ENEMIES OF PORT APPARENTLY JEALOUS OF THE ROSE CARNIVAL VISITORS VIEWING BIG WARSHIPS

Something More Definite and More Formal in the Manner of Invitation Should Be Forwarded—Secretary Metcalf Favors City Being by Department

Washington, April 3.—Navy department says it has no orders concerning the detailing of a fleet of torpedo boats and two cruisers to Portland during the Rose Festival.

is regarded as necessary to navy etiquette. The inference is that the invitation should come from the Rose Festival official committee and should be made in due form and not delayed.

Paul Morton Has Praise for Coast

Paul Morton, Who Has Returned to Portland.

Paul Morton is to recommend to the finance committee of the Equitable Life Assurance society that a loan of $75,000 be made to the officers of the Y. M. C. A. in Portland for the completion of the new building.

Mr. Morton, who is president of the company, returned to the Hotel Portland this morning, after a visit in Seattle and Tacoma.

Mr. Morton arrived in Portland last Monday and remained several days. During that time the proposition of the Y. M. C. A. loan was taken under consideration.

In addition to making the recommendation of the $75,000 loan, Mr. Morton also expressed his views of Portland in general.

Mr. Morton is of the opinion that the completion of the Panama canal will be one of the greatest benefits this part of the country could possibly experience.

Land in Oregon, for instance, is so much more productive than in many other parts of the country.

Mr. Morton was not feeling well yesterday and on this account returned to Portland to rest until tomorrow when he leaves for the east.

MEET AGAIN AS FEDERAL PRISONERS

Frank McPherson, Convicted for Portland Postoffice Robbery, Taken to McNeil's Island Finds Brother Serving Sentence.

Neither Knew the Other's Whereabouts—Penitentiary Authorities Noticed Resemblance and Established Relationship.

When Frank McPherson, a member of the gang of youthful highwaymen who robbed the sub-postoffice at Tenth and Jefferson streets last fall and confessed to having been implicated in numerous other holdups in Portland, left for McNeil's island in the custody of a deputy United States marshal, he thought he was going where he hadn't a friend of any kind.

Arriving at the federal prison the boy found that he had more than a friend there—a brother serving time for the same offense. It was a surprise to both of them.

McPherson, who is known among his confederates as "Floss," was sentenced to serve two years at McNeil's island by Judge Wolverton in the United States court last week.

"Floss" McPherson is but 19 years of age, while his brother who he found awaiting him, is older.

Until several years ago the McPherson boys lived at Ferndale, Washington, a small town near Tacoma.

Frank was sent to Seattle, where he attended high school. During the fall he fell in with Simpson and the others arrested in Portland, made their headquarters in the cheap billiard halls where they conducted the schemes of robbery.

"Floss" was soon recognized by the prison officials as bearing a marked resemblance to one of the men already there. An investigation was made and the two were discovered to be brothers.

These boys were allowed to greet each other but a few moments. Then they were taken away to their respective cells, where they are to be kept within the same walls but still separated as completely as though they were a thousand miles apart.

HIT ENEMY'S PURSE; WORK FOR YOURSELF; ADVISES J. B. DUKE

San Francisco, April 3.—"A man cannot earn a fortune on a salary, nor by the sweat of his brow."

"If you want to reach the nerve center of a competitor strike his pocketbook."

