Brother Says Honora Murphy Met Foul Play—Investigation Made by Coroner—Body Found Floating in San Francisco Bay.

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Feb. 25.—John Murphy, brother of Honora Murphy, whose body was found yesterday in the bay off North Beach, has made a special charge that his sister was murdered and robbed and that the body, together with the empty purse and bank book, which were the only means of identification, were thrown into the bay in the hope that the crime would remain hidden from the eyes of the law.

Murphy declares that his sister was preparing to leave for Stockton, where she had property and that she had been possessed Sunday night at least $200 in gold, which she intended to use in payment on lots that she owned in Stockton.

The body of Miss Murphy was seen floating in the bay by two boys. When the corpse arrived at the morgue it was clad only in undergarments, and two wrappers and a hand satchel were slung tightly in the hands. About the head was securely fastened a shirt and heavy cloth, which was sufficient to have prevented any outcry she might have made.

The handbag that Miss Murphy carried was a small purse with but 80 cents in it. There was also a bank book which showed no deposit since September, 1906, and no draft since January of this year and a balance to the woman's credit.

Detectives are now looking for a strange woman who was a domestic in the house where the murder took place and where she was last seen alive. The police believe that Miss Murphy may have been given lye or some other poison before being thrown into the bay. Her stomach has been sent to the city chemist for analysis. The coroner's office is making an independent investigation.

ALLOTING AGENT PLEADS FOR POOR IN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Klamath Falls, Or., Feb. 25.—Hiram F. Whitte, special allotting agent on the Klamath Indian reservation, who is drawing the final allotting prior to throwing the rest of the reservation open to settlement, has written an article for publication in a local paper, asking for a "square deal" for the Indian. In a court case in the circuit court here, a white man was tried for stealing a horse from an Indian. It was universally considered that the man was guilty, but the jury acquitted him, probably on the theory that they would not convict a white man on Indian testimony. Mr. Whitte says that the government's policy of self-sustenance with the Indian is right; that it is for the citizens of the United States to ask that an Indian, for his words and conduct, be weighed and judged as a man simply.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
