LINEUP OF FIVE SCHOOL SQUADS

Portland Academy, Cadets and Columbia Now Ready to Enter Field.

With the opening game of the season but ten days off the five teams in the Interscholastic league are rapidly getting into shape. Academy, Hill and Columbia have completed the selection of their teams but the two high schools are still in the air as to the players who will fill a number of positions.

East Side seems to be the least ready for the season, but this is due more to an over-abundance of good material than to lack of it. By Wednesday, however, it is expected that the team will be picked.

West Side has pitcher and first base to decide upon. They have but ten days to pick these men in and if they expect to get any good practice before the opening game steps will have to be taken soon.

The probable lineup of the five teams will be as follows:

DALLAS COLLEGE GETS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Dallas, Or., March 23.—In a game that was in doubt until the whistle sounded ending the last half, Dallas college basketball team defeated the crack aggregation from Multnomah Athletic club on the local floor Saturday night by a score of 22 to 21. This was the last game of the state league series, leaving Dallas college the undisputed champion of Oregon, having won nine games and lost none.

The first half ended 11 to 7 in favor of the "Winged M," but Dallas made a rally in the latter part of the second half, getting three points in rapid succession and winning the game. Up to that time Multnomah was one and two points in the lead. Twenty fouls were called on the Dallas players, Bellinger, the M. A. A. C. star, throwing 17 of them. Multnomah made two baskets from the field. Bellinger and Morris played the best game for Multnomah, although the former was suffering from a badly sprained ankle. For Dallas every man played his level best, and it would be difficult to name the best individual player.

A series of three games has been arranged with Snohomish, Washington, for the coast championship, the first game to be played at Dallas next Saturday night. Dallas will go to Snohomish for a game, April 2. If a third game is necessary it will be played on a neutral floor, probably at Portland.

EASTERN RACES OPEN AT BENNINGS TODAY

Spring Meeting Promises to Be Most Successful in History of Track.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Washington, March 23.—The beginning of the spring meeting of the Washington Jockey club at Bennings today marks the opening of the eastern racing season for 1908. The meeting at Bennings promises to be the largest and most successful in the history of that popular track. The stables are filled with several hundred well-known horses, the majority of them fresh from a winter's rest, and during the next three weeks they will be given their first opportunity to show their form for the coming season. The track is in excellent condition and some of the flyers have been working over the mile course in 1:46 and six furlongs in 1:17.

Many attractive events are embraced in the program arranged for the meeting. There are three events for 2-year-olds—the Dinner stakes, the Washington Nursery and the Jesse Brown cup. The banner event is the Bennings handicap, to be run on the first and last days of the meeting. The first race is to be run over six furlongs and the second over seven furlongs.

The program provides for four steeplechase events, which are the Spring handicap steeplechase, the First April selling steeplechase, the Chevy Chase Hunters' steeplechase and the Spring Hunters' steeplechase.

INDIAN SAM MORRIS WITH JOPLIN AGAIN

Redskin Who Pitched Phenomenal Game for Portland With Missourians.

Indian Sam Morris, who held down a position as pitcher on the Portland team for about two weeks during Sam Vigneux's regime as manager, but who went the route of so many redskins who break in to baseball—booze—has signed to pitch with the Joplin team in the Western association. According to the Joplin management, Sam has cut out all the red stuff and will be a star pitcher again. This doesn't sound good to the Portland fans who know the Indian.

Portland fans all remember the first game that Morris pitched here, coming up from Chemawa to do the trick. The final score was 8 to 7 in Portland's favor and was the first game the locals had won in ages. Morris struck out something like 12 men besides securing a home run, a single and a two bagger. This was the last good showing he made, however, for Portland released him two weeks later. Mike Fisher signed him then and he officiated in a part of a game for Sacramento.

