

EASTER MORN, WHEN THE WORLD IS BORN ANEW

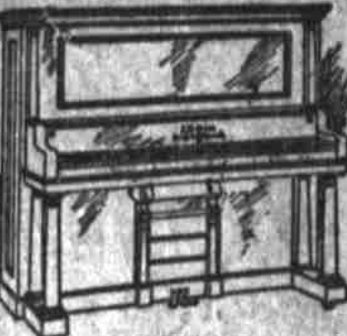

Easter—the day of joy and life and hope, the occasion accepted by us as the most fitting time to acknowledge that once each year the world is born anew—a resurrection which finds its concrete expression in every blade of grass and way-side blossom, is being generally celebrated in Portland today.

of useless existence. For it is Easter morning. And the people answered the call of the bells and found that this is Easter in very fact. The message was taken up by every bit of nature and repeated to them. The damp earth was fresh with the fragrance of the simple spring. And the house that was too poor to typify the universal awakening by its pot of lilies, was, in Portland, the exception.

lected as symbolical of the new season fill the churches. Easter lilies, still the most popular flower of the day, shipped from Japan and Bermuda; white cannas, waxy and pure; delicate spirea, with its myriads of infinitesimal blossoms, all as fine as rare lace; great white rhododendrons, roses, carnations, old-fashioned garden phlox, losing none of its simple beauty through proximity to its more expensive sisters, fragrant sweetpeas and stocks are some of the white flowers which help to carry out the green and white of Easter colors. The churches of the city were almost without exception, elaborately decorated for the Easter services and special song services were held in the Protestant and masses in the Catholic churches. The churches are seldom large enough to accommodate the Easter worshippers and as the most important day of the year in the church calendar, everyone is anxious to attend, and it is probable that nearly everyone in Portland will attend some church during the day.

A. B. Chase "ARTISTANO" Its Beauty and Simplicity

"ARTISTANO" UPRIGHT Ready to be played by hand. A slight movement of the hand simultaneously folds tracker box and pedals out of sight.

HAVE you ever expected to see a Grand Piano, the virtuoso's instrument, within which would be hidden an automatic playing device that would enable you to render, with all the virtuoso's power of tone and expression, any musical masterpiece? Such is the A. B. Chase "Artistano"—the first and only successful player-grand.

Glancing casually at the "Artistano" Grand, you would never suspect the presence of an automatic player. Nor would you at first detect its presence in the "Artistano" Upright.

In each of these remarkable instruments is concealed, below the keyboard, where it cannot interfere with either action or acoustics, a marvelous playing device. These instruments are no larger than ordinary grand and upright pianos, for the compact playing mechanism occupies a space that has never before had anything to fill it.

Nothing more simple was ever thought of. The "Artistano" besides being the most human of all player-pianos, is also the most beautiful and the most convenient.

We invite you to see it for yourself, to hear it and to play it.

We will make easy installment terms to you on the "Artistano"; also on the famous A. B. Chase pianos, grand and upright.

Ask for booklets.

The only visible parts of the player mechanism when in use, are the pedals and the small tracker box containing the music roll and expression levers. When the piano is to be played by hand, the tracker box and pedals, by a slight motion of the hand, are folded underneath the keyboard, out of the way. When the music roll is to be used, a slight reverse motion draws out the tracker box and drops the pedals simultaneously.

ELECTRIC TO BEND

New Line Will Tap Coal Field and Also a Gold Mine—Eastern Capitalists Interested in Company—Big Dam Planned.

An electric railway company organized by Portland and Seattle men will build a line from Condon to Bend, crossing the John Day river and securing power from that stream, also erecting a dam 200 feet high in the Deschutes river and developing power there. They propose to tap a coal field near Madras and serve the Oregon King gold mine controlled by Jack Edwards at the latter point and supplying the coal for reducing Ashwood ore.

derstood that eastern capitalists are interested in the enterprise. The concern will be known as the Portland Construction company, which filed articles of incorporation with the county clerk yesterday, stating that the capital of the new firm was $500,000.

