

HUGE LOGS WILL SOON BE MADE INTO PAPER

Loading Spruce Timbers Onto Flat Cars at St. Johns for the Oregon City Paper Mills.

Huge spruce logs are being lifted from the waters of the Willamette and loaded on flatcars on the bank 30 feet above near the drydock at St. Johns. These logs are on the way to the paper mills at Oregon City.

The logs which are brought to St. Johns from the lower Columbia river are first cut into car lengths and then the lifting hooks attached to the end of the cable are driven into the logs. The foreman's whistle blows its half warning, half order, the donkey engine rumbles as the tightening cable winds around the drum and then slowly the big timber rises in the air and is carried to the top of the bank.

On the cars are two men armed with cant hooks, who, with a well-directed jab, get a firm hold on the swinging log and are slid along the top of the car until the log is finally brought to a resting place. It is held in midair for a minute, while the blocks and chains are adjusted, and then dropped slowly into place. Whole trainloads of these logs are being sent to the Oregon City mills every day.

Cure for Drunkenness

Orrine Treatment to Be Used at Home Without Publicity, or Loss of Time From Business.

The best aid to temperance is something that will strengthen the drunkard's wrecked nervous system and cure his unnatural craving for drink. We believe that any man who really desires to be cured of the liquor habit can cure himself by using Orrine. This remarkable treatment has made so many cures that we are glad to sell it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.

It is in two forms: No. 1, that can be given secretly, and No. 2, for those who wish to be cured. It is not only the most reliable treatment known, but it is also the most economical, as it costs only $1 a box, and there is no detention from the usual duties, while if a cure is not effected, there is no expense whatever. Mail orders filled on receipt of price in plain sealed package. Write for free booklet. The Orrine Co., Washington, D. C., or Clarke-Woodward Drug Co., and nearly all druggists in Portland.

WILD TALE OF THIRD DEGREE

Charged With Assault Defendant Tries to Kill His Own Confession.

On the witness stand in Judge Gantenbein's department of the circuit court yesterday J. J. Crawford declared that Sergeant Baty and Detectives P. Maloney and S. R. Hellyer of the Portland police force threatened to give him a cold shower bath, told him they would get him 20 years unless he would confess, and otherwise put him through a rigid course of "sweatbox" treatment.

Crawford's statements were denied by all of the officers, who said they had neither threatened him nor held out promises to secure a confession. Crawford was on trial on the charge of assaulting B. Mickel for the purpose of robbery, and his attorney resisted the introduction of his confession to the officers on the ground that it had been secured by threats and promises.

Crawford said that when the three officers talked with him at the police station they told him that it would be best for him to tell the truth, and that they would then use their influence with the district attorney and the judge to secure him a parole sentence on a plea of guilty. He said Sergeant Baty took him by the collar and shook him first under his nose, at the same time telling him he would get 20 years unless he confessed. He said Maloney suggested the cold shower and went out in the hall, coming back to report that the pipes were burst, so the bath could not be given.

The officers denied that anything was said about the bath or that any fist was shaken in Crawford's face, or that they had promised to secure a confession for him. After hearing this evidence Judge Gantenbein said that the weight of it was against the story of the defendant as to what transpired, and he ruled that the confession made by the defendant should be admitted in evidence.

Maloney then told of the confession. He said Crawford told him that he and two other men, Jim Miller and Tom McGlynn, went to the tent where Mickel was living and beat him with sticks of wood. They had seen him earlier in the day with a fair supply of clearing house certificates, but they found nothing on him when they had subdued him with their clubs.

Mickel, the prosecuting witness, is an Italian laborer, who was working on the Willamette valley electric line. He identified Crawford as one of the men who assaulted him. The jury quickly found the defendant guilty.

ON STILL HUNT FOR $8,000,000

O. R. & N.'s Recent Enormous Dividend Pulled Under Microscope.

A quiet investigation is being made by County Assessor Sigler and his deputies to determine whether the recent dividend of $8,250,000 declared by the O. R. & N. company was paid to the stockholders before March 1. If the money was not paid to the stockholders before 1 o'clock a. m. March 1, it is subject to taxation and will return a revenue of about $112,150 into the county coffers.

Although the dividend was declared before the time limit expired the county officials are not certain whether the money was actually out of the possession of the railway company in time to save it from taxation, and efforts are being made to determine this point. That the sole object of the company in declaring the dividend at this time was to escape taxation is believed by all who have followed the various moves of the company.

The action of the company in declaring the dividend at the present time is further taken to mean that the O. R. & N. company has very little hope of winning its appeal from the board of equalization to the state circuit court on the assessment of $16,000,000 levied against its holdings in Multnomah county. While a bitter legal battle is expected to follow on this point the county officials are hopeful of winning in the end, and it is believed the railway company will take drastic steps to thwart future taxation of this nature by methods known only to men engaged in the game of high finance.

In the past 10 or 12 years the company has declared annual dividends of only $4,000. The sudden leap to a dividend of 75 per cent, amounting to $8,250,000, following the visit of General Counsel W. W. Cotton to New York in time to be the first move on the part of the railway company to escape its just taxation.

Just what other moves will be taken by the company remain a mystery, but it is believed that no open move will be taken until next year. In the meantime the company may manipulate its affairs, so as to evade the assessor, but Mr. Sigler is also doing a little manipulating that will offset the work of the company.

While the company lays its plans in the dark, County Assessor Sigler is not to play in the open, and the company receives the benefit. For this reason Mr. Sigler is little disposed at present to tell just what methods he will take to prove that the company owned the money after 1 o'clock March 1.

COMPANY NOT LIABLE FOR BOY'S DROWNING

A verdict for the defendant in the damage case of Barbara Greene against James B. Tillotson and the Pacific Bridge company was given by a jury in Judge Gantenbein's department. Mrs. Greene claimed $5,000 for the death of her little boy, Harry, who slipped on a stringer into the stagnant water in a gulch on East Stark street on New Year's day, 1907. It was alleged that the defendants were negligent in not providing sufficient safeguards around the work they were carrying on at that place. Joseph Paquet was also originally named as a defendant, but a nonsuit as to him was sustained when the evidence for the plaintiff was in.

BERNARD ALBERS DIES OF HEART DISEASE

President of Milling Company Passes Away in Southern California.

Bernard Albers died yesterday of heart disease at Arrowhead Hot Springs, near Los Angeles, after an illness of about two months, aged 44 years. Mr. Albers was president and general manager of Albers Bros. Milling company of this city and the remains will be returned to Portland Sunday for burial.

Mr. Albers left Portland for the south two months ago upon advice of his physicians. At that time he was suffering from a severe cold and a grippa and sought for a return of health in a warmer climate. He was accompanied to the springs by his young son, Bernard.

Funeral arrangements will be made this morning. Mr. Albers was a member of the chamber of commerce, Commercial club, Elks, Knights of Columbus and the Manufacturers' association and it is probable that these organizations will take action in regard to his death. Bernard Albers was born in Lingen, Germany, March 6, 1864, and came to Oregon when 24 years of age. For four years he was employed in the commission of the firm of Albers & Schneier. In time the name of the firm was changed to Albers Bros. Milling company and is one of the largest manufacturers of cereal products on the Pacific coast, owning, in addition to its Portland holdings, large plants in Tacoma and Seattle.

Mr. Albers is survived by Mrs. Albers and six children, as follows: Agnes, aged 14; Theresa, 12; Herman, 10; Bernard, 8; Alfred, 5; Ernest, 1. A sister, Mrs. Frank Terhyden, and four brothers, Henry, William J., George and Frank Albers also survive the deceased.