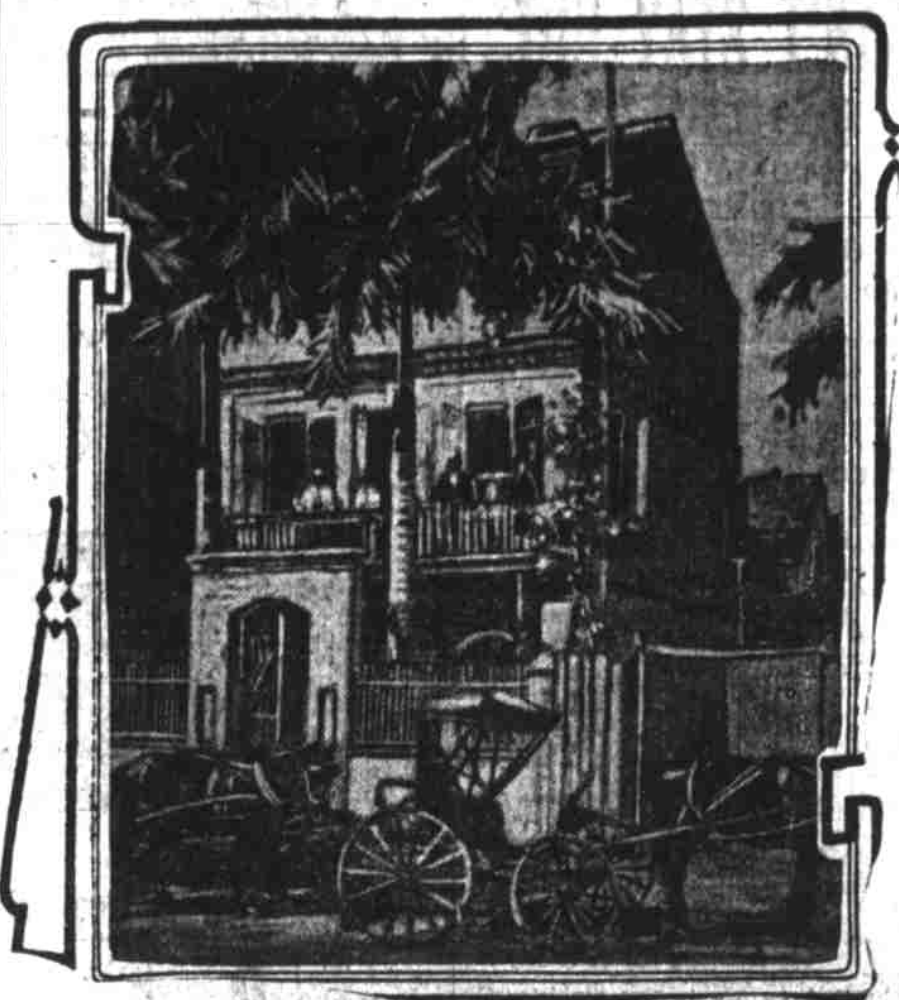

"These two gems of thought from James Buchanan Duke, head and front of the $400,000,000 American Tobacco trust and self-made man, who has arrived here on a pleasure trip. He is accompanied by his bride and mother-in-law."

Mr. Duke has some forceful ideas on how money can be made, and he expressed them.

"Don't waste any time on experiments and theories," he suggested, "but hit straight at the pocketbook when you are after a competitor."

He put this system in operation when he cornered the tobacco business in England.

WHERE REFUGEES FLED TO ESCAPE PRESIDENT ALEXIS

This is a picture of the residence of the United States consul in Port Au Prince, Haiti. Some of the political fugitives from the vengeance of President Nord-Alexis sought refuge in this house.

Port Au Prince, April 3.—White residents here are clamoring for the landing of marines from the foreign warships in the harbor. American, German and French business men insist that the conditions are graver than have been appreciated by the representatives of foreign governments here.

Executions by government troops without the formality of a trial continue, despite the government's promise to M. Carriere, the French consul, that they would cease.

Today the body of Arsene Chevry, a poet and writer, was found hanging from a tree riddled with bullets. The man, who was known throughout the island as a dreamer and idealist, was suspected of being friendly to the cause of General Firmin, the revolutionist.

Today the white laborers employed by the American export companies congregated at Gonaves, where they have barricaded a warehouse. They are all armed, and say that if trouble breaks out they will do some fighting on their own accord to protect American property.

FORMING BIBLE CLASS TRUST

John D. Rockefeller Jr. Will Find "Big Brothers" for Entire Nation.

New York, April 3.—In furtherance of his plan to form a Bible class trust, including all the Bible classes in the country, John D. Rockefeller Jr. and a number of New York Bible class leaders will hold the initial meeting tonight in the Fifth Avenue Baptist church to discuss plans.

