EACH MUST DECIDE

A large congregation was present at the first evening of the evangelistic services conducted by Rev. Clarence True Wilson at Centenary Methodist Episcopal church on the east side. A large chorus choir lead in the singing, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Drake in charge. Mrs. E. A. Bamford also sang.

Dr. Wilson took for his text first John 5 and 16: "If any man see his brother sinning a sin not unto death he shall ask and God will give him life for them that sin not unto death." There is a sin unto death not concerning this, do I say that he should make request? All unrighteousness is sin and there is a sin not unto death.

He said we must distinguish between sin and vice, evil or crime. Vice is an ethical term and is used by those who consider public morals. Evil is a generic term for all those conditions that shock the sentiment of mankind. Crime is a civil word to designate offences against the laws of the state, but sin has its relation to God, and is the transgression of his law and love. If there were no God there could be no sin in the Christian science.

Some have inquired, "Is sin a reality?" We reply that all realities may be distributed in three categories, substances, attributes and relations. Now, sin is not a substance, nor an attribute, but it is real as a relation, being the act of the creature by which he takes himself out of the moral orbit and ceases to revolve around God, the center of the moral universe, and makes True Wilson at Centenary Methodist and ceases to revolve around God, the center of the moral universe, and makes everything revolve around self.

But sin may be forgiven, that may be forgiven in answer to prayer. We may be led to repentance and conversion through other people's prayer and faith unless we have committed the sin unto death, and this is the same sin as that referred to by Christ as the unpardonable sin. Biasphemy is the culmination of the holy spirit's ministry and the reason that it is unpardonable is that the holy spirit is the supremo manifest station of God to this world, and the channel of his communicated blessings. To cut ourselves off from and ceases to revolve around God the other new schools have so fire escapes.

FIRE ESCAPES

School Board Will Provide Extra Precautions to Prevent Disaster.

Among other precautions to be taken by the Portland school board to prevent an occurrence like the Collinwood disaster, fire escapes will be put on the east side high school building. This the east side high school building. This building is over three stories high, having more than 800 pupils and has been without fire escapes for more than a year—ever since it has been in use. It was also discovered during the discussion yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the school board that the specifications for school buildings in Portland do not include fire escapes, hence the east side high school and other new schools have no fire escapes.

It was also voted to require the principals in every public school in the city to hold a fire drill at least once each week. Upon the principal's failure so to do he will be liable to a fine of $5. The principal must report each fire drill to the superintendent.

One of the most important steps taken was to direct Architect Jones to remodel the west side high school to conform to the suggestions made by the fire department. Fire Chief Campbell was asked for a report and sent Battalion Chief Young to investigate. The following is Mr. Young's report, as approved by the chief:

"Rearrange seats in the assembly "Rearrange seats in the assembly hall and gallery to comply with the theatre ordinance and make the aisles

"Place signs on all doors through which fire escapes may be reached.

"Place automatic door-catchers on the doors to hold them open.

"Install two four-inch standpipes in main hall with hose gate and hose at each floor (hose gates to be approved by the fire department).

"Remove ashes from the basement and provide metal ash barrels.

"Make small extensions to the fire escapes.

escapes.

"Place sigrs at all push buttons for fire alarm purposes and have one fire ax placed on each floor.

"Extend the fire alarms to the fourth floor and sound the fire alarm daily.

"Oursheys all windows."

"Overhaul all windows. "Cold-air shaft to furnace to be changed to the north or south side of the building and be built of metal. "Floor joists under the main hall should be metal lath and plastered; in case of fire the wooden joists would burn rapidly."

case of fire the wooden joists would burn rapidly.

"Remove the fence on the south side of Fourteenth street.

"Place shutter or damper in hot-air register to prevent passage of fire."

The most important among these recommendations in the opinion of the board, is that regarding the removal of debris from the basement together with plastering the floor joists under the first floor, especially those over the furnace. Metal laths will be used for this purpose for the first floor must be especially strong.
