

POMONA GRAVE STANDS SOLID FOR STATEMENT 1

Members Adopt Resolutions Pledging Themselves Not to Vote for Candidates Who Oppose People's Right to Rule—Put Seal of Approval on Recall.

Statement No. 1 was indorsed by the quarterly meeting of Multnomah county district Pomona grave held in Evening Star hall on the Section Line road yesterday. In the resolution which was adopted pledging the members of the grave to Statement No. 1 and the principles of the primary law it was set out that the members should not support for the legislature any candidate who did not subscribe to the statement. Resolutions asking for the passage of a water code bill was also adopted. R. W. Gill of Clackamas county brought up the subject of Statement No. 1 which was discussed generally. While few of the members of the grave were antagonistic to the principle of Statement No. 1, some opposed the resolution on the ground that it being a political measure should not be considered by the organization. The resolution, however, was adopted by a large vote. It reads as follows:

Approve Direct Election.

"Whereas, The grave, together with a majority of the people in the state, have for some time past been in favor of the direct election of United States senators by a direct vote of the people.

"Whereas, There is upon the statutes at the present time a pledge referred to all candidates for the legislature, known as Statement No. 1, which if signed will cause all the members elected to the legislature to vote for the people's choice for United States senator.

"Whereas, There is an evident movement upon the part of certain political forces in the state to place Statement No. 1 in disrepute and defeat its object.

"Resolved, by Multnomah County Pomona grave in session assembled, that we stand firmly in accord with the purpose and usage of Statement No. 1 and that we recommend to all members of the grave to support no candidate for the legislature, irrespective of his party, who will not sign Statement No. 1 to the end that the successful election of United States senators by the people may become permanent.

Water Code.

John H. Lewis, state engineer, was present at the meeting and made an earnest plea for the enactment of a water code in order that the water rights of the state could be successfully and quickly adjudicated. Mr. Lewis showed that the statutes at the present time were defective and gave no secure rights to the users of water in irrigated districts. After a discussion of the subject a resolution was presented by J. D. Leitch of the grave on record as favoring the enactment of a water code and asking that the grave through the state determine the attitude of prospective members of the legislature with regard to the enactment of water legislation. The resolution was adopted.

The next quarterly meeting of the district grave will be held with Pleasant valley grave, Spacomore Station, Wednesday, June 10.

Delegates to the state grave were instructed to work for Graham in the struggle for the state grave of 1909. There was a large attendance at the quarterly meeting yesterday.

PETRIFIED TROUT IS FOUND IN GRANITE

Luster and Color of Living Game Fish Retained in Fossil.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Helena, Mont., March 19.—Dr. Charles Reising of Helena has come into possession of one of the most curious fossil specimens ever unearthed in Montana. It is a petrified trout, which W. R. Dall, an English engineer now in charge of the coke ovens at Leonard, dug out of a loose granite formation in the Huntley reservation, near Billings. The specimen was found imbedded in the granite at a depth of 20 feet, and was partly broken by the laborers, who were engaged in digging a well.

Many fish fossils have been found in this section, but never one in which the luster and color of the living creature have been preserved. The specimen which has come into the hands of Dr. Reising not only retains its physical contour, but its surface shows all of the iridescent colors of a live trout.

The example of petrification thus displayed may be new to scientists, for it is an established theory of fossilization that the decomposition of the perishable parts of the creature fossilized is followed by the substitution in nature of some rock or crystalline deposit which takes the form but does not maintain the color or anatomical details of skin or bone.

The fossil unearthed by Engineer Dall is minus head and tail, showing about two-thirds of the total length and girth of a trout that was about a foot long. The pick or shovel of the excavator broke this into three parts, which fit together exactly. The scales are intact and the process of petrification of the interior shows the distinct difference between the flesh on the outside and the contents of the stomach.

The flesh of the fish has been transformed into a lustrous pearl-like substance as hard as marble and as radiant as with the color of a true pearl. The texture of the skin is marvelously retained, although it is hard as flint, and the scales of the fish, smooth as polished agate, display the changeless iridescence peculiar to the trout of this region.

HEAVY DAMAGE BY STORM ON COAST

Steamer Sue H. Elmore, Only Vessel Out in Gale, Arrives Uninjured.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Bay City, Or., March 19.—Much damage has been caused to county roads and bridges in this section by the wind and rain storm which began early last Friday morning and continued without intermission until Sunday evening. The rainfall during the three days was the heaviest ever known here and the waters of the mountain streams broke all previous records.

The terrific gale which had been blowing from the state during the night to northwest Sunday evening and although little rain has fallen since then the temperature has been down close to the freezing point and there have been several heavy showers of hail.

The stage and mail routes in this vicinity have been seriously handicapped, but are gradually getting back into normal condition.

The steamer Sue H. Elmore, which reached Bay City from Portland last Thursday morning, was the only vessel of any importance in the bay during the height of the storm and escaped without suffering any damage.

CZAR RECALLS HIS DIPLOMATS

Russian Ruler Convinced That Members of Corps Have Lost Nerve.

(United Press Leased Wire.) St. Petersburg, March 19.—Convinced that Russia's diplomats have lost their nerve as a result of their country's recent troubles at home and abroad, the czar has determined on a complete re-organization of the service.

Grand Duke Vladimir has been charged with the conduct of the shakeup and the selection of a younger and more aggressive corps which can play the diplomatic game with the traditional skill of the Muscovite, despite the late reverse.

In addition to a host of lesser lights, the following men hitherto classed as leaders in Russian diplomacy are said to be slated for retirement: M. Isvolsky, minister for foreign affairs; M. Zinovieff, ambassador to Turkey; M. Nelidoff, ambassador to France; Count Osten-Saken, ambassador to Germany; Count Cassini, ambassador to Spain and former ambassador to the United States.

The shakeup is understood to have been precipitated by Austria-Hungary's successful negotiation of a Constantinople of terms for linking the Turkish and Austrian railway systems.

BETTER RURAL MAIL SERVICE IN MARION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., March 19.—An order received by the local postoffice from Washington has made it possible that within a few days a saving of 24 hours will be made in the delivery of mail in the rural districts.

Heretofore mail has been arriving on the 11 o'clock Southern Pacific train in the morning, but since the installation of the Oregon Electric line, an effort is being made to have the Portland & Overland mail brought to this city on the first electric car arriving here at 8 o'clock in the morning.

The order from Washington causes the rural carriers to leave at 8:45 o'clock in the morning, instead of 7:45 as heretofore, so that when the mail arrives on the electric train it can be delivered the same day.

Candidate Roster Shows There Will Be Hot Times in the Old County.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Dallas, Or., March 19.—Both the Republicans and the Democrats have about completed their party tickets in Polk county. Warm contests are in progress for nomination at the primaries for several of the offices.

W. D. Henry of Spring Valley will be the Democratic nominee and will stand unequalled for statement No. 1.
