

JUDGE T. G. HAILEY DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS

Thomas G. Hailey.

Judge Thomas G. Hailey, one of the most prominent members of the Oregon bar, died last night at his residence, 835 Marshall street. He underwent a serious surgical operation at a local hospital some weeks ago, from the effects of which he failed to rally. Judge Hailey was a native of Oregon and for the past 30 years had been prominent in the political and social life of the state. The funeral will take place Wednesday at 1 o'clock at Trinity church, interment at Riverview cemetery.

Sketch of T. G. Hailey.
Thomas Griffin Hailey, ex-supreme judge of Oregon, and one of the most prominent citizens of the state, was born July 13, 1856, at La Grande, Union county, and was the third son of John Hailey, a pioneer stage man and well known citizen of Idaho.

When Thomas G. Hailey was six months of age the parents moved from La Grande to Boise, but soon returned to Oregon, residing at The Dalles for a time while the father operated stage lines in Utah, Idaho and Oregon. Later the family moved to Boise again and established a permanent residence, which has since been the home of the elder Haileys.

Thomas G. Hailey was educated in the public and private schools of Boise, spending his vacations on the farm, where his father kept large herds of horses and cattle, and where the young man became familiar with all the vicissitudes of western life.

Studies Law.
In the fall of 1884 Thomas G. Hailey went to Pendleton and joined the law firm of Cox and Minor as a student and clerk and remained at that work for a year, when he went east and entered Washington and Lee University at Lexington, Virginia, where he spent four years in the collegiate law course, graduating from the law department in 1889 with the degree of doctor of law. As a student he was an able speaker and debater and became prominent in all the literary and professional circles of the university and when he returned to Pendleton to enter life as an attorney on his own responsibility he was a polished orator and convincing debater and always ranked high in his profession, as a public speaker and public spirited citizen.

Soon after his graduation he went to Pendleton and again became associated with Cox and Minor, remaining with them from July, 1889, until January 1, 1890, when they moved to Portland and young Hailey embarked in the profession of law on his own account.

First Public Office.
The first public office held by Mr. Hailey was that of a clerk of the supreme court at Pendleton, a position which he held from 1889 to 1892. In 1892 he was married to Miss Maud L. Beach of Iowa and Mrs. Hailey and two daughters survive him.

From his first appointment to public office the honors came regularly and were always borne with ability and grace. In 1892 he was appointed deputy district attorney for the Sixth Judicial district, and at the same time formed a law partnership with Stephen A. Lowell, which partnership lasted until October, 1895, when Mr. Lowell was appointed circuit judge of the Sixth district.

Mr. Hailey then formed a partnership with Judge Fee and John L. Austin, the firm retaining offices in Pendleton and Union. After the dissolution of the firm he practiced alone, except for a time when he was associated with the late John J. Ballers, and still later with Judge S. A. Lowell, with whom he was associated when appointed to the supreme bench of Oregon by Governor Chamberlain.

Brilliant Career.
In 1895 he was nominated by the Democrats for circuit judge of the sixth district, but was defeated by his former law partner, Judge Stephen A. Lowell, in a three-cornered race. In 1900 he was nominated by the Democrats for district attorney of the Sixth Judicial district and was elected by a handsome plurality over James A. Fee. In December, 1901, he was elected mayor of Pendleton for a two-year term and served for four years on the district school board.

In public and private life he was always fair and honest, fighting political opponents in the open and always standing for law enforcement and good government.

Upon the appointment of Judge Wolverson to the federal judgeship in Oregon, Mr. Hailey was appointed to the supreme bench of the state by Governor Chamberlain, where he served ably until relieved by Judge Eakin who was elected to the position in 1906. After retiring from the bench he formed a law partnership with Governor Chamberlain in Portland and had since resided here.

He owned two large farms and a fine dairy herd in Umatilla county and was devoted to farm life even while at the zenith of his law practice.

FRANZ JOSEF'S HEALTH POOR

Condition of Emperor More Serious Than Austrians Report It to Be.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Paris, March 16.—Information from court sources received here today indicate that the state of health of Emperor Franz Josef of Austria is much more serious than is given out in the Vienna reports. Audience has been suspended and it is regarded as certain that the projected jubilee plans will have to be abandoned. Though reports say the emperor is only suffering from a cold, private advices have it that his illness is a recurrence of the malady which almost terminated fatally a short while ago.

PLAN TO MAKE THREE CITIES ONE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
San Francisco, March 16.—The plans to consolidate Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley have taken definite form, and it is now probable that the question will be submitted to a vote not later than June. The matter has been discussed informally by clubs and other organizations, but it was not until yesterday, when the Oakland chamber of commerce announced a meeting to be held Thursday for the sole purpose of launching a campaign, that it actually came to the front. If the proposition is adopted as the polis, a new city and county government will be formed to control the present municipalities and the population will be at least 300,000.

MONROE DEDICATES NEW SCHOOLHOUSE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Monroe, Or., March 16.—Bellfountain has just dedicated its new $3,500 schoolhouse. Exhibition work by the students took up all the day and the new building was crowded with patrons of the school, who were well satisfied with the showing made by the younger generation.
The new structure is built in the bungalow style, with a full basement of concrete, is well lighted, and is equipped with a modern furnace.
Professor Mack and Miss Madeline Nichols are the teachers in charge of the nine grades taught.

New Incorporations.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., March 16.—Articles of incorporation have been filed in the office of the secretary of state as follows:

FOR A GREATER KLAMATH FALLS

Civic Federation Agitates Water System and Boundary Expansion.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Klamath Falls, Or., March 16.—The Civic federation, organized some weeks ago, has again taken up the question of the city's water supply and a permanent committee has been appointed to go carefully into every phase of the question, both as to the establishment of an entirely new system and the taking over of the present system. The federation recommends that a system be established in 1909 and that the committee, after attaining thorough familiarity with the question, address a letter to every property-owner, asking for an expression of opinion. The matter will be also presented to the mayor and council.

The Civic federation has expressed itself in favor of the addition to the corporation of the various additions to the city, aggregating 3,235 acres, including Hot Springs, Fairview, Nob Hill, Mountain View and the addition of part of Buena Vista addition and a 40-acre tract across the river. The matter will be presented to the voters in the form of a referendum, and the committee have restrictions as to buildings to be erected, the laying of water pipes, the erection of poles, etc., and the mayor has expressed himself as opposed to the taking in of any addition with restrictions. The decision will rest with the people, however.

GUN AIMS ITSELF AND PULLS TRIGGER

Corvallis Girl the Victim of a Remarkable Accident—Shot in the Jaw.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Corvallis, Or., March 16.—Miss Rosa Tunison, who figured in a peculiar gun accident here Friday evening, is recovering. The accident was one which will probably never be fully explained, but it was a close call for the girl. She is about 17 years old and was spending the evening at the W. C. Metcalf home, near her own residence. A .22-caliber rifle stood in the corner of the room, and the girl vows that no one was near the gun when it fell, was discharged and shot her in the face. The bullet entered the chin just below the right corner of the mouth, ranged downward and backward and made its exit below the angle of the jaw. It is thought the jawbone will not be involved. She seems to be progressing toward recovery.

RUMORED ENGAGEMENT OF ELKINS' DAUGHTER

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, March 15.—Little credence is placed here in the report that the Duke de Abruzzi, Italy's famous naval commander and explorer, is to wed the daughter of Senator Elkins, as the Genoa, Italy, report of yesterday has it. The report is not a new one and has been repeatedly denied by both Mr. Elkins and the senator.
