ANGELS BLANK BEAVERS AGAIN

Four Thousand Fans See Southerners Apply Whitewash to Northern Team.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Los Angeles, April 20.—Los Angeles blanked the Beavers yesterday, 1 to 0, in what was the best game of the series just ended. Four thousand fans passed up the fleet and witnessed the great game. The locals got the only run which was earned on successive singles by Easterly, Nagle and Bernard.

Groom for the Northerners and Nagle for the Angels pitched splendid ball, the former allowing six hits to four for the latter.

The Beavers left last night for Oakland, where the next series will be played with the Red Dogs.

CONSTIPATION

"For over nine years I suffered with chronic constipation and during this time I had to take an injection of warm water once every 24 hours before I could have an action on my bowels. Happily I tried Cascarets, and today I am a well man. During the nine years before I used Cascarets I suffered untold misery with internal piles. Thanks to you I am free from all that this morning. You can use this in behalf of suffering humanity."

FATHER OF BASEBALL DIES IN NEW YORK

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New York, April 20.—Henry Chadwick, father of American baseball, died here today at the age of 83 years, after a brief illness, with pneumonia. He was known to every baseball fan in America and was an authority on all points of the game. For years he has edited Spalding's Baseball Guide.

Henry Chadwick was the youngest brother of the late Sir Edwin Chadwick, the eminent sanitary philosopher of England. He was born at Jessamine cottage, St. Thomas, Exeter, England, October 25, 1824. Mr. Chadwick, with his father, James Chadwick, removed to New York in 1837, where he had since resided. He was a journalist by inheritance, his father for many years being editor of the Western Times of Exeter.

SALEM SEMI-PROS WIN FROM EAST PORTLAND

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Salem, Or., April 20.—Salem defeated East Portland on the Tri-City grounds here yesterday afternoon by a score of 4 to 3. Though the ground was sloppy throughout the game the 200 fans present got their money's worth. For the state of the field it was a good exhibition of baseball.

Hamilton for the East side made one of the prettiest running catches ever executed here. He took in a line drive over shortstop in a manner that would have done credit to a major league player and the feat set the fans wild with delight. A couple of doubles were also booked to the credit of the East Portland team.

Heyser, who has been catching for Salem, was ill with the tonsilitis and his position was supplied by Edwards who fulfilled his mission well. Brock caught for the East Side. Gardiner for Portland struck out 10 men and allowed the Cherry City lads to get nine hits. Hall, who pitched for Salem, struck out five and allowed eight hits to be counted against him.

The game was notable for the small number of errors, one for each team.

SQUEEZE PLAYS.

Los Angeles and Portland broke even.

* *

All together the Beavers are the best batters in the league.

* *

Raftery is getting nifty on the bases again. Yesterday he stole two.

* *

There were two 1-0 games yesterday afternoon, an unusual occurrence. This is the kind of baseball that brings out the crowds.

* *

To Oakland belongs the honor of having beaten the runaway Seals twice in one day. This boosts the Commuters' average mightily.

* *

It's a safe bet that Danny Long has thrown 17 fits since he let Catcher Slattery go to Oakland. Slattery is punishing the horsehide something awful. He got one swat in the morning game and a two-bagger and single in the afternoon. He's doing some mighty good catching, too.

* *

Down south the scribes have dubbed Pinnance, McCredie's great Indian pitcher, "Chief Put 'Em Over." They say he is the finished product in the pitching line.

Tri-City Games.

Oregon City beat Albina in the Tri-City league game, at Oregon City yesterday, 6 to 3.

St. Johns defeated the Woodburn team, 7 to 2.

After playing three innings the West Portland-Vancouver game was called on account of rain. At that time the Frakes were ahead, 3 to 1.

Sportsmen to Meet.

The Oregon Fish and Game association will hold its meeting at the Chamber of Commerce, Third and Stark streets, Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock. It is desired that there be a full attendance, as several matters of great importance will be discussed.

The art of glove cutting requires great skill and in France some of the best workmen are paid $100 a week.

