HENEY EXHORTS MARION VOTERS

If They Are Dominated by Corrupt Men It Will Be Their Own Fault.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Salem, Or., April 13.—Between 2,000 and 2,000 people heard Francis J. Heney in Salem yesterday afternoon. More than half that number stood on their feet for three consecutive hours and then cried "Go ahead" when the speaker at 6:30 o'clock said he was tired and that some of his hearers looked hungry. From miles in every direction around Salem the citizens drove in and filled Marion square, where the address was made, long before the appointed hour.

While in this city Mr. Heney was entertained at the home of Asahel Bush, a prominent banker and pioneer. Mr. Heney will leave for Portland this afternoon, where, he announced, he will deliver an address on the east side this evening.

He was introduced yesterday by L. H. McMahon.

Not Working for Anybody.

In his address the prosecutor covered practically the same ground as at Portland Saturday night. He endeavored to show that Senator Fulton had been oversealous in his efforts to protect his "friends"—so much, in fact, that he sacrificed the interests of the people of the state of Oregon.

Some one in the audience sent a piece of notepaper to Mr. Heney, on which was written, "There is a rumor circulating that you have been employed by Chamberlain." In answer Mr. Heney said that there was not enough money in the United States to employ him to make a political speech. He said he cared not who was the next senator from Oregon, and that his was in no way a political speech.

In this connection the speaker said he was working for William H. Taft for president. He said he did this because he believed that Taft was sincere and believed thoroughly in the policies of Theodore Roosevelt.

He dwelt much on the San Francisco graft cases and showed that where there was graft predatory wealth and public service corporations were always behind it. He said he not only knew some supreme judges were corrupt, but when the time came he would prove it.

Warns People of Oregon.

In conclusion he said the people of Oregon did not appreciate fully the direct primary law and Statement No. 1. He told the people of Marion county nobody would be to blame but themselves if corrupt men were elected to office.

"The people of Oregon," said Mr. Heney, "have the best statute in this respect in the United States, and they should not allow the most vital part of it, Statement No. 1, to be ignored by candidates."

Because he had profound respect for the enlightenment and intelligence of the people of this state, as demonstrated in every jury he had drawn here, and because he intended to devote the rest of his life to exposing both rascally Democrats and rascally Republicans, he was in Oregon this time, he said.

CARLSON WOULD BE LINN REPRESENTATIVE

Favors Statement No. 1, but Not Government by the Bosses.

C. Carlson of Shedd, Linn county, is a candidate for the office of representative from that county. Mr. Carlson is a Democrat and has signed Statement No. 1. He is one of the well-known residents of that county and it is expected that he will make a strong race for the election in June.

By an oversight Mr. Carlson's name was omitted from the list of candidates as published in The Journal several days ago, and in his candidacy Mr. Carlson outlines his position plainly. He says:

"I am by all means in the race. I have signed Statement No. 1 and am a firm believer in the measure, believing that this should be a government of all the people, for all the people, and not a government of the bosses, by the bosses, and that the greater number should at all times rule."

GRACE REED WILL BE RETURNED TO OREGON

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Salem, Or., April 13.—Requisition for the extradition of Grace Reed was honored by the governor today. District Attorney Manning recommended the appointment of Andrew G. Vaughn for bringing the offender back to Oregon from Ontario, where she was apprehended. Grace Reed was convicted in the circuit court at Portland in June, 1907, for the larceny of $550 and jumped $1,000 bail.

EUGENE PROBABLY IN FESTIVAL LINE

Commercial Club Expected to Begin Participation at Meeting Tonight.

It is probable that tonight the Eugene Commercial club, almost the only important commercial organization of the state which has not yet agreed to participate in the Rose Festival parade next June, will climb on the band wagon and agree to have Eugene properly represented during the festival. George R. Thomas, of the Rose Festival association, is in Eugene today and will talk the matter over with the Commercial club tonight. The commercial club some time ago declined to participate in the festival, but there has been a marked change of sentiment since then, and it is believed that Eugene will decide to join with the other towns in the state this evening.

Applications for tickets to the Rex ball, the big social event of the festival, have already begun to come in and nearly 100 are on file in the offices of the Festival association. The ball is to be held in the Armory, and will be a very representative affair, as citizens of all the northwestern states will be invited.