Dr. Keeney is president of the new company, and Mr. Hanson, now vice-president of the Construction & Engineering company of Portland, is one of the other officials.

"We are not in a position to divulge our plans," said Dr. Keeney last evening, "but we will be able to give the public information as to what we propose to do within a short time. Further than that I do not care to say anything."

The company has made filings for water power at a point just below the government reclamation service dam in the Deschutes river. The proposed dam will be 100 feet higher than the dam designed by the government's engineers when irrigation from this stream was under consideration. The country over which the electric road will run is similar to the region between Shanks and Prineville, and while some of the grades to be encountered would be objectionable for a steam road, it is said an electric line will have no trouble overcoming the difficulties. The road will avoid the heaviest grades by following a course describing an elongated letter S.

Enormous power can be developed from the John Day and Deschutes rivers. The elevation around Condon, the northern terminal, is about 2,000 feet above sea level, and in the Bend country the altitudes are but 1,000 feet higher.

Tomorrow (Monday) will positively be the last day for discount on East Side gas bills. Portland Gas Co.

Denver is soon to have a union labor hospital, accommodating 350 to 400, to be managed by the National Union Labor Hospital association. If the Denver venture proves a success similar hospitals are to be established in other large cities.

HOT ELECTIONS HELD IN TENTS THAT STAYED BEHIND

Within the canvas covers where statements were made—and unmade—the day before, the children of Portland turned out yesterday in full force and played to their heart's content in the election booths provided by the city and county.

There was rain, to be sure, but that made no difference. It was Saturday, and the duties of the school rooms were forgotten for the day at least. Boys and some girls too, had figured several days on using the nice, new tents for their own use, and yesterday their dreams were realized.

Camping out was the favorite game. The children closed themselves within the canvas, and heedless of the passing street cars and the rumble of the heavy wagons over the pavements, they camped to their heart's content, and imagined for all the world that they were in the wilderness.

In the last several days complaints have been made to the Portland police to the effect that bogus checks have been passed, among those who have complained being the Hayes-Hendrickson company, Fleet & Co., and J. D. Myer & Co., all of Vancouver.

Checks for $20 each. In each of the three places mentioned the woman passed checks for $20 each. At Myer & Co.'s store one of the employees, a man named Wiss, became suspicious and followed the woman to the ferry, causing her arrest there.

To the police of Vancouver she first gave the name of Foster and finally stated that her name was Brown and that she lived at the Victoria hotel in this city.

This afternoon Sheriff Sappington of Vancouver and Detectives Maloney and Hellyer of the local police department went to the Victoria hotel, Seventh and Gilsan streets, and there arrested J. F. Madison, who is thought to be the husband of the alleged Mrs. Brown.

There is a 5-year-old daughter who was living at the hotel with Madison, and she will be taken care of by the hotel authorities.

It is stated by the local police that checks to the value of $60 were passed in Vancouver yesterday, and that other bogus paper aggregating $100 has been passed in Portland in the last few days.

A charge of forgery probably will be placed against the woman and a charge of obtaining money by false pretenses against the man.

Where it originated is uncertain, but it was first observed on the west coast of Africa. In the nineteenth century it began to have become firmly established from Senegambia to the southern limits of the Portuguese possessions.

The transportation of negroes to the West Indies carried it across the Atlantic, and it obtained a footing in Brazil and some other parts of South America, but it has apparently not been able to maintain a hold in the western hemisphere, though the fact of its once having appeared there is cause for serious reflection.

SOO LINE CARS FROM PORTLAND

Next Tuesday the Soo Line, controlled by the Canadian Pacific, will inaugurate its new passenger service between Portland and St. Paul, via Spokane. The arrangement contemplates an elegant train de luxe, with electric lights, library, buffet, compartment, observation, dining and sleeping cars.