LAST WAGER OF RILEY GRANNAN

Bookmaker Barney Schrieber Frames Winning Ticket.

San Francisco, April 20.—One of the interesting relics which have come into the possession of "Barney" Schreiber is a bookmaker's ticket calling for a winning bet of "$250 to $50, Judge Nelson."

This ticket was never cashed. Nor will the owner ever present it to the Schreiber cashier, for it belongs to one departeth of this earth—Riley Grannan. It was the last wager ever made by the famous turf plunger.

One day, being unable to get over to the races because of the necessity of catching a noon train for Nevada, Grannan asked Schreiber to put $50 on Judge Nelson for him. The horse won at 7 to 1. Schreiber had the lone ticket put into a frame, and now you couldn't get it for a lot of money. It was the last wager Grannan ever made and a winning one, too.

Grannan bet on Judge Nelson on a Saturday and the next Thursday he passed to the great beyond over at Rawhide, Nevada. Just before the attack of pneumonia which laid him low began to fasten on him in a foreboding way Grannan said to "Jim Buckley:" "Here just as I have a chance to play wise man and get a fortune off suckers, after having been a sucker myself for 20 years, I'm taken sick."

Grannan meant that he had been betting against another man's game on the race track for a score of years, but here at Rawhide he had his bank roll behind a sweet percentage bank game and roulette play, and was beginning to rake it off every night in chunks.

Riley Was the Last.

Grannan was the last of the old-time turf plungers to pass away. Within the last 10 years "Plunger" Walton, "Pittsburg Phil," "Mike" Dwyer, "Joe" Ullman, "Eddie" Marks, "Phil" Daily and other top-notch "setter-ins" have cashed in. "Davy" Johnson and Lucien Appleby are about the only celebrities of a prodigal money-turf days left.

Not again will the American turf know such betting as that with which the memory of Grannan, Walton and Dwyer is associated. It is generally understood that Grannan's greatest "play" was to lay Henry Navarre to the amount of $125,000 in the famous match race with Domino. Such is not the case, for at Doncaster, in England, he actually lost for himself and a party of capitalists the sum of $132,000 on a mount ridden by "Tod" Sloan, which had been left at the post.

Weird things happen in the life of a gambler. For a month before his death Grannan experienced wonderful luck and good fortune at Emeryville. He won $8,200 one afternoon off $200, and beat a bridge whist game in the city for $1,300 the same night. Day after day he won. It was a break in his bad luck which had set in against him 11 years before.

"I don't know but all this luck seems to mean something," remarked Grannan to a friend. It surely did. Once strong and robust, the wild frenzy of the betting ring burnt out Grannan's nervous system and he fell into consumption, as did Walton and "Pittsburg Phil" before him.

Sherwood White Sox Victorious.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Sherwood, Or., April 20.—The Sherwood White Sox added another scalp to their belt yesterday, in the defeat of Brunn's Beavers of Portland to the tune of 4 to 1. The principal cause of the Beavers' defeat was in their stick work. Big Todd, the Sherwood twirler, had the visitors completely at his mercy throughout the game, allowing but two hits, one each in the second and ninth innings. Roxey, who was in the box for the visitors, was hit quite freely by the White Sox heavy batters, otherwise the game was considered of a very good type.

TURNER BOY KILLED BY TRAIN AT SALEM

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Salem, Or., April 20.—The body of Kirk Barr, the 16-year-old boy who was run over and instantly killed by the Cottage Grove local at Salem late Saturday evening, was taken to Turner yesterday afternoon and will be interred at that place today. Young Barr, it is supposed, attempted to board the train while it was in motion and missed his foothold. No one witnessed the accident.

The train was late and was standing on the sidetrack in order to allow the northbound express to pass. After the express pulled out the local started to pull up on the main track. Then Barr attempted to board the train, which act cost him his life. Barr's home was with his parents at Turner in this county.

