Immediately preceding the Rose Festival, which will open June 1, the Cathiolic Young Men's club of Albina will hold a street fair and carnival in Albins from May 16 to 21 inclusive. The plans have not yet been worked out in detail, but a comprehensive outline of the preparations can be given. The young men have planned to go to considerable expense to make the fair a successful undertaking. They will also have the backing of the business men of Williams and Union swemes whill be the bounded by Williams avenue Stanton street, Vancouver avenue and Morris street. The smoker and boxing contests last night were well attended. It was the first time that the newly completed auditorium and symnasium had been used on a public occasion. There was no tharge last night and all men of the city were invited to be present and partake of the cigars and entertainment.

STILL NEED FUNDS FOR

A meeting of the library committee of which O. M. Scott is chairman was held in the rooms of the East Side club Monday evening. It was reported that about $1,000 has been pledged toward defraying the expense of building the new east side library and that $1,500 is still needed. Steps will be taken at once to procure the remainder of the sum required.

MAY CHANGE MEETING NIGHT

The East Side Business Men's club is contemplating a change of meeting night from the first and third Thursdays of each month to the first and third Mondays of each month. Assistant Secretary R. E. Hall will make a canvass of all the members next week to see if a change is desired and to determine what evening will be preferred. Some other night than Monday night may be chosen.

MUSEMENTS

Tickets for Kelcey and Shannon. Tickets for Kelcey and Shannon.

The famous co-stars, Herbert Kelcey and Miss Effic Shannon, will be seen at the Heilig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, for four nights, beginning next Sunday, March 1. These celebrated players will be supported by an excellent company and will present the much talked of society drama, "The Walls of Jericho." The advance seat sale will open at the box office of the theatre Friday, February 28.

"The Bells" Tonight.

This evening Clay Clement, the eminent American actor, will appear in a revival of "The Bells" at the Marquam. This will be the first time Mr. Clement has been seen in this play in Portland and it will be the first revival of the drama in years. "The Bells," which was made famous by Sir Henry Irving, will be repeated tomorrow night.

"Graustark."

So many persons have read the popular novel, "Graustark," by George Barr McCutcheon, that more than ordinary interest is attached to the Baker company's production of the play this week. It tells the story in a beautiful and striking manner, with Miss Jewel as the Princess Yetive and Robert Homans in the role of Grenfell Lorry.

Star Matinee Tomorrow. There will be a matinee of "Adrift in the World" at the Star theatre tomorrow afternoon. The present attraction of the French stock company is one of excitement, daring deeds, heroic rescues and comedy situations. The play has made a strong and lasting hit with the patrons of the house and is doing big business this week.

Verna Felton's Great Hit.

The youngest Camille who has ever appeared on the American stage made her first bow in the part to a large audience at the Lyric Monday night. It was a memorable event in the history of local theatricals, for Miss Felton set a new mark for herself as a leading goman of the very highest rank.

week with their nautical burletta, "The Good Ship Nancy Lee." It is a 20-minute musical comedy and the fun is immense. Ramza and Arno, with their educated zebra, have another of the several hits on the program. Donnelly and Rolati are genuine singers and their operatic selections and the boogle song go especially well with the audiences.

"The Battle of Life."

At the Empire theatre all this week. The Battle of Life," a thrilling melodrama of life in the west during the early days of the great California gold excitement, is the bill. Never before in the history of melodrama has an amateur conceived a more pleasing and interesting plot. It holds the audience spellbound from the beginning to the lend.

1,000 HYDRANTS IS GOOD ENOUGH EAST SIDE'S NEED

Commissioner Lighter Says Useless to Install Them, Says Chief, Until Streets Are Improved.

> "If we had 1,000 hydrants," said Chief Campbell before the east side clubs last night, "we could use them all on the east side, and by the time we got them installed the east side could use about 500 more, the district is growing so fast. The west side must also have a number of hydrants so you can see in what po-sition we are in reference to the fire protection question."

protection question."

At the invitation of the clubs, Chief Campbell and the water board were asked to be present at last night's meeting. Chief Campbell was present and addressed the clubs, but the water board did not come. Only C. H. Raffety was there. Considerable criticism was again directed at the water board, and Dr. Raffety did his utmost to calm the antagonists of the water board.

