

The week has not been an active one socially, but matrons declare that though there is nothing to record they have been going constantly. Entertainers seem to have subscribed themselves lately almost altogether to the informal ways of entertainment. Every day people have given dinners of four or six or equally small luncheons, and have perhaps entertained one or two tables of bridge at a time. The larger affairs have, however, numbered only three. Egert's large reception yesterday, Mrs. Walter Smith's rather large skat party and one or two small bridge parties of six tables.

There are cards out for several small affairs the first of this week before Lent closes down on all entertaining for the strictest observers and on all elaborate entertaining for the more lax. Ash Wednesday comes this week.

The young people's married people's club, which meets fortnightly on Tuesdays will dance this week on Tuesday just before Lent, though it is understood that the club will continue its meetings throughout the season of abstinence. However, several will not attend and for these pleasures this dance was arranged. The members as announced once before, are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Alvord, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Ayer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chetney, Mr. and Mrs. Morton H. Insley, Mr. and Mrs. John Latta, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Kollock, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. The largest reception of the week was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Frederick Egert at the Hotel Portland in honor of Mrs. William Harold Staiger, the bride of the hostess's nephew. Mrs. Staiger was formerly Miss Florence Blagen who lived in Portland till the last two years and she has many friends in town.

The parlors of the hotel were elaborately decorated and beautiful with flowers and palms. Receiving with Mrs. Egert and Mrs. William Staiger was the bride's sister, and Miss Alice Strong were the bridesmaids, and the flower girls were Clara and Ruth Elliot, two little nieces of the bride. The bridegroom was attended by his best man, Christopher Scott of Clifton, Washington. The bride was gowned in cream white silk trimmed with handsome lace. She wore a large and beautiful bouquet of white amaryllis. The bridesmaids wore white net, one over pink and the other over cream silk, and they carried white bouquets.

Following the ceremony the bridal party, the relatives and a very few friends were received at the home of Mrs. Scott left at once for Grants Pass, where they will make their home.

There was a large attendance at the Paderewski concert Monday night and many fashionably gowned people were in attendance. Among the large crowd were noticed—Mr. and Mrs. William MacMaster, Mrs. William Horsfall of Marshfield, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Bristol, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, J. Wesley Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. OPEN FAUCET FLOODS SEVERAL FLOORS

A water faucet left open all night caused a flood on both floors and the basement of McAllen & McDonnell's store at Third and Morrison streets, damaging valuable laces, velvets, cloaks, suits and imported goods. The faucet was left running in the office of Louise Anderson, a dentist who occupies a room on the third floor of the building.

The water soaked through the floor of the dentist's office, dripped down onto the feminine finery, went through the second floor, soaked through still more finery, and finally went through into the basement, where it formed a pool on the cement floor. The water was discovered this morning by the policeman on the beat. It was at first believed that a pipe had broken, but a search disclosed the open faucet in the office of Dr. Anderson. The janitor was called and he shut the water off, but the floors and ceilings had been soaked so thoroughly that the water continued to drip for hours.

McAlister was notified this morning to estimate the damage done the stock, which he said was partially covered by insurance.
