

NEW SCHEDULE OF PILOT RATES

Chamber of Commerce Issues Circular Concerning River Navigation Charges.

A schedule of the latest regulations and charges in connection with navigation of ocean going vessels at this port has been printed by the Portland Chamber of Commerce for distribution to the information of masters and vessel owners. Vessels towed from the sea to Astoria only, and return, will be charged 70 per cent of the rate charged from the sea to Portland and return. The 25 per cent additional for the Portland tow is regarded as a trivial expense in comparison with the great benefits received by the action of fresh water in cleaning the bottoms of vessels in ballast towed from the sea to Astoria and return, when entering the river as a port of call, and departing without cargo, and a saving of 25 per cent of the low rate to Portland and return. This makes but a trifling expense to be incurred by a vessel wishing to touch port only for incidental business.

Give Port Same Power.

Bar pilotage is compulsory, but river pilotage for sailing vessels is not compulsory, the latter law having been repealed some years ago because the O. R. & N. company, a responsible concern, undertook to man its own towboats with capable pilots and thus abate this unnecessary expense.

Under the proposed amendment to the Port of Portland law, which will give this port jurisdiction on the lower river the same liberal conditions will prevail as to river pilotage. The commission will simply take over the offices and duties now imposed upon the O. R. & N. company's towboats.

In the chamber's circular, masters are strongly recommended not to attempt to discharge their duties without pilots, except in cases of grave emergency. The pilot schooner cruises in the neighborhood of the lightship, and pilots are also put aboard from tow boats when vessels are reported from North Head. Rates inward are $5 per foot draft and 10 cents per ton net register, and the same outward. Masters may navigate their own vessels over the bar pilot grounds, but if the service of a bar pilot is ordered, the vessel is liable for full pilotage, and if outward bound for half pilotage.

Lining for wheat cargoes should be done by contract, and should not exceed $50 to $85 per sailing ship, according to size, and $125 to $250 per steamer, according to pilot's rate, but to the cost of lumber, which will average about $13.50 per thousand, and burlap at 6 cents per yard. Lining for flour cargoes will cost 15 per cent more than for wheat cargoes.

Under the present state law boarding masters are permitted to charge 50 cents for the seaman's shipboard. This charge is payable by the ship and does not include an allotment of one month's wages which is usually collected from the seaman. Wages average 15 for A. B. seamen and 14 for ordinary seamen. Firemen and trimmers, 15 to 16 per month. The chamber is now working for a reduction of port charges, and would be glad of any suggestions from owners, also to have them instruct their captains to call on the Chamber of Commerce for information and assistance in all emergencies.

This system a child who does good work for three successive terms completes the same course that is covered by two years' work by those not so apt, and so gains a double promotion, or as the children say, "skips" a class. This works no hardship upon the slower pupils who take four terms to complete the work. While this method makes extra work for the teachers it is of advantage to the pupils that is inevitably the end sought by Mr. Rigler.
