Frances Willard memorial day was observed by central W. C. T. U. at the usual meeting yesterday afternoon. In the absence of the appointed ladies from sickness Mrs. Ida Barkley called on a number to respond. Mrs. M. M. Sleeth told of her acquaintance with Miss Willard in the east, “She was equal to any three others,” said she. Her graciousness won all hearts. Mrs. H. U. Clinton told of meeting her here when she organized the state union at Taylor Street church. She spoke of the children's Band of Hope conducted by Mrs. Harry Scott. Mrs. Morgan repeated finely Mrs. C. L. Stevedson's poem, “How Still She stands.” Mrs. Shane talked of meeting Miss Willard here at Taylor Street church and paid a tribute to her lovely character. A collection was taken for the memorial fund. Next week the program will be in charge of Mrs. H. U. Clinton, subject “The Present Needs of the W. C. T. U.

At a meeting of the Portland Association of Credit Men last evening at the Commercial club the address was made by John F. Logan, who chose for his topic the idiosyncrasies of the Oregon state constitution. He pointed out its various defects that have become more or less well known since the state achieved modern greatness, and declared that Oregon, when considered as an up-to-date community, has no constitution. He cited as instances of dry rot in the present document the clauses prohibiting negroes from entering the state, barring Chinese from owning property within the state, and making it illegal to issue clearing-house certificates or other currency in times of financial stress.

Confirming the forecast made by President Francis B. Clark of the Portland & Seattle Railroad company, it is now announced that the north bank road will be ready for business between Kennewick and Vancouver March 15, and formal notice to that effect has been filed with the interstate commerce commission. Passengers, express and mail will be handled between Vancouver and Portland by the line of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company until some time in July, when the north bank road's bridges across the Columbia and Willamette rivers will be completed and it will run its trains into this city.

Because she was worn out and was unable longer to care for an insane woman who was living at their house, Mrs. Luella Parrish alleges her husband, Edward E. Parrish, bundled her into a wagon and sent her away, with directions to the driver never to bring her back. This is the unique charge made in an amended complaint filed in the circuit court, in which Mrs. Parrish asks for an allowance of $40 per month for her support. She says that he is the owner of a ranch in Linn county worth $1,200, and that he has mortgaged it for $1,000 in order to defeat the object of her suit.

The Western Academy of Music has prepared a particularly interesting program for the entertainment which will be given Friday evening by the George Wright corps, at G. A. R. hall, Second and Morrison streets. The program will include the playlet, “The Littlest Girl”; a sketch, “Dad Says So Anyhow”; a scene from “Camille”; and the playlet, “After Tonight,” besides several readings, violin, piano and vocal solos, and a male quartet. The object of the entertainment is to assist members of the G. A. R. who are unable to meet their dues.

In the advertising columns today the Union Dental Parlors make some very special quotations on dental work that will be well worthy of perusal. The management of these big offices at First and Morrison streets reports the addition of extra men to care for the rush of patronage. “We have put in extra dental chairs and have by far the best equipment in the city of any dental institution,” said the chief of staff this morning, “but we are continually adding to our facilities to make them still better.”

A jury in the police court yesterday afternoon rendered a verdict of not guilty in the case of Charlie Dahl, charged with permitting a minor in his saloon on Alder street, between Second and Third streets. The charge was preferred by Patrolman Fuller, who arrested C. E. Cramer, a 19-year-old youth, in Dahl's place about a week ago. It was admitted that Cramer was in the place, and had purchased a drink there, but the jury evidently did not consider these facts an offense against the law.

The regular meeting of the Mothers' and Teachers' club of the Brooklyn school will be held in the assembly hall tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. City Superintendent Rigler will speak on educational conditions in the eastern states with particular reference to the kindergarten in the public schools. Mrs. D. S. Williams will give readings of selections for childhood, and Mrs. H. Dickson will give child songs. Refreshments will be served.

Saturday, Washington's birthday, the central building of the public library will be open for reading only from 2 until 6 o'clock. The east side branch library, the Sellwood branch and the Albina branch will be entirely closed for the day.

The extremely cold weather in Goldfield, Nevada, according to advices just received, has had the effect of closing several mines using surface water. The Butte Boys has not reached water in its shaft, and has been employing iron tanks and hauling water for its gasoline engine. These tanks are now frozen, compelling a suspension of work until the weather moderates. It won't be long until this property has its own water at the bottom of its shaft, after which there will be no more trouble of this kind. The miners were in $40 ore when the cold stopped them.

An unromantic court is to pass upon the payment of $500 for a novel called “Travers,” which the Frederick A. Stokes company alleges it sold to the Pacific Monthly, but the latter failed to publish or pay for. The complaint, filed in the circuit court, states that a contract was entered into last June and the copy of the author delivered the same month, the story to be published as a serial. No effort is to be made to force the publication of the novel, but the plaintiff demands to be paid the $500.

