

PROPOSITION TO HAVE BARK ACME TOW TIMBER RAFT TO NEW YORK.

WOULD MAKE NEW DEPARTURE AT SEA

Vessel Arrived Here Several Weeks Ago After Sensational Voyage From Japan and Is Now Loading Lumber at Portland Mills.

To tow a timber raft from the mouth of the Columbia river to New York is the proposition made to Captain Mackay of the American bark Acme. He says he will accept if the shippers are willing to pay the freight.

This would probably be the longest timber tow ever made anywhere in the world, even admitting steamboats into the competition. No one familiar with shipping history in this port ever heard of a sailing vessel undertaking anything like it and all are anxious that the trick be tried just to see how it would end.

The Acme came here several weeks ago from Japan under charter to load lumber for New York. She arrived in crippled condition and had to undergo extensive repairs to the rigging and in the meantime some trouble arose over the cargo. The difficulty was finally settled and last Monday the bark was berthed at the mills of the Portland Lumber company in South Portland and a new receiving cargo.

The order calls for some very long timbers and since the vessel is not equipped with bow ports it became necessary to tie up a small portion of the deck about the hatches. Even then it was found impossible to handle some of the timbers, none less than 70 feet long, and this led to the proposition to have them chained together into a raft and towed behind the vessel.

It is estimated that the cargo could be done, although it will naturally prolong the voyage a great deal. And he is willing to provide the inducement is strong enough.

"Sailing vessels too just as well as steamers when they have the wind," Captain Mackay says, "but there is no particular reason why the undertaking should be dangerous. I believe that the hatches would be necessary in order to keep clear of the raft in unfavorable weather."

The Acme is a four-masted bark belonging to the Standard Oil company and is one of the largest and finest sailing vessels floating, the stars and stripes flying from the mast. She is a noted navigator and has been in the service of the company for many years.

FOR OFFENSIVE BREATH

There is nothing quite so repulsive as foul breath and yet people who are most scrupulous about their appearance and manners frequently neglect this most important matter.

A formula is here given that is contributed by a stomach specialist of national reputation and is said to be the most effective known to the profession for correcting stomach disorders, belching, sourness, sick headache, bad breath, indigestion and will positively cure dyspepsia in its worst form if used sufficiently long.

The best of it is that bad breath indicates an unhealthy condition of the stomach which will work havoc to the system and perhaps precipitate a serious disease.

When the tongue is coated or a gritty substance is deposited on the teeth, the stomach is out of order and should have immediate attention.

W. S. U'Ren in Announcing Candidacy, Stands for Aggressive Fight.

W. S. U'Ren of Oregon City in his announcement of his candidacy for United States senator in the Republican primaries says he takes this action because none of the avowed candidates is fighting aggressively for the right and power of the people and also because no candidate is actively supporting President Roosevelt in his rebellion against government of the people of the United States by Standard Oil and its allies.

Mr. U'Ren's platform is as follows: "Whether I am nominated and elected or not, I promise the people of Oregon that I will ways and means to advocate the enactment and enforcement of laws and constitutional amendments to apply the following principles in our national and state government:

"First—Every political party and independent organization in Oregon has the right to nominate a candidate for every elective office, but the people of Oregon have the sole and exclusive right to elect the person to occupy such office, from constable to governor and United States senator.

"Second—The people of Oregon have the right to instruct the members of the legislature and to demand from every candidate a pledge, in advance of his election, that he will obey their instructions.

"Third—I will advocate the nomination and election to the legislative assembly of those candidates only who subscribe to the platform of the initiative bill, the people's instruction statement No. 1."

"Fourth—An initiative and referendum amendment to the constitution of the state, which will give the people the right to elect United States senators by majority vote of the people, with power to recall and discontinue any senator.

"Fifth—Direct election of United States senators by majority vote of the people, with power to recall and discontinue any senator.

"Sixth—The enactment of laws by which we may have government at all times by actual majorities of the voters, as well as minorities.

"Seventh—Laws by which minorities, as well as majorities, shall be fairly represented in congress and the legislature.

"Eighth—Such election laws and limitation of the amount candidates may spend that a poor man may seek public office on equal terms, so far as money is concerned, with a candidate who has great wealth or corporation influence.

PE-RU-NA RELIEVES STUBBORN COLDS

Mr. Jacob W. Star, President Civil Service Retiring Association, also Sealer of Weights and Measures, Camden N. J., writes from 1331 Wallach Place, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I wish to give my unqualified endorsement of Peruna as the best possible remedy for distress and constipation, and without an equal as a tonic for the weakening effects of a long and stubborn cold. I have tried it thoroughly, and speak from a complete experience. It is excellent as a tonic."

Neglected Colds Lead to Many Ailments.
A SETTLED cold is a dangerous disease. It paves the way for many other ailments.

A stubborn cold may result in chronic catarrh of the head or nasal passages, which may produce a persistent form of pharyngitis.

If the cold settles in the larynx or bronchial tubes it gives rise to continued hoarseness or a cough that is difficult to relieve.

A cold may settle in nearly any organ in the body, and very quickly lead to organic disease of that organ.

For many years Peruna has been used by a multitude of people for colds. Whenever ordinary remedies fail to relieve a cold Peruna is resorted to. It seldom, if ever, fails.

Senora Romero was born in Los Angeles in 1809. Her father was one of the wealthiest of the Spanish landowners, who 50 years ago Senora Romero herself was rated the wealthiest woman in the southern part of the state.

Old age was the cause of her death.