Chief Campbell said it was a needless expenditure to put hydrants where the Chief Campbell said it was a needless expenditure to put hydrants where the streets were in such a condition that it would take six horses to pull an engine through them. He said the only power he had was to locate the hydrants after they were purchased by the council or the water board and to keep them in condition.

The water board has been made the object of much attack recently and the agitation against the board is growing. The feeling is very well illustrated in the action recently taken by the Northwestern Improvement association when it recently proposed that the board be wiped out of existence and substituted by an elective commissioner of public works. This club has not recently been represented at the meetings of the federated clubs, so that the feeling in the united clubs is entirely separate from the feeling that has arisen in the northeastern part of the city.

Dr. Raffety has explained to the clubs time after time that the club is practically helpless because of the action of the courts in declaring the bond amendments to the charfer passed last June illegal. The board cannot act until the case is decided. In the meantime the suburbs are clamoring for water and blame the water board for not giving it to them. The water board cannot extend mains into every locality on the limited funds allowed them. The city is growing too fast for the water department of the city.

Rubber Traders Can No Longer Make Slick Bargains.

A letter from Iquitos, at the head of navigation on the Amazon, says that the rubber traders have overdone the business of bartering the flimslest kind o gewgaws for good hard rubber collected by the Indians. Fortunes had been made in the business, but the natives have cut their eye teeth. They have found at last that many of the trade goods they accepted are almost value-less and that the commodity they exchanged for baubles is highly prized by any nations.

Many a tusk of lyory was cheerfully handed over to the white men by the Congo natives 20 years ago for a poor jack-knife or a few yards of cotton cloth. Some of the traders defended themselves on the ground that a jack-knife was worth more to the natives than a score of lyory tusks.

Today the Congo natives are familiar with the white man's cutlery and it is not easy to fool them as to the value of lyory. So the palmiest days of that trade are at an end.

It is the old story. The poor Indians of this country were swindled right and left when Europe first began to buy their furs and skins. It was a poor trading company that could not make 100 per cent on its capital by a single verse.

make 100 per cent on its capital by a single voyage.
Missionary reports were filled with stories of the cheap and worthless things, the spoiled food and poisonous brandy which the traders gave in exchange for good beaver and mink skins.
"They are killing the Indians we are trying to save," wrote one despairing missionary. "It seems as though we can accomplish nothing and might as can accomplish nothing and might as well abandon our missions to the white thieves and brandy traders."

Fortunes Held by Court of Chancery Awaiting Claimants.

Not the least remarkable feature con-cerning the unclaimed wealth held by the courts of chancery and others is that in some cases the next of kin have been missing for between 100 and 200 years. There is for instance nearly 16,000 waiting for persons who can prove themselves to be relatives of one Edith Goddard, who married S. FOUNDING OF TAMMANY

William Mooney Organized the Society in 1789.

Tammany was founded by William Mooney, an Irishman by descent, an American by birth, an upholsterer by trade, and, according to Success, an organizer and doubtless an agitator by instinct.

Mooney and most of the men associated in the founding of Tammany liad been members of the Sons of Liberty. With the close of the Revolution this society was disbanded, it being assumed that its work was done.

The suspicions of the proletariat were aroused when Alexander Hamilton threw his powerful influence and protection over the hated Tories. They found themselves powerless to prevent to office men known to have been Royalists.

They had not votes with which to prevent this, and the proud patricians smiled scornfully as they paused at the doors of coffee houses and taverns and listened to the depunciations of these landless and therefore disfranchised patricts.

Conspicuous among the resorts frequented by our ancestral New York projectariat was Barden's, or the City Tayern. This was located on Broadway, not far from Bowling Green, and within a stone's throw of the present Standard Oil building.

The tayern was the forum of popular debate in those days, and if we were permitted to examine the original drafts of many famous and patriotic documents we would likely find them stained with ale and Jamaica rum. It was a day when the preacher drank his toddy from the pulpit and in which neither temperance nor abstinence were estemed as virtues.

"There seems to be some sort of a scheme laid off erecting some sort of order or society under this denomination, but it does not seem well digested as yet. The expense of the dresses must have been considerable, and the money laid out on clothing might have dressed some of their ranged beggars. But the weather is now warm."
