one aforementioned is the transfer of Acting Detective Joe Kienlin from plain clothes duty to patrol duty in the first night relief. Kienlin has for a long time been a member of the so-called "moral squad," and with his partner, Tom Kay, has had practical charge of the suppression of vice in the north end of the city, as well as the suppression of gambling in the Chinese quarter.

Oregon Electric Will Carry Delegation of 100 Portlanders to Capital.

More than 100 Portland merchants. bankers, manufacturers and other business men will go to Salem tomorrow afternoon to participate in a celebration of the opening of the Portland-Salem electric railway line. The celebration will occur in the evening, and the vis-itors will remain over night, returning in Pullman sleeping cars that will be waiting at Salem when the exercises are Concluded.

The trip to Salem will be made over the new electric road. Cars carrying the party will leave the Jefferson street depot of the Oregon Electric railway at 2 o'clock p. m., and arrive at Salem at 4 o'clock. Some of the excursionists will lodge at Salem that night and return by trolley car to Portland the next morning.

The Portland Commercial club, which has charge of arrangements for the ex-cursion, has received applications enough to fill two Pullman cars with those who prefer to return over the Southern Pacific. These will reach Portland at 8 o'clock Wednesday morn-ing, so no time will be lost from busi-new leading woman, as Nance Olden. made good.

She is a mere slip of a girl, not even looking her age, which is said to be 13. She is quick, magnetic, imaginative and throughout the performance her acting was admirable. In fact nothing but her presence on the stage during most of the time saved the performance from descending to the level of the commonplace. As Nan, the nipper, her work was

"Parsifal" at the Marquam.

"Parsifal" was the bill at the Mar-quam last night and was presented by practically the same cast that appeared practically the same cast that appeared at the Heilig a year ago in this play. Last night's performance was upon the whole an improvement over that of a year ago. Mr. Connor as "Parsifal" is by odds the best member of the cast, indeed, only the hypercritical can find fault with the acting.

Miss Keating as Kundry is the same finished artist who completely captivated Heilig audiences last winter. In every situation, no matter how difficult she acquitted herself in a manner that left nothing to be desired.

A meritorious improvement noted in the cast is the substitution of Mr. Kel-

A meritorious improvement noted in the cast is the substitution of Mr. Kelvin for Mr. Dvorak as Klingsoe, Mr. Kelvin is less harsh in his treatment of the part and avoids the needless ranting that made the work of his predecessor intensely disagreeable.

The staging of the play last night was a material improvement over that of last year, the "Magic Garden of Narcotic Blooms" being one of the most beautiful things ever seen on a Portland stage. "Parsifal" is an intensely interesting play. It will run through the week at the Marquam with matinees Wednesday and Saturday. Wednesday and Saturday.

"Dora Thorne" at the Empire. Our old friend, "Dora Thorne" came to the Empire yesterday afternoon for a week's stay, which will give every sentimental maid in Portland an opportunity for at least one good cry. Miss Dorothy Grey in the title role was a surprise even to those who were familiar with the work of this capable woman. U. Roberts, who took the part miliar with the work of this capable woman. U. Roberts, who took the part of Dora's aristocratic husband, measured up to the requirements of the role. Miss Sterling as Lady Chartaris, who is in love with Dora's husband, divided honors with Miss Grey. The rest of the cast, Miss Lynn, William Wolbert, the disappointed sailor lad; Don McMillan and William E. Black, Dora's father, acquitted themselves in a creditable manner.

Splendid, but in the scene where Tom Dorgan, who has just escaped from prison comes into her room, she is seen at her best. Here her acting is superb.

Miss Jewel is a fine type of the American actress. While yet at the age when most people are beginning a career, she is already a consummate artist.

Donald Bowles, as Tom Dorgan, the desperate crook, does the work of the role admirably. It may be said, however, that he toughens the character a little too much, and it is especially Donald Bowles, as Tom Dorgan, the desperate crook, does the work of the role admirably. It may be said, however, that he toughens the character a little too much, and it is especially regrettable that so much profanity was put into his lines.

the play appeals to the most discriminating theatre-goers as well as to people who do not care for the ordinary theatrical entertainments. No one can afford to miss witnessing this beautiful play, which has an uplifting motive and is admirably played. There will be a matinee Saturday.

At the meeting of the Rose City Park Improvement league in the Alameda schoolhouse this evening the matter of opening two streets to the country club will be discussed. The first idea was to open but one street, but the plans of the livestock association are now to open both a low level and a high level thoroughfare. The improvement associations in the section of the city through which these streets will pass are anxious to aid the country club in the work of opening the thoroughfares and improving them suitably.
