

UNCLE JOE WILL SPEAK TO VOTERS AT GRESHAM

Deals Body Blow to Seattle Exposition and Arouses Anger of Entire Northwest—Helps the Cause of Secretary Taft.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Washington, March 26.—If Congressman William McKinley of Illinois, who is acting as manager of the political cohorts of "Uncle Joe" Cannon in the scramble for Republican favor and the presidential nomination ever hopes to secure all or any part of the votes of the delegations hailing from the Pacific northwest he will have to see that "Uncle Joe" materially changes his policy in regard to the Seattle fair bill.

At the present writing the chances of the Seattle promoters of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific fair getting the desired appropriation for the summer of 1910 are about as good as J. Foraker's prospects of political advancement in the ballroom of Ohio. Not small, dear perhaps but very somnolent. The committee on industrial arts and expositions of the house presented the exposition with a very decent indorsement, only one vote, that of Chairman Gardner of Massachusetts, being against it. In the usual course of legislative events that would be sufficient, and the measure would be supported by Uncle Samuel would be duly given. The committee on industrial arts and expositions, however, is not actively concerned, as a body, in the campaign for presidential nomination that is being waged by a number of the high-spirited and appointed sons of the grand old party. But the speaker of the house is very much engaged in such a contest and it is right there where the fine point and keen edge of the political stiletto entered in and punctured the rosy hopes of President Cleveland and his public spirited colleagues in Seattle.

Wanted First Goal.

Speaker Cannon's political managers wanted first call if possible on the floor of the Washington delegation at the Chicago convention. They desired to have the delegation sent unfrustrated or at the best not tied up for Taft. Hot in their anxiety to corral the votes they left tact and diplomacy behind them and went after the delegation with all the finesse of a man who is not content to decapitate a spring pullet with the family hatchet. They hauled out the choicest weapons in Speaker's Cannon's arsenal and flung them at the delegates. Cannon brand of the big stick, which is almost as large and as thick as the presidential variety, they displayed the speaker's scalping knife and with it the belt upon which is hung a large and varied number of scalp knives from would-be statesmen who at one time or the other opposed the wishes of the autocrat of the house.

Cannon's Snickernee.

The Cannon snickernee was polished up and sharpened and flung before the eyes of the Washington delegation. Then it was hinted that the Cannon men would like Washington's support and intimated that things would happen to the Seattle fair bill unless such support was forthcoming. With a like recital of the number of delegates that were now laid away in the Cannon morgue and an assurance that there was still room for a few more cadavers of the nature the Washington men were turned loose to tell of what they had seen and heard and work for Cannon as fair and square as they could. Washington instructed for Taft. After a short splutter for La Follette, Cannon's name was not mentioned. Then it is said the speaker turned up for his end of the fight. He had the original bill which was passed by the house referred to the committee on ways and means, when it came over from the house, and House Leader Serrano E. Payne, the chairman of the committee, was instructed to pigeon-hole it. As far as it is known that bill is still in the legislative pickle.

Drafted New Bill.

The exposition men got busy and had another bill drafted and had the regular committee on industrial arts and expositions report on it. But when it reached the house it was met by a flinty glance from "Uncle Joe," and Serrano Payne, Sherman, Daisell and Tawney, had no words of welcome. The bill almost visibly wilted under the light.

Now the friends of the exposition are indignant and that is probably all the good it will do them. "Uncle Joe" and the house leaders are impervious to indignation. Their armor belts are always high above the water line when it comes to repelling shafts of ebullient emotion of that character. Support is their slogan and to support the Washington men have none. Their hands are as empty as the lamps of the tardy bridesmaids wera of oil.

One Shaft Left.

The Seattle men have one shaft left in their bow, however, and they declare that they will certainly use it. McKinley declared this morning that Cannon had 146 votes laced away and with that Young Attorney's Name Will Be Sent to Department Today.

Walter H. Evans is the new assistant United States district attorney for Oregon. He was appointed this morning by United States District Attorney John McCourt and announcement of the appointment will be sent to the department of justice at Washington this afternoon.

Mr. Evans has been in the office of the United States attorney since March 15, having been appointed as a special assistant together with Robert Tucker, by W. C. Bristol, who was awaiting retirement.

Mr. Evans was offered the position when Mr. McCourt was first appointed, but declined the offer. Since the meeting of the grand jury of the United States circuit court began investigations of the various cases pending, Mr. Evans and Mr. Tucker made a record in disposing of the questions at hand. Later Mr. McCourt again requested Mr. Evans to become his assistant and his acceptance of the offer this morning is the result.

The salary of the assistant district attorney heretofore has been $125. In the case of Mr. Evans, however, Mr. McCourt is to make a recommendation to the department of justice that the salary of the assistant be increased to $150 a month. Mr. McCourt will also ask for a second assistant on the ground that there is enough work for himself and two other attorneys.

Mr. Evans was born in Indiana in 1870. In former years he taught school for 12 years. Later he was connected with the government service in Tennessee and Porto Rico. He is a graduate of the University of Oregon in the law class of 1905.

GRAND JURY IN LONG SESSION

New Cases Will Hold Federal Body Longer Than Expected.

The federal grand jury adjourned this morning until Monday at 10 a. m. Among other cases that will probably be taken before the grand jurors, and which body will probably be in session much longer than was first expected, is that of Larley Logan of Toledo, an Indian, who was arrested and later shot at by a brother of Willie Garner, whom Logan had killed. Other Indian cases will also probably be investigated.

