PAGAN EASTER NOW GREAT CHRISTIAN DAY

Strange Customs, Softened by Time, Have Come Down From the Time of Saxons Who Worshipped the Teutonic Goddess Ostera.

Tomorrow will be the greatest Sunday of the year, marked again with song and rejoicing, celebrating the resurrection of the Lord. Throughout the cities the churches are preparing for special services and the choirs have worked up special programs of Easter music.

Easter Sunday is universally recognized as a day of rejoicing. As is the case with most of the Christian festivals it was adapted from the heathen rites. Formerly Ostera, the Teutonic goddess who was the personification of the east, of the morning and the spring was worshiped in the month of April just as the earth was casting off the spell of winter. The worship of Ostera was deeply rooted in northern Germany and was brought into England by the Saxons. The early missionaries, finding it impossible to abolish it, changed it to a Christian festival. This was easily done, for the awakening earth corresponded with the thought of the resurrection of the Lord and his power over death.

For a long time there was discussion concerning the date of Easter celebration. The early Christians observed the same day as the Jews in the Feast of the Passover, but others observed Sunday because the resurrection was on the Sabbath. Constantine finally decided the matter by decreeing that all should observe the same day, the first Sunday after the full moon on or after March 21.

Strange Easter Customs.

At first the ceremonies attending Easter were simple, but Constantine, who loved pomp and display, made it more elaborate year after year. Night watches were instituted in the churches, hugh wax candles took the place of tapers. One popular belief that grew up later, was that one must wear a new article of dress on Easter Sunday to insure good fortune in love affairs during the year. The custom has not died out yet. It was believed that if the fires were all put out Saturday night and started anew with flint and steel Easter morning it would be a protection against fire. The popular belief that the weather on Easter will decide the weather till Whitsunday still clings to many.

Eggs and rabbits have always been associated with Easter. In olden times colored eggs with sentimental mottos were exchanged as regularly as valentines. The egg custom seems to have its source from both Christian and Pagan legend. With the early Christians the egg symbolized the resurrection; with the Romans it was used in holiday games. Some think the custom came from the Jews who had a hard boiled egg representing a fabulous bird, at one of their feasts. In Persia people exchange colored eggs in March in memory of two mythical brothers who mixed good and evil in the world by breaking together an egg of good spirits and one of evil demons.

There are many legends connecting the hare with the new moon, but in all of them the hare was transported to the moon in reward for some good deed.

Men's Privileged Day.

In some of the peasant neighborhoods of Europe Easter Monday and Easter Tuesday are observed with various old customs. Monday is the men's day, when they may beat their wives or may toss the women they meet and demand kisses from them. Tuesday the women return favors.

Joyous music is one of the firmest associations with Easter. Some of the most inspiring and beautiful music in the world has been written for Easter and on Easter subjects. The old monks, shut off from the joys of the world, seemed to pour out their souls at this one time in joy and many beautiful hymns have come down from them. Flowers and sunshine are inseparably connected with Easter. Should it rain every Easter in a child's life but one, that one would stamp the rest. Lilies are especially associated with the day. It seems more thoroughly a season of Christian rejoicing even than Christmas for there is less thought of self in the Easter day.

PIONEER WITHAM IS DEAD IN BENTON

Came to Oregon in 1847 by the Southern Route—Prominent in Early History of State.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Corvallis, Or., April 18.—A. M. Witham, an Oregon pioneer of 1847, and ex-state senator, died at his home near this city yesterday of heart failure. He was in Corvallis Thursday and appeared in his usual health, but was taken ill at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Mr. Witham was 85 years old and was a native of Indiana. In 1844 he started to Oregon, joining a train of 70 wagons at St. Joseph, Missouri, and coming by the southern route, to Jackson county, Oregon. Soon after he came to Benton county and in 1849 preempted 640 acres a mile and a half from this city, later acquiring more land until at the time of his death he owned over 1,200 acres.

Mr. Witham was elected to the state senate from Benton county in 1861 and in 1874 was elected joint senator from Benton and Polk counties. He was prominently identified with the early history of Benton county and was always a highly respected citizen of this section.

The immediate survivors are his sons, Oliver, Ed, Elvin, Henry and Charles, all of Benton county, and his daughters, Mrs. Mary Collins of Portland and Mrs. Ollie McIntosh of Corvallis.

Funeral services will be held at the residence at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, conducted by C. T. Hurd and interment will be in I. O. O. F. cemetery. Deceased was a member of many years' standing of the Baptist church.