It is the hope of young Rockefeller that in the near future the Rockefeller brand of Bible classes will be as familiar to the public as his father's oil tanks. He says that the salvation of the men of the future depends more upon Bible classes than it does upon churches.

One of his plans is to have a member of each class take a pledge that he will act as a big brother to one or more young men who have not had an opportunity to rise above a certain station in life.

GOOD WILL OUTSHINES PROMOTION

Admiral Evans Says He Has Been Amply Rewarded by Royal Welcome Accorded Him by People of the Pacific Coast.

"That Bunch of Politicians at Washington Can Bury Their Old Commission in Stokeholes of Hell," Officer Declares.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Paso Robles, Cal., April 3.—While his physicians are counting strongly on the benefit Admiral Evans is to derive from the sulphur baths here, his son, Lieutenant Evans, declares that the reception accorded his father has already worked a marvelous improvement on the old fighter.

The admiral is apparently overwhelmed with the kindnesses that have been showered on him and the interest manifested in his welfare and the welfare of the fleet.

"If this is the way the American people feel toward me and toward my men," declared the admiral today, "that bunch of politicians in congress who are opposing the proposition to grant me a commission of vice-admiral can take their old commission and bury it in the stokehole of hell. I have all the reward I want in this demonstration of the people's love and sympathy. Nothing any politicians could give me would equal that."

COMMITTS SUICIDE TO AID INVALID

Girl Kills Herself to Provide Thousand Dollars for Suffering Sister.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

St. Louis, Mo., April 3.—For a year, Marie Lehman, 26 years old, counted the days which must pass, before, under the terms of a life insurance policy, she could kill herself, and thus leave her helpless invalid sister Maggie, 15 years old, $1,000.

A clause in the policy said that the insurance would not be paid if the holder committed suicide within one year, but that after that self-destruction would not be a bar to collecting the insurance.

The year expired yesterday, and last night the woman killed herself by taking carbolic acid.

YOU'LL MAKE A HOME RUN

When you buy the Oregon Sunday Journal next Sunday. You can't get home quick enough to read Foster's season's forecast of baseball games. No one knows the players like Foster, for his special business to know them and what he tells you, can depend upon.

Don't Stop at Foster

There are others who write for The Oregon Journal's Sunday magazine who are as clever in their particular line as the noted baseball expert. The Sunday Journal magazine is always good because it is the best in the northwest.

NO PARTY LINES FOR UNION MEN

Candidates for President Must Prove Friendship for Organized Labor.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Washington, April 3.—Party political affiliations will not be considered by organized labor when it comes time to select the presidential candidate to whom labor will throw its vote this fall, according to John Mitchell, recent head of the United Mine Workers of America, who has an appointment here with President Roosevelt today.

Mr. Mitchell declares that the only thing that will be considered by laboring men will be how the candidate stands with relation to the remedial legislation now being fought for by the dictators of party bosses, and are studying personalities of candidates rather than party creed.

Mitchell's conference with the president today is said to relate to the commission offered the former to make an investigation of labor conditions in the canal zone. Because of his determination to start a labor paper in Indianapolis, Mitchell is said to have declined the commission and the president hopes to have him reconsider.

FIFTEEN TEACHERS WIN FIFTEEN HUBBIES, "LAST DAY OF SCHOOL"

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) North Yakima, April 3.—"Last day of school" will mean something of more than passing interest to this city. Fifteen sweet-faced school teachers have come to the conclusion that the life of bachelor maids is not as happy as one would suppose and each and every one of them has become engaged. The 15 hands that wield the switch and rule the world have been given in promise to 15 lucky young men. The teachers have resigned their positions and 15 vacancies will have to be filled by many applicants who now have their applications in for the plum. Housekeeping is said by one of the teachers to be a fair to single life, for what is home without a husband.

POPULISTS TAKE MIDDLE OF ROAD

(United Press Leased Wire.) St. Louis, April 3.—The Populist party has had enough of fusion. In its platform adopted today the leaders insert a plank advocating a return to the old "middle of the road" policies and a declaration of independence from all fusion entanglements.