Articles found on street cars February 17: 18 umbrellas, two hand bags, four packages, one telephone box, one telescope, two hand satchels, one express package, one finger ring, one badge, one lunch box, one book, one box, one bucket, one pair mittens, one block plane. Call at the lost article room of the O. W. P., First and Alder streets. A very expensive umbrella has been found which has been called for many times.

Judge Webster has granted an order in the county court citing Mrs. X. J. Faling to appear before him on February 26 to explain why she should not be required to contribute to the support of her brother, Cornelius W. Barrett. The sister is said to be worth $500,000, while Barrett is poverty-stricken and said to be infirm in both mind and body. A petition asking for the citation was filed several weeks ago.

At the Centenary Methodist Episcopal church, corner of East Pine and Ninth streets, tonight, different departments of church will be represented, a roll call of all the members with responses to their names, and an outline of the work that is being done. About 40 new members have joined the church during Dr. Wilson's pastorate. A new year book and membership directory has been published and will be given out for the first time tonight.

The card party to be given by the federated clubs in the new Masonic temple tomorrow evening will be one of the principal social events of the winter. Preparations are under way that will make it one of the most pleasant affairs for several months. Additional tickets may be obtained at the door. Those wishing table reservations may have them by notifying Mrs. S. M. Blumauer, 146 North Seventeenth street.

A colonial tea will be given Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. A. Moore, 554 Everett street, by the Ladies' Aid society of the First Presbyterian church, to which all the ladies of the church and friends are invited. Those who serve will be in old-fashioned costumes and those who attend are asked so far as possible to carry out the old-time effect in the costume.

Articles found on streetcars Tuesday, February 18: Fifteen umbrellas, one handbag, one glove, one lunch box, one suitcase, one candlestick, three packages, one key, one glove (man's), one basket, wire, one overcoat, stovepipe, book and music, overshoes. Owners call at lost article room of the O. W. P. R. R., corner of First and Alder.

Rev. William Hiram Foulkes will give an illustrated lecture this evening at the First Presbyterian church on the various mission fields, China, Japan, India, Luzon, Korea, will be presented with new slides which are accurate and interesting. There will be no admission fee nor collection. All are invited.

A. Swank has begun suit in the circuit court against E. C. Ward to collect $2,477 alleged to be due on his prune crop. He says he delivered 45,048 pounds of prunes under contract during the season and that the fruit was sold in the eastern markets, but he has not been paid.

Rev. Dr. J. Whitcomb Brougher, who interested himself in the family of John Wetle, states that the family is not destitute nor an object of public charity. The brothers and sisters of Mr. Wetle are looking after the needs of Mrs. Wetle and her children.

Forty-nine residents of the village of Fairview have filed with the county court a petition to set plans for incorporation in motion. At present the postoffice is known as Cleone and the place has about 180 inhabitants.

For this week only we will sell 25 incubaters at less than cost. They are slightly damaged, but will give results as good as a new machine. Come in early and pick out your machine. Corner Grand avenue and East Alder.

The metting of the Ladies' auxiliary to the A. O. H. last Monday night in W. O. W. hall was largely attended. Six persons were initiated. The meeting closed with encouraging remarks by the president.

M. K. Thompson, a farmer at Condon, has filed a petition in the United States court requesting that he be adjudged a bankrupt. His liabilities amount to about $8,000, and his assets to nearly $5,000.

A colonial entertainment will be given at the White Temple Friday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Lawler and Miss Shea will sing. Mr. Waldemar Lind will render a violin selection and Mrs. McGuire will give a character reading.

A meeting for the mothers and teachers of the Williams Avenue school will be held at the school Friday, February 21, at 3:30 p. m. All mothers cordially welcome.

Notice—For one week only the best inverted gas light $1, regular price $1.75. East Side Gas Appliance company. Phone East 475. 274 Williams avenue.

Lewis Marion Parrish, a pioneer real estate dealer of this city, died yesterday morning at 4 o'clock of pernicious anaemia. He was a prominent member of Calvary Presbyterian church, a member of Multnomah camp of Indian war veterans, of the A. O. U. W. and of the Oregon Pioneer association. The firm, Parrish, Watkins & Co., of which he was a member, has been one of the most prominent real estate firms of the city for many years. At different times M. F. Mulkey, Tyler Woodward and J. L. Atkinson were associated with the firm, which passed through several changes of name. Mr. Parrish leaves his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Jason S. Winchester, Mrs. G. Frank Moffett and Mrs. Franklin I. Fuller of this city, and two sons, Loren C. Parrish of Hood River and George L. Parrish of Wallace, Idaho. The funeral services will be held at Calvary Presbyterian church, Eleventh and Clay streets, tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Rev. B. E. S. Ely will officiate. The interment will be at Riverview cemetery, with private services.