The first installment of the 10,000 specially printed colored invitations to the festival has been sent out. The invitations are very handsome and both envelope and insert bear The Journal prize design in pink and green, the colors of the association.

The teams were very evenly matched and it looked like anybody's game up to the seventh inning, when a wild throw netted the Banks boys four additional scores.

The final score was: Banks, 12; Verboort, 5. The batteries were: Banks—Carstens and Cappel. Verboort—Van Lum and Bernards.

KENT BANDITS ARE SURROUNDED

Forty Men With Pack of Bloodhounds on Trail of Desperadoes.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Seattle, Wash., April 13.—Forty men, composing a sheriff's posse, with a pack of bloodhounds, are closing around two of the desperadoes who were implicated in the shooting of Marshal Miller of Kent, Thursday night. The posses have formed a hollow square between Snoqualmie Pass and North Bend. It is believed that late this afternoon the two fugitives will be caught, but it will be no child's play when the parties meet.

Michael Alegice, captured late Saturday afternoon in a running fight with Deputy Sheriffs Storey and Starwich, was brought here last night and is in the hospital ward of the county jail. Storey was brought in this morning, suffering from a wound in the leg. He will be placed under the X-rays this afternoon, to locate the bullet. Alegice has a broken leg, the result of a bullet from a deputy's gun and his nose is wounded. He admits that he is one of the men wanted for the Kent tragedy.

City Marshal Harry Miller was buried at Kent yesterday.

MARSHALL LOADED BUT GUN WAS EMPTY

Car Conductor Has a Lively Time After Montavilla Dance.

A pot-metal revolver and a pink "jag" combined to make trouble for A. Marshall, a streetcar conductor, Saturday night. Being off duty for the evening Marshall attended a dance near Montavilla, where he acquired both the revolver and the "jag." Both were of the harmless variety, and had it not been for the fact that he got into an argument with five young men as he was on his way home it is likely that he would have escaped the clutches of the law.

"After I got off the car to go to my home," explained Marshall, "one of dese guys comes up to me and tries to start somethin', I ain't lookin' for no trouble, but I can take care of myself, see? So when dis guy tries to get somethin' goin' I just throws away the smoke wagon and hits him once. Dat's straight."

Inasmuch as the young man who was struck was but 16 years of age and protested that he had not been the aggressor, a policeman arrested Marshall and charged him with being drunk and disorderly.

In the police court this morning Councilman Vaughn appeared as counsel for Marshall and conducted his defense with so much address that he secured an indefinite postponement of the trial, which practically amounts to a dismissal. It was shown that the pot-metal revolver was not loaded, though the same defense was not made in the case of Marshall himself.

EIGHT JURORS FOR TIREY FORD'S TRIAL

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, April 13.—The tentative jury to try Tirey L. Ford, chief counsel of the United Railroads, on a charge of bribing former Supervisor Daniel Coleman to vote in favor of an overhead trolley franchise, was reduced to eight this morning, when Benjamin Brilliant, one of the first jurors temporarily accepted, was excused after informing the court that he had formed an opinion.

Two veniremen were examined this morning and both were excused on the ground of bias.

RECEIVERSHIPS FOR IDAHO COMPANIES

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Spokane, Wash., April 13.—Judge Woods of Wallace has appointed Fred B. Morrill of Spokane receiver for the B. R. Lewis Lumber company of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and also for the Idaho & Northern railway. Mr. Morrill is general counsel for both companies. Neither company is mortgaged or incumbered with bonded indebtedness. The receivership may last only a few months. The Exchange National bank of Spokane caused the receivership move by suing the lumber company and then the Idaho & Northern railroad.

The company's indebtedness is said to be about $250,000, all due, and its assets are estimated at $1,500,000. It has about $500,000 worth of lumber ready for the market, but was short of cash to pay help and the market was slack. The liabilities of the railway company are $50,000, with assets $350,000 more than the liabilities.

This afternoon starting at 1:30 a double-header will be played at 24th and Vaughn, the first game between Lincoln High school of Seattle and West Side High school, and the second between East Side High school and Hill Military academy.

Lincoln High has the best team in Seattle, having defeated Washington High and given the professionals a hard run for the money. These two games will furnish some of the best games that will be seen here this summer.

