

RED WITNESSES GET VERY DRUNK

Federal Authorities Will Try to Discover Where Indians Obtained Liquor.

Investigation of the sale of liquor to Indians by Portland saloonkeepers during the last few days is to be made by the United States authorities.

The procedure of the case of the government against Larkay Logan, an Indian, charged with manufacturing in the United States circuit court, has been interfered with to a great extent, owing to the fact that many of the witnesses brought to Portland from the Siletz reservation were unable to appear because they were intoxicated. As a result of this the federal authorities this morning decided to take some action in the matter.

John Woodman, an Indian, the principal witness for the defense, was on the stand yesterday but he was excused on account of his condition. It was claimed he had been drinking. This morning counsel for the defense stated to the court that their principal witness was still unable to appear.

Seventeen Indians, several of them women, were summoned to Portland from the reservation as witnesses in the case. Yesterday Abe Logan, the defendant's brother, was arrested by the police for drunkenness and has been unable to appear. He is in jail. Attorneys for both sides yesterday requested the court to issue an order allowing the United States marshal to take into custody all Indian witnesses who were found intoxicated. Many of them were rounded up during the day and kept in rooms by the deputies. This morning several of them appeared and it wouldn't require a temperance worker to see that they had been imbibing in some sort of joywater.

Several quarts of whiskey were taken from the Indian witnesses by the deputies this morning when they reported at the courthouse. One of the women was drunk yesterday and engaged in a fight with another squaw from the reservation.

From the facts gathered by the government authorities it appears that the Indians have had no difficulty whatever in securing all the whiskey they desired. The government agents say the Indians have taken advantage of being summoned here to testify, and instead of taking the case seriously have made a celebration of the visit in preference.

Under the circumstances an investigation is to be made at once to determine if possible where the Indians secured liquor during their stay in the city. There is a law against selling liquor to Indians and prosecution will follow if the offenders are located.

Larkay Logan was put on the stand in his own defense this morning. He claims to have stabbed Willie Garnier, another Indian, in self-defense. The government rested its case yesterday. The case will probably go to the jury late this afternoon.

SAILORS CAPTURE SAN DIEGO

wharf at noon. As the boats, towed by three tugs, landed load after load of men, their blue uniforms lending a brilliant dash of color to the scene, the watching crowds cheered wildly.

Parade Formed.
When the last of the men had safely landed, they were drawn up in marching order, with Major Hugh G. Gwyn as grand marshal, and at 2:30 p. m. the procession began to move east on D street. First came the escort of honor with the distinguished naval officers, then the battalion of coast artillery and next a brigade of marines. Following came the four brigades of sailors, by far the longest section of the parade, with a band at the head of each brigade.

The Spanish war veterans were to have been included in the procession, but decided not to take part owing to the depletion of their ranks by sickness. The Grand Army of the Republic and the Confederate Veterans were stationed at Fourth and Maple streets, where they fell in line, the march being too long and fatiguing for the old heroes. When the whole pageant was in motion it presented an inspiring sight and looked like an army of occupation.

Thousands upon thousands of people occupied the sidewalks, windows of buildings or any point of vantage from which the spectacle could be advantageously viewed. Never before in the history of San Diego has such a multitude of people thronged its streets as that which watched the parade. Caesar's cohorts, returning from the conquest of a nation, for the triumph and festival of thanksgiving with all the trophies of war could not have been received with more fervor than these sailors coming ashore after the history-making voyage of the Atlantic fleet.

Many an eye in the throng of proud citizens glistened with tears as the gallant fighting men marched past, bands playing and flags gaily flying in the breeze.

Tars Appreciate Welcome.
Enhancing were the vari-colored decorations that met the gaze in every direction. These, with their gold and blue, did much to assure the marchers of their welcome to the city. By the cheering, the hat waving, the fluttering of women's handkerchiefs and other forms of greeting the sailors were not unmoved. Their full appreciation of the welcome extended them showed in their faces.

At Fourth and D streets the marching column turned north on Fourth. Along the flag-festooned street they continued to the intersection of Maple, where the Grand Army veterans and the Confederate veterans joined the procession. The full number marched east on Maple street to Park Boulevard to the reviewing stand at City Park. Then the different sections were drawn up in their allotted locations and the exercises of the day began.

Thomas Gets Evans' Sword.
The feature of the program was the presentation of a jeweled key, emblematic of the liberty of the city, and a sword to Admiral Thomas, which had been made for Admiral Evans. The presentation of medals to Admiral Thomas and other admirals of the fleet followed.

The ceremonies at City Park were opened with an address of welcome to California by Governor Gillett. Rear Admiral Thomas replied.

Immediately after the conclusion of the ceremonies an informal reception to officers of the fleet and guests was given at the Cuyamaca club. Tonight from 8 to 10 o'clock there will be an illumination of the city and the battlements, including searchlight practice by the warships. At 9 o'clock will begin the admiral's ball to the officers of the fleet at the Hotel del Coronado.

NO PLACE FOR TARS TO SLEEP WHEN ON LEAVE AT SAN DIEGO

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Diego, April 15.—Unable to find sleeping accommodations, nearly 300 sailors from the battleship fleet who had been granted shore leave last evening, were compelled to sleep on the streets all night. The headquarters of the committees were visited by a number of warrant officers and men late at night, begging to be shown where they might sleep, but only a few of them were taken care of.

"What will happen when over 6,000 men are ashore tonight?" asked the sailors this morning. The committee cannot answer.

Most of the men given shore leave today will want to spend the night in the city, and accommodations can be found for only a small percentage of the number.

The committees had arranged for the influx of visitors, but it never occurred to them that there would be such a demand for rooms by the sailors themselves and they are confronted with a serious problem. Hundreds of civilians, who arrived on late trains and who had had to make reservations in advance, also were compelled to walk the streets all night.

ONLY HALF FLEET TO BE ALLOWED TO GO TO SANTA CRUZ

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Santa Cruz, Cal., April 15.—Gloom which appears thick enough to cut is everywhere apparent in Santa Cruz today because Secretary Metcalf has put his foot down and declared that the whole Atlantic fleet cannot and will not remain in Santa Cruz Bay. The citizens of the seaside city will be allowed instead to welcome half of the squadron for that length of time.

To make matters worse, many of the people of Santa Cruz who subscribed to the entertainment fund on the representation that the whole fleet was coming to the city are demanding the return of their money. Some of this money has been spent, so the entertainment committee today finds itself in a very embarrassing position. All these facts were forwarded to the California delegation in Washington, with a request that it be informed to induce the navy department to send the whole fleet. But the navy department said no and there the matter rests.

ADMIRAL EVANS WILL NOT BE ABLE TO SEE LOS ANGELES FIESTA

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Los Angeles, Cal., April 15.—As predicted, the condition of Rear Admiral Evans' health will not permit of his meeting the Atlantic fleet here or participating in the festivities arranged for the entertainment of the officers and men. The fleet committee which all along had advised the admiral would positively be here to take part in the automobile parade and the banquet to the officers of the fleet today, admitted that it had been informed that Admiral Evans had regrettably reported the conclusion that it would be unwise for him to make the trip from Paso Robles.

DETECTIVES SUE FOR $3,900 BACK SALARY

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Former Detective Joseph Day, on behalf of himself and Joseph Resing, Frank Snow and G. Carpenter, a city detective, filed suit in the circuit court yesterday for $3,900 back salary which he claims is due them for the months between August 2, 1904, when they were discharged, and July 1, 1907, when Judge Sears returned his decision in their cases. They allege that the city never paid them for the services between those dates, in spite of the fact that they were not legally discharged.