After that nothing was seen or heard of him for a year, other than a rumor, which quite freely circulated that he was pitching for an Indian team somewhere in Oklahoma. Then in 1905 he signed with Joplin, only to again lose out after doing fairly good work for two or three months. During 1906 Sam was on the Nez Perce Indian reservation for a spell. This will be his second trial with the Missouri city. It is said he has been working on a section gang for the last six months and according to report has not touched a drop of liquor since November. He says that he possesses all of his former cunning and speed and that he will show the Joplin fans that he is not a cigar store Indian.

WALDSTEIN WANTS TO RACE WITH CARD

Hood River Skater Puts Up Fifty Dollars to Bind the Race.

In a letter to The Journal, Professor J. Waldstein of Hood River, manager of A. Waldstein, the young skater who won the world's championship cup at the Piedmont rink in Oakland, California, October 18, 1906, has deposited $50 with C. A. Ross of Hood River to bind a roller skating race with Card or any other racer the Portland rink people can put up.

Waldstein had been accused of having cold feet because he did not show up for the recent race in the Expo rink, and he wants to show the people that he is not afraid of Portland's fastest from one mile up, best two out of three.

Mr. Ross, who is a well known business man of Hood River, acknowledges the deposit of the $50 and the "apple belt" sports are anxious to hear from the Portland skating race promoters.

LANE PRAISES PORTLAND MAN

Interstate Commerce Commissioner Pleased With Brief by J. N. Teal.

By John E. Lathrop.
(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)

Washington, D. C., March 23.—Whatever may be the outcome of the lumber rate cases before the interstate commerce commission, one result will have been produced—the establishment of the reputation of J. N. Teal in Washington legal circles and before the administrative bodies as a master of the transportation problem. A notable triumph was achieved by Mr. Teal, which has been accentuated by the expressions of members of the commission, and demonstrated by the attitude of the railroad counsel.

"Since this commission has been formed," Commissioner Lane said to The Journal, "no brief has been submitted which was the equal of that which Mr. Teal filed with this body before the final arguments in the lumber rate cases. It was absolutely a complete analysis of the large question presented, and was in no respect discredited as to the assertions of fact or the conclusions of law, from his point of view."

Other members echoed Commissioner Lane's opinion.

The remarkable compliment was paid to the brief by the railroad lawyers of accepting its statements without question, and all on both sides used it as a textbook in discussing the issues of the case. W. W. Cotton, acknowledged to be one of the most deservedly celebrated lawyers of the country, is included in this statement. Only one error was found—and that was typographic, the dropping of one numeral by the printer, the error being easily detected by the context.

Tells Good Story.

One other distinction was achieved by the Portland attorney—that of telling the only funny story ever related to the very dignified interstate commerce commission. Mr. Teal was closing the argument for the lumbermen, and was speaking of the question of increased rail rates, which he intimated the railroad men were disposed to drop in the discussion then in progress.

"That reminds me," Mr. Teal said, "of a story I once heard."

A story! To be told to the sober, grave and reverened seigneurs who, never smiling, sit on the commission's bench and hear dry railroad figures and abstruse legal ponderosity! It was bold, indeed, for any lawyer to essay to inject into that musty atmosphere the refreshing humor of a funny story.

"It seems that a negro clergyman of the Methodist persuasion thought to add to the effectiveness of his services by adopting ideas to be gained from other denominations. So he went from church to church, observing the methods employed with scrupulous care. His conclusion was that he would copy the liturgy of the Catholic church, and so arranged for the altar boys and the burning of the sweet incense. The first time the new form of service was rendered, the boy charged with that duty failed to appear with the incense at the proper moment. The clergyman determined to learn at once in the midst of the service what was the matter, so he chanted:

"What have you done with the incense pot?"

To which the boy chanted in answer: "Dropped it in the aisle; it was too —— hot."

Mars the Record.

The stenographers who recorded the doings in that solemn council chamber have not in their notebooks an intelligent idea of what followed the telling of that story. For several moments law and rates and increases and railroad revenues "and sich" were forgoten, while commissioners and lawyers and lumbermen indulged in a hearty laugh as relaxation of the strain of months of earnest consideration of the important cause then up for adjudication.