NOW FOR THE PENALTY

Horace McKinley will soon be in jail again,
There for to suffer for crimes of the past;
A thousand to one he will not jump his bail again—
Uncle Sam has and will hold Horace fast.

“Farewell, Little Egypt, I'm now in seclusion—
The whole of this business has been but a snare—
A hateful, detestable, wicked delusion,
E'en since the first moment I met Marie Ware.

“The White Life'—I wish in my heart I had led it—
Contented and peaceful on earth for to dwell—
But a spirit of greed—I unstintedly fed it—
And now I must suffer the tortures of hell.”

Square business, like ours, is what makes one happy.

THOUSANDS WAIT OREGON'S CALL

Beaver State's Agricultural Products Needed at Eastern Fairs as Exhibits.

That thousands of persons living in Pennsylvania and other eastern states are talking of moving to Canada, the northwest, to Oklahoma or some other newly opened parts of the country and that Oregon should get busy and make exhibits of her products and resources at some of the county fairs, are some of the suggestions offered by W. J. Collins, who writes The Journal from New Castle, Pennsylvania.

The people which publicity would appeal to are just the kind of citizens that Oregon needs to make it continue to grow and become one of the greatest states in the union, Mr. Collins says.

Mr. Collins suggests that a native, born and educated in Oregon, should be selected to have charge of the exhibits which he would have Oregon make at the various fairs during the summer and fall.

The county fairs continue from August until late in the fall, at each place continuing from four or five days to a week. Each fair is visited by thousands of people and by the exhibits of some of Oregon's wonderful fruits and vegetables their attention would be attracted to this part of the United States.

EASTERN MULTNOMAH BACKS STATEMENT 1

Geat Mass of Voters Solid for People's Law Says Dr. Belt.

Eastern Multnomah county is back of Statement No. 1 and the direct primary law with a good substantial majority, according to Dr. Walter C. Belt, who has announced his candidacy for joint representative from Multnomah and Clackamas counties. Dr. Belt says he has made a careful canvas of the district during a recent trip through the country and had found that the great mass of the Republican voters there are in favor of the principles of the primary law and of Statement No. 1.

“My trip convinces me,” said Dr. Belt today, “that the people generally want Statement No. 1 upheld. There is a lot of noise being made in opposition, but it comes from the old ring politicians, their friends and the machine leaders in Portland. Out in the country where the people live you hear no opposition to Statement No. 1, but on the other hand a great majority of the people are firm in their support of the principle.”

Dr. Belt has announced his candidacy for the office now held by J. U. Campbell of Oregon City. He will make his fight for nomination and election on a platform embracing support of Statement No. 1, and consistent pure food and sanitary regulation legislation.

METHODISTS PROJECT ANTI-LIQUOR PAPER

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Pendleton, Feb. 20.—Believing in the power of the press in religion as in business and public affairs, the Methodists of this city will begin the publication of a weekly religious paper in a few weeks. It will be highly illustrated and will be in charge of Rev. W. T. Euster of the M. E. church, it is declared by its promoters. It will be strictly religious and will support the prohibition movement in Umatilla county and eastern Oregon.

WOODMEN TO BUILD MODERN SANITARIUM

Voluntary Subscriptions for Colorado Home Amount to Nearly $100,000.

Portland camps of the Modern Woodmen of America have without an exception paid a voluntary subscription of 10 cents per number, for 1,400 members, to aid toward the establishing of a national Woodmen sanitarium on a tract of 1,000 acres purchased by the order, near Colorado Springs. The object is to care for consumptive patients and invalid Woodmen at actual cost of treatment and care.

The enterprise is purely humanitarian and fraternal, and not entered into primarily with the motive of merely prolonging life and delaying payment of the inevitable death loss. The order desires to provide a place where its members, when stricken with any lingering disease, or requiring a surgical operation that involves much expense, may go to the Woodmen sanitarium and secure the services of the best surgical talent at cost, and secure medical services at a minimum expense during the period of treatment or convalescence.

“The tract selected for the site of the institution is a 1,000 acre farm that has for years been known as the Ambler ranch, five miles north of Colorado Springs,” said J. W. Simmons, state deputy for Oregon. “It lies along the Denver & Rio Grande railroad track just north of Pike View station. No finer site could have been found in the United States.

“The tract is a natural park, has plenty of water, and there is a good vein of coal on the land. It embraces a part of what was formerly known as Monument park, for years a favorite visiting ground for those in quest of mountain scenery and natural beauties of landscape. Its rock formations are curious and interesting, being similar to those found in the Garden of the Gods. The tract contains a good bearing orchard.

“No limit is placed on the amount of money the order will spend to make the sanitarium a valuable adjunct to its humanitarian work. The first voluntary contributions amounted to about $100,000. The first patients to be received will be those who have fallen victims to tubercular troubles. Open air treatment has been recognized as the only practical treatment for these cases, and they can be housed in tents under direction of a competent physician while the permanent buildings are being erected.”
