

BRADY OF W. J. BRYAN

Commoner Is Forty-Eight Years Old Today—Will Open Democratic Campaign at Chicago Tonight With Address to League.

LIFE JOURNEY OF WILLIAM J. BRYAN.

1860—Born in Salem, Marion county, Illinois.
1881—Graduated from Illinois college, Jacksonville, Illinois.
1887—Removed to Lincoln, Nebraska.
1888—Declined the nomination for lieutenant-governor.
1890—Elected to fifty-second congress.
1892—Elected to fifty-third congress.
1893—Declined a third nomination for congress.
1896—Nominated for president in the national Democratic convention.
1896—Second nomination for president.
1905—Made a tour of the world with Mrs. Bryan.

Chicago, Ill., March 19.—William J. Bryan, twice the candidate of the Democratic party for president of the United States, and in race-track parlance, "the one best bet" for the nomination again this year, spent his forty-eighth birthday here in Chicago today. Mr. Bryan is here to speak at a meeting in the seventh Regiment armory tonight, which will mark the formal opening of the Democratic campaign in Chicago. The demonstration has been arranged by the Bryan league, of which former Mayor Carter H. Harrison is the head. During the day word was passed around that this was Mr. Bryan's birthday and for several hours the distinguished Nebraskan was kept busy receiving the good wishes of friends and admirers. Though it is now nearly 15 years since he received his first nomination for the highest office in the land, Mr. Bryan is still a comparatively young man. He is in the prime of vigorous manhood and well qualified physically to stand the strain of the coming campaign. Twice in his life he has made no visible inroads on his physical resources.

If he is nominated at the Denver convention next July Mr. Bryan intends to start at once on a strenuous campaign that will equal if not eclipse his wonderful record already established in this district. Mr. Bryan is the originator of the whirlwind campaign of 1896. Mr. Bryan's speaking campaign of 1896 lasted approximately four months and there were on an average 25 camps during that time. In this campaign he made more than 2,100 speeches, short and long. During the campaign he made no visible inroads on his physical resources. Mr. Bryan apparently was in as good physical condition as at the start. After four years of the campaign and as a result of his efforts in the campaign, he was in the pink of condition. His first effort was in a speech of acceptance made in Indianapolis on a day so hot that many persons were overcome in the crowd. With such a beginning, Mr. Bryan proceeded to break his speech-making record of the first campaign. On one occasion, working westward from St. Louis, he made his first speech of the day at 5 o'clock in the morning and his last at midnight, which meant an almost continuous performance of 18 hours. And his midnight speech was said to have been made with all the vigor of a man who had made no previous public appearance during the day.

MRS. EVELYN THAW IN STATE OF COLLAPSE

(United Press Special Wire.)
New York, March 19.—Evelyn Thaw is today reported in a state of physical collapse, facing what she will be dire poverty. She has received notice that her husband's attorney has filed a bill in the supreme court for a settlement of $25,000 and consent to an annulment of her marriage to Harry Thaw, or suit will be brought by the young man for a divorce without alimony or settlement.
A mass of startling affidavits have been prepared by Thaw detectives who have recorded every move made by Evelyn during the past year and are said to have obtained reports that Evelyn had been seen at the Waldorf and again become a frequenter of the old resorts in the white light district she described so dramatically on the witness stand. It is believed that the girl will grasp the offer while there is yet time.

JOSEPHINE BOOSTERS PLAN GREAT THINGS

Device for Catching the Traveler's Eye at Grants Pass.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Grants Pass, Or., March 19.—Grants Pass citizens, through the medium of the Commercial club and other organizations of the city and county, have begun an advertising campaign that is intended to more than double the population of Josephine county within the next four years. It is the plan of the promoters not only to bring in more people, but to develop the resources of the county, especially fruit and gardening.
To catch the eye of the passerby, two large arches have been built across Sixth street, one on each side of the railroad. These arches are permanent, and besides the slogans portrayed in big letters, they are equipped with many hundreds of "electric lights" by which they will be brilliantly illuminated at night. This section of Sixth street will be paved, which will add to its attractiveness as well as convenience and comfort.
In his recent address before the citizens of Grants Pass Tom Richardson of the Portland Commercial club stated that these arches because of their close proximity to the depot and their location in the heart of the business section are worth thousands of dollars to the city and county. Just as an advertisement is placed upon a building, he commented upon daily by hundreds of people.
Mr. Richardson gave many valuable suggestions to local boosters, and these will be used in following the campaign now under way.

For several months Lemp and his wife have been living apart. A short time ago he began habeas corpus proceedings in order to get to see the son occasionally. WANT BERT HUFFMAN ON STATE COMMISSION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
La Grande, Or., March 19.—Railroad employees of the O. R. & N. are urging Bert Huffman, editor of the East Oregonian at Pendleton and a former locomotive engineer on the mountain division of the O. R. & N., to become a candidate for the office of railroad commissioner.
Huffman worked out of this city for a number of years as an engineer on the O. R. & N., and is well known to and popular with the employees all over the system. Being a practical railroad man, aside from his other qualifications, he is looked upon as a most logical candidate for the office of railroad commissioner. He is an active part in securing better schedules with the company and also in securing better laws for employees.

RAILROAD EMPLOYEES ASK EDITOR OF PENDLETON EAST OREGONIAN TO ENTER RACE.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Pendleton, Or., March 19.—So successful was the summer fallow train recently run by the O. R. & N. company through the wheat belt of the Palouse district that Umatilla county farmers are making an effort to secure such a train for the wheat belt of this county.
Half a dozen agricultural experts accompanied the train and lectured on dry farming, autumn plowing and deep plowing for the wheat districts, with the result that farmers were greatly benefited and have expressed a desire to hear more on these advanced lines of farming. Umatilla county farmers are dissatisfied with summer fallowing half of their valuable land each year and desire to know what crops can be raised on the winter wheat which will conserve the soil forces and at the same time yield a profit. With this end in view they will ask the O. R. & N. company to organize a farmer's train.

OVERWORK MAILMEN TO AID OREGONIAN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, March 19.—There is indignation expressed among the few rural mail carriers who work the nine routes out of Salem on account of a change in the schedules, compelling them to leave a city at 4:45 instead of 7:45 as formerly, to accommodate the Oregonian, which now arrives at Salem at 8 a. m. by the Oregon Electric.
Only a few of these mailmen are charged on the rural routes, and the change in schedule brings the men in an hour later at night. As they are poorly paid and have long hours now, the change in the public service in the interest of building up the circulation of a newspaper could have reached Washington, the change was made by telegraphic orders through the delegation and the postal department.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Corvallis, Or., March 19.—A large and enthusiastic crowd assembled here Tuesday night to hear the address of H. M. Cake, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator. Mr. Cake made a strong and earnest speech in support of his candidacy. He dwelt particularly upon party fealty, urging Republicans to abandon dissension and factional strife. He told of the needs of Oregon and emphasized the plea that it is only by means of the Republican party that aid can be secured for this country.