The train will cover the distance between Portland and St. Paul in 87 hours. It is said the arrangements will at first consist of special Soo Line cars attached to the Spokane Flyer the O. R. & N. company, and a little later the Soo Line will put on its complete independent passenger train, operating over the O. R. & N. line from Portland to Spokane, and from that point over the Spokane International to the community, thence over the Canadian Pacific to the Twin cities.

THE SLEEPING SICKNESS

Appeared Once in Our Hemisphere, but Not to Stay. The sleeping sickness is being steadily fought, especially in Uganda, by the Royal society's commission. In that locality, according to the Medical Record, its ravages have been most terrible.

There a system of segregation has been tried, and costly and difficult as it proves, much importance is attributed to it. The best clearing of the jungle in the neighborhood of camps, ferries and landing stages is being done as far as possible, but the immense area is a bar to the clearance of the whole belt infected by the isotope.

The commission is also at work in central Africa, and other investigations are being carried out by French, German and Belgian medical expeditions. The juxtaposition of the international conference to consider the problem is perhaps not to be regretted, as no great success has been achieved. The case is still extending its ravages along the Nile and the Congo. Some traces of it have appeared in Rhodesia.

Lions for the Pope. Emperor Menelik's present to the pope of two fine African lion cubs, male and female, has arrived safely at Rome. The animals started from Addis Abeba in Abyssinia on New Year's day.

Shortly after they reached the desert region on their way to Alexandria, a lioness took up the trail behind the caravan. She followed it for some time, a week, making repeated efforts at first to get through the lines of the soldiers to the captive animals, whose presence she was evidently aware of. She subsequently dropped the pursuit when the caravan got out of the desert and into the comparatively thickly inhabited regions on the outskirts of Egypt.

FORGERY CHARGE AGAINST WOMAN

Mrs. Brown Is Arrested for Passing Bad Paper in Vancouver.

With an alleged Mrs. James Brown in the county jail at Vancouver and a J. F. Madison in the county jail here, it is thought the police of the two counties have rounded up the forgers who have been victimizing the people of Portland and Vancouver. Mrs. Brown was arrested yesterday afternoon in Vancouver and Madison was taken into custody this afternoon by Sheriff Sappington of Vancouver and Detectives Maloney and Hellyer of this city.

In the last several days complaints have been made to the Portland police to the effect that bogus checks have been passed, among those who have complained being the Hayes-Hendrickson company, Fleet & Co., and J. D. Myer & Co., all of Vancouver.

SHRINKAGE OF TIME. Disappointment of Man Who Went Back to Boyhood Home. "I got a great shock last summer," said the man who has been immersed in business large for years, "when I made my first visit to my boyhood home."

"All my life since I left the country I had looked back on those childhood scenes with a great deal of reverence. Everything connected with those early days loomed large in the mind. The river that flowed through my grandfather's farm was something magnificent, the house was a mansion, the trees grew to extraordinary proportions, the garden was mighty roomy, the orchard was the greatest ever; in fact the whole scheme of life, was on a large scale."

"Now I was wont to boast of those scenes to any of my friends who would consent to be bored. They couldn't show me anything in the country like that, but I was ready with a remark beginning, 'Well, when I was a boy, and so on through boast after boast. "I have stopped all that now, for when I went back last summer I found that it was just an ordinary farmhouse and the river was a tiny, lousy stream, and the orchard was small, and there wasn't much left of the garden. I wish I hadn't gone back at all. It was much more comfortable to keep that picture in the mind and talk about it to my heart's content. The subjects of conversation are few enough as it is."

BUILDING TO HOUSE OREGON AT SEATTLE FAIR

Work on the Oregon building at the Alaska-Tukon exposition, Seattle, is progressing favorably. The above picture was taken April 8, and shows the east elevation of the structure, which is 100 feet wide. The total length of the building is 184 feet, and when completed it will stand two full stories and a half high.

Architect David C. Lewis, who designed the building, has personal supervision of its construction, making weekly trips to Seattle to superintend and direct the work.
