The Third Oregon Infantry, Battery A of the Oregon Artillery and the hospital corps will have charge of the military ball and formal opening of the new armory ballroom tomorrow night. Extensive alterations have been made at the armory, and the new officers' quarters and the assembly hall, finished in maple with exposed beams set with hundreds of electric lights will present an attractive appearance. All parts of the armory will be open for inspection. Arrangements have been made to accommodate 1,200 people. The regimental band and orchestra will play. The committee in charge is composed of Major Frank S. Baker and Lieutenants J. J. McDonald, Lester Kollock, T. T. Randall and C. C. McCornack. Those wishing to secure tickets may apply to any member of the Third regiment, battery or hospital corps.

Because the Warren Construction company raised its previous bid for the laying of a bitulithic pavement on Stark street from Seventh to Burnside about $1,300, the street committee of the city executive board referred the matter back to the city council. This is the third time the pavement has been bid for by the Warren Construction company and each bid has been higher than the preceding one. Inasmuch as the Warren company is the only one engaged in the business of laying bitulithic paving, the council will probably recommend that a different kind of pavement be put down. The reason given by the company for increasing its bid is that the city engineer's estimate was too low.

Leon P. Simons, an older employed in the Clark & Wilson lumber mill at Linton, was almost instantly killed yesterday afternoon by being caught in the shafting. At the time the accident occurred Simons was engaged in oiling the machinery. He was in the act of crawling over the main shaft when his foot hung in some manner was caught by the rapidly revolving machinery. His body was dashed with great violence against the ceiling timbers, causing almost instant death. Coroner Finley was notified and took charge of the body. Simons was 20 years old. He leaves a young wife who was married by the untimely death of her husband.

At 1:30 o'clock this morning, Patrolman Purker was informed that some one had just broken into the saloon of John Wubbenhorst, 288 Burnside street. Upon making an investigation the officer found the back door of the place open. Further search revealed the form of a man concealed beneath some blankets in a rear room. The man was taken to the police station where he gave the name of John McArthur. A charge of burglary was preferred against him. Nothing had been stolen from the saloon. It is presumed that the man was discovered before he had an opportunity to make a search for valuables.

Evangelist Allen Wilson of Indianapolis will begin a special series of revival services next Sunday morning at the First Christian church, Park and Columbia streets. He is one of the strongest evangelists in the Christian church. He held a meeting of over 500 accessions in Dayton, Ohio. He has several other meetings to his credit of meetings with single churches ranging into the hundreds. Dr. Wilson is an old college chum of Pastor Muckley. The church is in better condition for a meeting than at any time during the last four years.

Joseph Naibach has begun suit against the Pacific Hardware & Steel company for $20,000 damages for the loss of his right eye and three fractures in his arm, these injuries being received in an accident on July 17, 1904. He alleges that while he was engaged in a heating scrap iron with a crane a ratchet pulled to work and the handle of the crane flew up and hit him. He holds the company responsible for the defect in the machinery.

An attractive book of the official classification and rules of exhibition for the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition to be held in Seattle from June 1 to October 15, 1909, has been issued by the management. Every department under which exhibits will be grouped is carefully and fully set forth with the rules governing each class. Applications for the book may be sent to J. A. Nadeau, director-general, or Henry E. Dosch, director of exhibits.

Joseph Henrotte has begun suit in the circuit court for divorce from Emma Henrotte, complaining that she went to Alaska in 1898 and has only written two letters, in one of which she advised him to secure a divorce. He has decided that this is good advice. He says she has been guilty of indiscretions and unlady-like conduct, besides giving him the go-by. They were married in 1893.

Last night burglars forced an entrance into the clothing store of H. Goodman & Son, 247 Front street, by breaking the glass in the front door. The cash drawer was rifled and its contents, $4.85, taken. Nothing else about the store was disturbed, the burglars departing without leaving anything that would serve as a clue to their identity. The burglary was reported to the police.

L. H. ADAMS ON GOOD TERMS WITH BOURNE

Portland, Or., Feb. 19.—To the Editor of the Journal—In last Tuesday's Journal, I note that you have used my name in connection with a number of others, as being unfriendly to Statement No. 1 by reason of an alleged falling out with Senator Bourne.

To begin with, I have made no announcement of opposition to Statement No. 1, but had I done so, it would have been from no such reasons as your reporter ascribes. I am friendly to Senator Bourne. I have no reason to be otherwise, and many reasons why I should be friendly to him.

The conclusion drawn from my failure to see Senator Bourne while passing through Washington on a business trip was very far fetched. I arrived in Washington late in the evening, and was due at Richmond the next day. I endeavored to reach Senator Bourne by phone, but was unable to do so, and as I was obliged to leave the next morning, I naturally failed to see him. On reaching home I received a letter from him expressing regret that I had failed to notify him in advance, so that he could have made it a point to meet me. As to the policy of the gentlemen with whom your reporter "grouped" me, in the story, I have nothing to say. They have the same rights to their opinion on matters political that I have to mine, but I do not feel that my name should be dragged into a controversy, in which I am not interested, and for which I am in no way responsible.

A New Departure The cost of interments has been greatly reduced by the Holman Undertaking company. Heretofore it has been the custom of funeral directors to make charges for all incidentals connected with a funeral. The Edward Holman Undertaking company, the leading funeral directors of Portland, have departed from that custom. When casket is furnished by us we make no extra charges for embalming, hearse to cemetery, outside box or any services that may be required of us, except clothing, casket and carriages, thus effecting a saving of $15 to $75 on each funeral.
