

Important!

The state of Oregon stands on the threshold of its complete development, the city of Portland on the eve of becoming the metropolis of the northwest, if not of the Pacific coast, provided they receive at this time no injury in the house of their friends.

To displace Senator Fulton by an untried man would be such an injury. The state and city need all his talent, all his capacity, all his influence with his brother senators—and he has abundantly shown that he has all three—to secure for the Columbia river the government appropriations that are absolutely needed to give the same deep water facilities to ocean-going ships that are now afforded by Puget sound. When that is done, the shorter haul will of itself establish Portland's future.

A new senator, however able, would take his place at the foot of all committees, would have to MAKE friends instead of finding them there to greet him; would be without influence, and for two years (under the unwritten law of the senate) without power of speech, whereas Senator Fulton already holds important positions on leading committees, and has shown his ability to speak and to care for the interests of the state and city.

He has the esteem of his associates in the senate and the confidence of the community in which he has lived. The secret service force of the United States has apparently been engaged for years in a microscopical investigation of his past without making a single disclosure that any fair-minded man would deem worthy of the slightest consideration.

He authorizes the statement that he believes in the popular election of senators, as he believes in the people's rule in all things wherein they express themselves, and, while he doesn't believe that it is his part, himself a candidate, to dictate to candidates for the legislature what statements they shall sign or what pledges they shall give, he binds himself to observe the people's will, and, if defeated at the polls, not to carry the contest further.

J. W. BAILEY

Republican Candidate for Dairy and Food Commissioner.

Thirty years' residence in Oregon, long identification with dairy, livestock and industrial interests and 10 years' service as dairy and food commissioner are among the qualifications of J. W. Bailey for re-nomination for that office on the Republican ticket.

Mr. Bailey has enforced the laws against impure, short-weight and misbranded foods, until violations of the law are rare. All interests connected with food and drink products know him as a vigorous, impartial officer.

By economical administration of the food funds of the state, Mr. Bailey has established a valuable chemical laboratory, by means of which food adulterations are detected. The evidence of this laboratory has failed to convict in only one case out of several hundred prosecutions. Health reports show Portland the most healthy city in the United States. This is due to its pure food.

During his administration, dairy conditions and food standards have greatly improved, owing to enactment of new pure-food laws and their enforcement. Much improvement is yet to be accomplished and Mr. Bailey is working for further uplift of food standards and dairy conditions.

Mr. Bailey has wide knowledge of productive conditions in Oregon, gained from personal visits to nearly every part of the state. This knowledge is a practical sort. He is not a theorist; but has made use of up-to-date theories, chemical and bacteriological, in detecting food impurities and studying their effects.

During his administration the commercial dairy production of the state has grown from practically nothing to a value of $17,000,000 a year. This has benefited every resident of the state and added vastly to its wealth. Oregon's dairy products are famed in the markets of the world. It is Mr. Bailey's ambition to see Oregon the leading dairy state in the union.

A. N. HAMILTON
Who Saved the People of Oregon
$82,000

No man, no matter what his qualifications might be, can gain the prestige of the people short of a term of two years' service and hard work on the Commission Board.

A. N. Hamilton's (better known as Doc) experience in work while on the Commission in 1891 and 1892 has given him a position among the people of the State of Oregon that no inexperienced Commissioner can give.

It is well to remember that during his two years' service the Commissioners saved to the people of our state $82,000 by reducing freight rates. This fact alone places A. N. Hamilton in a position not only to give a greater service to all of the people of Oregon; but it makes him the most valuable man, because he can give to the people his knowledge which he acquired during his term of office.

He made himself known by his impartiality, fairness and honesty in dealing with all complaints that were continually arising from the public, thereby saving the people the expense of law suits and delays in getting all claims adjusted; also in his diligent search in passenger rates as well as freight rates.

A. N. Hamilton, the people's choice for Railroad Commissioner, has proven by his past record that he possesses knowledge, experience, impartiality and honesty. His knowledge will give him power. His experience is unlimited. His impartiality and honesty will give equality to all and favoritism to none.

The indisputable facts mentioned above is one of the many important reasons why the people of Oregon should stand united and support and vote for A. N. Hamilton, Republican candidate for Railroad Commissioner, whose record is clean and unassailable. Make your X at number 22 and you will know that your vote has helped to nominate a man who has worked for your interest and will continue to work for your interest if elected.
