LITTLE CHIP'S REAL NAME IS AS FUNNY AS HIMSELF

Little Chip is as funny behind the scenes as he is in the glare of the footlights. His stage hands can hardly do their work while he is around. Last night, between the first and second acts of "Dream City" he was found busily engaged in that fascinating game of solitaire known as Klondike. But if the game was solitaire Chip was far from being solitary. His dressing room was packed with members of his company and employees of the theatres listening delightedly to his run of droll remarks and his funny gestures. Chip isn't five feet tall. He was going down street in Atlanta a few weeks ago and wanted to smoke a cigarette, but found he had no match. He stopped in a cigar store and asked the clerk for one, but he, too, was out. "Use the cigar lighter," said the clerk, pointing to the gas flame hanging from the wall. Chip stood under the lighter, wriggled on his toes and did everything he could think of to reach the flame. He was too short. The clerk stood and laughed until he was tired, as they came over and boosted Chip up to where he could secure his light. The next morning Chip was astonished to see in big head lines "Little Chip Held Up." The story of how he had to reach the cigar lighter had been given to the newspapers, and they made the most of their opportunity. "I've never been called anything but Chip for 30 years," said he in answer to a question concerning his queer surname. "Scarcely anyone knows my real name, and I have never told how I acquired my present one. But it was this way: I was just old enough to go on the stage, say a few lines and sing a song or two, and then get off. I was traveling with my father in a vaudeville company known as Gus Hill's World of Marvels. We had finished playing at a small town and were standing near the station waiting for our train. "Gus Hill was talking to my father about me, and said 'Well have to get a new name for that boy of yours. Master Samuel Kornblom won't go on the stage.' Just then a piece of bark flew down from the tree we were standing under and struck me on the shoulder. "Here we have it!" exclaimed Gus. "He's a chip of the old block, anyway, so we'll just call him Little Chip." And Little Chip it's been ever since."

Young men realize by coming here they get the style they want. Here are all the new pronounced shapes. Coats with two, three or four buttons and every variety of new lapel, cuff, curve, dip and pattern, with youth and vigor woven into every thread. Here, also, are the proper styles for the more conservative dressers—suits, $10 to $30.

TO PLACE RAILROAD LANDS ON MARKET

Eugene, Or., March 20.—E. T. Merritt, traveling passenger agent of the Union Pacific railroad, was in Eugene yesterday on his way to Butte valley, California, where he and other railroad men are interested in lands that are now being placed upon the market. While here Mr. Merritt made partial plans with J. H. Bingham, of this city, to syndicate a large section of land in the vicinity of Eugene in the near future and afterward place it upon the market in small tracts.

SPRING STYLES FOR MEN

Buffum & Pendleton Are Making an Interesting Display of New York Spring Fashions in Men's Outerwear. New York city is the recognized fashion center of the world for men's clothing. All the authoritative designs can be traced directly to a few of the designers employed by the leading tailoring establishments in New York city. Buffum & Pendleton of this city are in the enviable position of being able to submit to their customers a complete range of men's outer apparel in the unquestioned New York modes of the day. This is accounted for by the fact that Buffum & Pendleton are the exclusive distributors in this city of the products of Alfred Benjamin & Co. Alfred Benjamin & Co., whose tailor shops are but a block from Broadway, a minute's walk from Fifth avenue, have been for a third of a century accepted by fashionable New Yorkers as the leading manufacturing tailors of the metropolis. Their establishment is impressive, not alone for its size, but because of its perfect equipment and splendid organization. Their designers are creators—not merely adapters of styles—that whatever garment bears the label of Alfred Benjamin & Co. may be accepted as an original New York fashion. Tailors in other cities than New York must wait until a style has been created in New York before adopting it in their garments, with the result that their productions are at least six months behind the fashion and but imitations of the real New York style. Buffum & Pendleton announce that they will welcome visitors to their store if they come merely to acquaint themselves with the New York style, as expressed in Benjamin's correct clothes for men.

KATE ELKINS WINS HER DUC

Italian Nobleman Will Trade Title for Sacks of American Dollars.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, March 20.—Friends of Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of the Senator Elkins and the Duc d'Abuzzi, the young Italian nobleman suing for her hand, declare today that their dream of a union of a foreign title and American dollars is about to be realized. They say that the present case is a real love match and in proof point out that King Victor Emmanuel has strenuously opposed the match owing to his objection to his favorite cousin marrying outside the European royal circle. It is believed here that it is an effort to obtain the royal approval of the match that is delaying the forthcoming announcement of the engagement.

LOG DRIVER DROWNS IN LONG TOM RIVER

Eugene, Or., March 20.—Thomas Evans was drowned in the Long Tom river about 15 miles west of Eugene yesterday. He was in charge of a log drive on the way down the river to the Elmira Lumber company's mill at Elmira and at the time was riding on a log. He slipped and fell into the river and sank before his fellow workmen could reach him. A search for the body was at once instituted, but it was not recovered until six hours after the drowning. Evans was a married man and aged about 40 years. He leaves besides his wife, several children. He was a man of good character and stood high in the community in which he resided. He was a logging contractor by occupation and had the contract to furnish to the Elmira mill the logs in the drive on which he was working at the time he was drowned.

COUSINS ELOPE TO WED IN B. C.

Adrian and Georgia Wycoff of Vida, Lane County, Start for Canada.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., March 20.—The village of Vida, on the McKenzie river, 25 miles east of Eugene, is stirred up over the elopement of Adrian Wycoff, a young man residing there, and his first cousin, Miss Georgia Wycoff, who are now on their way to British Columbia to get married. The young people have been keeping company for some time past. Their life-long friendship having finally ripened into love they concluded to wed, but knowing that their blood relationship was an obstacle if they remained in this state, they finally decided to elope to British Columbia, and telling the young man's sister, Miss Ethel Wycoff, of their plans, proceeded to carry them out. They took her along with them and the three passed through Eugene Tuesday on their way to the British possessions. They expect to return home, it is said, soon and ask forgiveness of their parents.

Lowther to Go to Germany.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, March 20.—The news that Sir Gerard Lowther has been chosen to succeed Sir Frank Lascelles as British ambassador to Berlin has been received with considerable interest and satisfaction in official and diplomatic circles here. Sir Gerard served for several years as first secretary of the British embassy in Washington and was well known socially both here and in Newport. His wife is an American, the daughter of the late Atherton Blight of Philadelphia. Sir Gerard is distantly related to the late Lord Salisbury. His rise in the diplomatic service, which he entered in 1878, has been rapid. From Washington he was promoted to the post of British minister to Chile, from which place he was transferred to Tangier.

Use Poison to Kill Gypsies.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Vienna, March 20.—Farmers of Croatia and Hungary are reported to have adopted the remedy of scattering poison to rid themselves of a plague of gypsies. Nineteen Zingari, comprising an entire band, died suddenly near Tompovevao, Croatia, last week, after eating portions of a cow which they found dead in a forest. It was afterward found that the body of the cow had been saturated with poison. In a neighboring district 15 gypsies belonging to another band died after eating hares which had been poisoned by the farmers and left lying in the fields. Both Croatia and Hungary are overrun with gypsies, who rob travelers, levy