Another phase of the hearings interesting to Oregon people—purely incidental to the case—was the bringing out of complimentary statements for the Oregon railroad commissioners, who, in hearty language, were commended by the federal commissioners for their efficient work and intelligent handling of the difficult questions which come before them.

"The federal and state commissions come into rather close connections," one of the commissioners said, "and we have opportunity to take the measure quite accurately of many of the state commissioners. The Oregon men have impressed us here as worthy the confidence of their people.

"Clyde B. Aitchison, one of the Oregon commissioners, has come before our notice personally; he attended the meeting of the national association of state railroad commissioners. It was his distinction to procure the only amendment to the association's resolutions as reported to the body by the committee, when he induced them to accept the principle of suspension of proposed increased rates when shippers protest with this commission empowered to determine the reasonableness of the proposed rate. The principle is embodied in the present Fulton bill, and has been indorsed in the federal commission's annual report."

CONGRESS READY FOR BIG WORK

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Washington, March 23.—This will be an important week in congress. It is likely to mark the turning point from inactivity to action with respect to the program with which the dominant party expects to make a record upon which to enter the national campaign. President Roosevelt's now widely advertised message, the anticipation of which has caused the Republican leaders to awake from their lethargy, will be communicated to the two houses by the middle of the week. The senate probably will start the legislative program by passing the Aldrich currency bill before the week ends and getting it over to the house where amendments calculated to give it a somewhat better standing before the country are to be attached and, it is expected, from the ensuing conference and emergency measure will go upon the statute books.

In a few days a concerted measure to amend the anti-trust law will be introduced in each house and in a few days also the senate will have before it postal savings bank bills, the details of which as prepared by the postoffice committee already have been given in these dispatches.

As soon as the president's message goes in, the senate and house leaders will get busy with the intention of whooping things up so as to finish the program and adjourn if possible by the middle of May.

ADVERTISING

A SERIES OF TEN TALKS ON ADVERTISING written by Seymour Eaton of Philadelphia for the readers of The Journal

No. 8

The man who succeeds must fill his job so full that he bulges out a little at the top; where people can see him. The successful store must do the same thing, only in a different way.

The goods must be on hand; the prices must be right; the service must be commendable; the trading must be square—the kind of square that has four equal sides and four right angles.

Every successful store has its trade-mark, whether the merchant knows it or not. Its advertising and its service have created a public sentiment in its favor which neither reverses nor fire nor time can obliterate. Nine times out of ten this trade-mark is the store's biggest asset.

Much of the ordinary store advertising is a hand-to-mouth sort of business, an effort to make tomorrow's sales equal to today's or yesterday's, and this is just as true of the department store as of the smaller shop. The advertisement appears in the afternoon or morning, and the merchant figures out the net results in the morning or evening, as the case may be. It is true that the bargain advertisement of today is of little, if any, use next week. It is forgotten in 24 hours; but if the store makes a feature of genuine bargains, then each bargain sale helps to advertise the bargain department. The advertising ought to be done in such a way as to permanently advertise the department as well as to emphasize the bargains of the day.

Don't go at it as though you were advertising an auction sale. As I said at the outset, your store is the seed in the soil; the advertising is the rain and the sunshine. Inexperienced advertisers dig up the seed every evening to see if it is growing, or pull up the young plant by the roots because it didn't bear fruit or flowers the first week.

It is safe to say that not more than one third of the people are looking for bargains; the other two thirds are looking for quality and style. The very fact that the goods are offered at bargain prices leaves the impression that there is something wrong with the quality or that the style is a season behind. Good advertising should enable a merchant to sell $20 coats at $25 instead of $25 coats at $12.50; in other words, it should create confidence rather than doubt. As in stocks and bonds, the securities quoted above par are always more desirable in the thought of the investing public than are those quoted at a discount.

Advertising is a tremendous force which in action contradicts all mechanical laws. The circumference and speed and working power increase, while the motor remains the same.

Make your advertising continuous. This is the first great secret of success. Copy and medium and circulation are all subordinate to keeping everlastingly at it.