K. Sumida, a Japanese cook at Sargent's hotel, was indicted by the grand jury yesterday on a charge of importing alien women from Japan. Sumida was committed to jail by Judge Wolverton this morning. His bond was pledged at $2,000. An indictment against another person was also returned by the jurors yesterday and a bench warrant issued for his arrest.

Natsumi Takaya, a Japanese woman, whom Sumida and his partner are alleged to have brought to this country, was ordered deported by the immigration authorities some several weeks ago. She is being held in Portland, however, as a witness in the case of the government against Sumida.

Miles H. Elliott, indicted by the grand jury yesterday, pleaded guilty in the United States circuit court to the charge of robbing the postoffice at Monkland, Sherman county, last July. Judge Wolverton suspended sentence on condition that Elliott should pay the money taken from the postoffice and pending good behavior.

COLE WILL SPEAK TO VOTERS AT GRESHAM

James Cole, Republican candidate for district attorney to succeed John Manning, will speak to the voters of Gresham tonight at that place. A large crowd is expected to hear the young man who has been making such a whirlwind campaign since he announced his candidacy several weeks ago.

Mr. Cole made a large gathering of Republicans at Woodstock last night under the auspices of the Forty-fifth Precinct Republican club. The candidate was accorded a hearty welcome by the crowd by his clear and forcible manner in presenting his views. The speaker reiterated his promise to set forth in his platform in regard to enforcing all the laws and made a favorable impression upon his auditors by the honesty of his motives in running for the district attorneyship.

Ben Rieksland presided at last night's meeting and introduced Mr. Cole. Candidates for the office who spoke were R. G. Morrow, candidate for judge of Department No. 2; D. F. Hardman, Judge Cameron and others.

number of riveted delegates Cannon could prevent Taft's nomination on the first, second or third ballot. By that time, asserts the statesman from the Sucker state, other delegations will be piling into "Uncle Joe's" wagon and looking for easy seats. It is on this expected land slide that Cannon bases his hope of nomination. Here is where the Seattle men plan to secure sweet revenge at least. They aver that Cannon's action in regard to the fair bill has aroused the anger of the entire Pacific northwest and that Idaho, Oregon and Washington will see their delegations go down in the wreck of Taft's blighted ambitions rather than ever see them supporting Cannon. And furthermore, they believe that a large majority prevent a break in Taft's forces, if one is imminent and will work tooth and nail to do so.

British Bark Arrives in Ballast From Valparaiso.

Another windjammer joined the disengaged fleet in the river this morning when the British bark Donna Francisco arrived at Astoria in ballast from Valparaiso. With the latest addition there are now five disengaged in port, the largest number early last year.

FIVE DISENGAGED CARRIERS IN RIVER

Freights Decline as Season's Business Begins to Come to Close—Windjammers Might Have to Take Lumber After Waiting for Wheat.

The steam schooner Nann Smith has arrived in the harbor this afternoon with 13,000 barrels cement consigned to W. P. Fuller & Co. She will drop anchor in the stream.

The steam schooner Washington collided with the Burnside street bridge draw yesterday afternoon while being shifted from Oak street dock to the Couch street dock. No damage was sustained by the steam schooner, but the bridge draw was put out of commission for about an hour. The immediate arrival of the steamers Wauna, Wenona and M. F. Henderson saved the draw and the Washington. Pilot Harry Embury was in charge of the Washington at the time. He says the collision was unavoidable because of the draw falling to open full owing to the presence of a plectryer at the south side of the draw pier. The Washington goes to Rainier this afternoon to load lumber for about an hour. The immediate arrival of the steam schooner Nann Smith has arrived on Coos Bay. She was given a great ovation when she steamed into the harbor. The immediate arrival of the C. A. Smith Lumber & Manufacturing

Lumber is offering for several ports, and in view of this being the tail end of the wheat shipping season, some of the disengaged vessels probably have to accept it or wait for new crop wheat.

FAST SAILING SHIPS.

Largimore, Now Here, Has Made Some Quick Passages.

The British bark Largimore which arrived here a few days ago from Newcastle, New South Wales, with a cargo of coal has the reputation of being a fast sailer, although her run from the antipodes to the Columbia river was by no means record-breaking performance.

First Officer Smith, who has been with her four years sailing her fastest run, and one that attracted attention from near and far was when she went from San Francisco to Falmouth in 101 days. That happened seven years ago. Later she sailed from Rio Janeiro to Newcastle, New South Wales, in 42 days, a still better performance. That voyage she collided with an iceberg, but escaped serious injury.

The Largimore is discharging coal at the bunkers of the Pacific Coast company.

Passenger on Steamer Alliance Seeks to Gain Notoriety.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Astoria, Or., March 26.—On the morning of March 21, while Lorans Halst was walking along Clatsop beach, near the wreck of the British bark Galema, he picked up a bottle containing two pieces of paper. One was a blank deputy United States marshal's receipt, on which was written: "At sea on the steamship Alliance, March 4, received from W. B. Griffith—dollars, S. E. Marston, sheriff, Gold Hill."

The other was written on the back of an application for membership in the Marshfield fire department. In a broken way it was written: "10 minutes to 12 o'clock. Finder of this bottle please notify any one of the names at Port Orford, Curry county, Oregon; also state when found and at what point. Going to Los Angeles, March 4, 1908. Got out of Coos Bay. Then follows a list of 14 names of men and women. The steamer Alliance is making regular trips between Portland, Astoria and Coos Bay and return. The bottle was evidently thrown overboard by some one to gain notoriety.
