Judge Wolverton announced his de-cision this morning. He finds that only about 2,000 acres of land have been reclaimed and that in addition to indirealisted and that in addition to indi-cations of false statements of officers of the company, one of the successors to the defendant, in violation of the law, contracted for liens against the land in question and that the defend-ant companies are insolvent. The name of the receiver has not as yet been announced. The Three Sisters Irrigation company, which, since its original inception, has been reorganized and is now known as the Columbia Southern Irrigating com-pany, holds a contract with the state for the reclamation of 27,000 acres of land lying on the west side of the Deschutes river in Crook county along the Tamalo river.

Governor Chamberlain at that time told the settlers who had purchased had and given notes to the company for the balances due, to disregard payment of both principal and interest until the company was forced to meet the terms, rules and regulations laid down by the land board, nearly all of which the com-pany had violated in its relations with the settlers, whom it had induced to purchase land under promise that water in sufficient quantity would be con-veyed to their tracts for irrigation pur-poses. Miss Goldman replied: "I will say nothing more, nor do I want any further questions asked. The police has denied the right of free speech within the city limits, but they won't bother me at the cemetery. "I have a right to go there. I am not challenging the interference of the department, but I declare again, as I have declared a dozen times, that I am in Chicago to test the right of free speech, and I will test it."

Investigation made by State Engineer Lewis showed that although the com-pany had segregated 27,000 acres, and had sold and pocketed the money from the sale of a large portion of this area, there was in reality only sufficient wa-ter to reclaim about 11,000 acres. Since the visit of the state land board to the project two years ago, there has been constant turmoil between the set-tlers and the company, the former threatening at various times to bring criminal prosecution against the offi-cers whom they allege have swindled them out of their money under promise to provide water—a matter which the

BRAND NEW SPRING GOODS

All our regular customers know that for dress goods quality and reasonable prices, this store is not matched in Portland or elsewhere west of Chicago; they don't need sale inducements to bring them; they come as regularly as blackberries ripen in August. But we want you, everybody, strangers in town, to acquire the same habit—the habit of knowing that this is the dress goods center; and so we have instituted this aggressively sweeping sale to acquaint you with the place where values are regularly right — qualities highest — and where a sale

175 setting out the transaction. By this record it is shown that March 27, 1883, A. Comstock agreed to pur-chase the land of the company, after-ward assigning his claim to Bourne. May 8, 1893, Bourne paid the price asked, $2,240, and was given the deed which was duly recorded. The descrip-tion of the land as given in the deed calls for the west ½ of the northeast ¼, the west ½ of the southeast ½, the south-cast ½ of the southeast ½, the south-east ½ of the southeast ½, the south-east ½ of the southeast ½ and the west ½ of section 11, township 2 north of range 2 west of the Willamette mer-idian, consisting of 560 acres of grant land situated near Holbrook in Multno-mah county.

I and situated near Hdibrook in Multno-mah county. Since, under the terms of the land grant given to the company by the gov-ernment, the company is allowed to sell only 160 acres of lands to one home-steader at a uniform price of $2.50 per acre, it is thought that perhaps Senator Bourne has a personal interest in not entbusiastically supporting the Fulton resolution providing for the adjudica-tion of titles to these lands. EATING WITH HIS STOMACH

That's what the man who bolts his food without thoroughly chewing it, tries to do

This is particularly true when he uses soft, starchy foods, which seldom get the necessary digestion by the saliva, as nature intended, because most people swallow such foods as quickly as possible. This leads to weakened digestive organs, fermentation, imperfect nutrition, and sometimes appendicitis must be chewed, and for this, as well as other reasons, this food has saved many from chronic intestinal troubles and all the misery that means. If there's one thing about Grape-Nuts of greater in-terest than its scientific food qualities, it is its remarkable practical adaptability to all weakened conditions of the digestive organs and its power to build them up quickly.

will the supreme court of the United States would follow the state courts which had already passed upon the question. It was further argued that the law imposing the gross earnings tax did not tax the means employed by the government of the United States to execute its constitutional powers and was therefore not unconstitutional. In arguing the question the case of Kadderly against Portland was cited by the attorney-general in which it was held by Judge Bean of the supreme court that the laws passed under the initiative and referendum did not op-pose the federal constitution. Knowing that the circuit courts would be bound by the decision of the supreme court, Harrison Allen, attorney for the defend-ants, stipulated with Attorney-general Crawford that the case should be sub-mitted without argument. This was done and the court sustained the de-murrer. For like reasons the case will be submitted to the supreme court at Salem as soon as possible, without ar-gument, unless the court should ask for argument. It is presumed that Judge Cleland's ruling will be upheld. The case will then ba taken to the final battle will be fought. Constitutional Provisions. Before the highest court the state
