Oregon Producers Condemn Practice of Bringing in Japanese Onions When There Are Enough Local Stocks.

Real New Stock From the Island Sells at 15 Cents a Pound at Wholesale:

Pront street features:
Potatoes from Bermuda.
Butter decline soon.
California cheese here.
Lecal potatoes holding.
Japanese onions at $2.50.
Smelt run is enormous.
Arbaragus higher with frosts,
Egg market is lower.
Small run of pouitry.
Wheat and flour are dull.
Hop trading is small.

Potatoes Here From Bermuda. Real Bermuda potatoes have entered he Portland market and have sold wholesale at 15c a pound. The arrivals were of the garni chili variety and were in fine shape. They came via New Orleans and the express charge alone amounted to 6c a pound. The potatoes were packed in crates and were generally of small size. Levy & Spiegl, the receivers, say they are among the best supplies ever seen from the islands. It has been many a year since potatoes were shipped to Portland from Bermuda—the high express rate and the fact that Oregon and all Pacific coast states produce such good potatoes of their own makes shipments from the farsway winter resort almost an impossibility. Bermuda potatoes have a taste peculiar to that country; stocks being rather sweet, yet totally unlike the regular sweet potato. For this reason they are attracting much attention by being displayed in front of a Fourth street house. wholesale at 15c a pound. The arrivals

As has been forecast by The Journal during the past week, a drop in the butter market is about due. While the local market is still in very good shape and all city creameries report demand fully up to supplies—the fact that the California market is 11 a pound under ours convinces the local trade that Portland and northwest prices will have to drop in order to keep the California makers from putting all their surplus supplies in this market. In San Francisco today extra creameries are being quoted at 2sc a pound as compared with 35c here. While the price of butter here today is exactly the same as that prevailing a year ago this date and that the local price reached 37% c after this thate—March 22 to be exact—conditions are entirely different this season. While a year ago the season was backward Butter Decline Soon Due. are entirely different this season. While a year ago the season was backward everywhere and California was very short of butter at this time, the flush of the present season is almost at hand. For this reason some of the creameries are considering a grop of 2%c a pound here tomorrow, while others think a larger drop would be advisable. No change today.

Cheese Market Is Steadier. A steadier tone is shown in the local choese market. Trade is better—supplies being picked up more freely than for some time and quotations are getting closer together than for several months past. Young Americas are very scarge and for this reason some supplies were brought up from California on the steamer. These stocks are being offered along the street at 16c a pound.

H. M. Cake at Forest Grove Strong for Statement No. 1 as for His Party.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Forest Grove, Or., March 10.—In opening his campaign for the Republican nomination for United States senator at this place last night H. M. Cake of Portland announced his position on various public questions clearly and various public questions clearly and concisely. Mr. Cake spoke at Masonic hall, where several hundred persons had gathered to hear him.

He was introduced by Walter Hoge, city recorder. Mr. Cake's public appearance in this city to formally open his campaign had been announced, but the crowd that assembled to hear him was far in excess of what was expected. Numbers of farmers as well as residents of the town attended. For Boosevelt and the Party.

In opening his address, Mr. Cake insisted on the necessity of the policies of Roosevelt and the Republican party. He showed from the history of the party since its birth that it has been in harmony with the best interests of the people. the people.
The policies of Roosevelt are rect harmony with the interests of this state, he said, and he referred especially to the reclamation policy, which means much to Oregon. He also indorsed the policy of the president on the improvement of interior waterways, the forest reserves and the control of the president on the improvement of interior waterways, the forest reserves and the control of the president of of the p transportation lines and corporations. He said it was for the best interests of Oregon that the Republican party be are in favor of the election of senators by the people.

"This is shown by the acts of congress and of the state legislatures," he said, "the reasons for the demand for the election by the people instead of the legislature are that the tone of the senate will be improved, there will be freedom from corporate influences, and senators will respond to the wishes of the people and be in greater sympathy with them than under the present system. The effect upon the legislature, the deadlocks that have occurred, and the absorption of the legislatures to the exclusion of the consideration of legisexclusion of the consideration of legislation, and the corruption that has taken place in connection with election of United States senators will all be done away with in the election of senators by the people."

No. 1 sil the evil effects of the former method would be avoided and the time of the legislators would be spent in the making of needed laws.

Mr. Cake further believes in Statement No. 1 because he is in favor of the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people, and until the constitution of the United States is so amended to bring about that method, Statement No. 1 indirectly brings about the same result. Believing that the will of the people should be supreme, Mr. Cake believes that the candidate who receives the largest number of votes should be elected United States senator by the legislature regardless of his party affiliations.

New York, March 10.—Raymond Hitchcock, one of the most popular comedians on Broadway, was called into special sessions court today to answer a charge of wronging young girls, which, in case of conviction, means a long penitentiary sentence—at least several years. The case promises to result in a number of sensations, as the defense today, in the opening moments of the trial, hinted at persecution, and even attempted blackmall is alleged by some of New York's most famous anti-vice societies.

Hitchcock was accompaned to court by his wife, known upon the stage as fora Zabelle, who has been his most loyal friend throughout his trial, and who has always insisted that Hitchcock is innecent. As soon as the examination of the special panel of 100 tales men is concluded and the jury is completed, Mrs. Hitchcock will be harred from the courtroom, as she is one of the chief witnesses for the defense.

Hitchcock's arrest followed his testimony in the case of Hugo Voecks, and the was "located" in sections of the chief witnesses for the defense.