THOUSANDS LOSE HOMES

tal loss may never be given, but it is not thought that it will exceed $10,000,000. The fortunes of many poor families have been wiped out completely. Men who have labored the better part of their lives to provide comfortable homes for their families are today as penniless as the day they started to put away their savings.

The first step towards collecting a relief fund for the suffering homeless began early today. The people who were not affected in any way by the fire are giving generously. Money from adjoining cities is either pouring in or has been pledged in large amounts.

Although the confusion that is everywhere apparent prevents the authorities from obtaining an accurate list of the injured, the most conservative estimate late this morning fixes the number at 300.

Rescuers at Work.

Hundreds of diggers who started to search the ruins that have cooled off have found the bodies of three victims. It is feared that more perished. Several women and children have been reported missing, at least 100, but it is hoped and thought that all of them became separated from their relatives during the excitement and are safe somewhere.

There are many who think that the total value of the property destroyed will not exceed $9,000,000, while others say the figure will be nearer $10,000,000 and probably more. Representatives of insurance companies declared today that every cent of insurance will be paid in full promptly. It is estimated that half of the property destroyed was covered by insurance.

Various plans for the relief of the fire victims are under consideration, today not only by the administration of Boston and other cities but by different political and commercial organizations.

Revoke Saloon Licenses.

Mayor Hibbard of Boston and the board of aldermen met early today to provide for the sufferers. Later Mayor Hibbard and Mayor Beck of Chelsea held a conference with the relief committee to decide on definite plans.

The postoffice at Lenox, Massachusetts, was opened today under charge of Rear Admiral Swift, commandant of the Charleston navy yard.

In their crusade against the sale of intoxicating drinks during the trouble the authorities found it necessary to revoke the licenses of five saloons, where the orders of the city were disobeyed.

Shelter tents have been provided in great numbers, and bread lines have been established. Each person is allowed one loaf of bread and a quart of milk. Thousands have already been fed in this way. Members of the militia will at once start the work of putting up tents in the various playgrounds. It is hoped that by night the great majority of the sufferers will have been provided for.

The city of Cambridge today voted to add $1,000 to the relief fund. Mayor Beck, of Chelsea, today issued a statement to the public, saying the people of the city should be thankful that the loss of life is not greater and thanking those who have offered assistance. The relief work, it was announced this afternonon, was well organized. The city will be rebuilt as soon as the ruins can be cleared away.

At a late hour this afternoon 37 persons had been unaccounted for. It is feared that their bodies will be found in the ruins. The Standard Oil works, east of Boston, are still burning. Firemen are stationed in the burned district to prevent a fresh outbreak of flames.

Governor Draper, while appreciating the many offers of assistance from the federal and state governments, said today that he thought all the aid required could be secured from within the limits of the state. Money, bedding and food are pouring into the headquarters of the relief committee in large quantities.

PEOPLE VS. MACHINE

Multnomah county provided the Statement No. 1 vote is recorded at the polls. Reports from every part of the county show a great awakening in favor of Statement No. 1.

The people are beginning to see that the real issue of the campaign is whether the people are to keep in their hands the principle of the direct election of United States senators or to turn the control of politics back into the hands of the old machine leaders. Roused to this knowledge the great mass of voters are lining up behind the candidates who have pledged themselves to Statement No. 1.

The politicians realize that the contest of Friday will be a clear cut battle between the machine element and those opposed to it. The leaders realize that the old line politicians and machinists are backed up firm behind the opposition to Statement No. 1 and that the result of the present election will go far towards determining whether the state will continue free from machine and boss rule or whether it will revert to the old conditions.

Realizing these conditions the men back of the machine slate are working every string to get every vote possible whipped into line and held there until after the primaries. Reed, Hodson, Beach, Bailey and the other backers of the slate, are planning every method to poll every vote which can be found in the county favorable to them.

Workers for the Statement No. 1 principle realize that they will have to confront this united organization of the opposition and are planning to meet it with a counter effort to bring out all the votes favorable to them by arousing the mass of the voters to come to the polls. If the full Statement No. 1 vote is polled the friends of the principle have no fear but that the entire delegation nominated on Friday will be pledged to Statement No. 1.