CHANGE MADE IN MASON COMPANY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., April 20.—The Mason Construction company, which is throwing up the railroad grade through the tules south of this city, is now under new management, Archie Mason having sold his interest to E. P. Clark and associates. The company will continue the contract with the Southern Pacific and will do all in its power to complete the grade in the shortest possible time. This grade will delay the completion of the road into Klamath Falls and it is the desire of the Southern Pacific company to rush same to completion.

MANY HOMESEEKERS FLOCK TO KLAMATH

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., April 20.—There is a great demand for farms in Klamath county, the demands ranging from five-acre tracts to 1,000 acres in a body. In the last few weeks more farmers looking for new locations have come into this section than for several years past. Those lands selling are not to speculators but to actual homeseekers. A drive down the valley shows many new farm houses in course of construction and much new land broken.

SUES MILLMAN FOR TWENTY THOUSAND

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Salem, Or., April 20—S. J. Burroughs has commenced action in the Marion county circuit court for $20,000 damages against the Curtiss Lumber company at Mill City. Burroughs was caught in the machinery of the mill about a year ago and so seriously injured that, he alleges, he will never again be able to enjoy the proper use of his body. He alleges in his complaint that the lumber company was guilty of culpable negligence. Burroughs is 25 years old, and has a family.

MOUNT HEBRON LOTS SWIFT SELLERS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., April 20.—Lots in the new townsite of Mount Hebron, California, are selling rapidly. The railroad has now passed that point and the development of that part of Siskiyou county has begun.

W. S. Warden, formerly right-of-way agent of the California Northeastern railroad, who secured all the right-of-way between Weed and Klamath Falls, is now acting for the Klamath Development company, which owns all the townsites along the line of railroad. He has been centering his work on Mount Hebron, and an attractive feature is that with every block sold a five-acre tract adjacent to the townsite goes with it.

DORRIS JUBILATES MAY FIFTEENTH

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., April 20.—May 15 will be Railroad Day at Dorris, California, the new town on the California Northeastern railroad. Elaborate preparations are being made, the attractions including horse races, and baseball games. Some of the fastest local horses in northern California and southern Oregon will take part in the races. Horses from the F. F. ranch and other adjoining ranches will be entered. This will be Butte valley's first big celebration and will be one long to be remembered. The crowds from the south will be able to come to Dorris by rail, as there will be railroad transportation to that point now in a few days.

CANVAS GLOVES.

Some 8,000,000 Pairs Made Last Year in This Country.

From the New York Sun.

For an infant industry the manufacture of canvas gloves and mittens appears to be doing very well. It is as yet scarcely 15 years old and it did not fairly get into its stride until about five years ago, but there were turned out in this country last year such goods to the number all told of 8,000,000 pairs.

Who started the first canvas glove and mitten factory appears to be a moot question. It is probable that the first pair, and this most likely a pair of mittens, was made by some farmer's wife for her husband's use, and that as their utility commended them other farmers' wives made the same sort of mittens or gloves for their husbands until their use became more or less common in a neighborhood or district, and then somebody began making them for sale.

Now there are canvas glove and mitten factories scattered throughout the United States. There is one eastern concern in the business that has 14 factories in various states east of the Mississippi river, including one in this state, and canvas gloves and mittens are worn all over the country, and they are now exported to various foreign countries.

Canvas gloves and mittens are made for women as well as for men, and they are produced in great variety, in various styles, and of course in various sizes and in canvas of various thicknesses and in colors white, gray, brown and striped, and some have attached to them leather palm pads and thumb pieces and some have attached woven woolen wristlets, and there are canvas mittens that are woolen lined. Canvas gloves and mittens are made in 200 or more varieties.

They are worn by iron handlers, who perhaps buy those faced with leather or use with them separate leather palm pieces. They are worn by motormen and cab drivers and automobile drivers and truckmen, and by farmers and gardeners and by laborers, by men engaged in various kinds of work, and in homes they are used in tending the furnace.

Canvas gloves and mittens sell at prices ranging from 10 cents to 25 cents a pair, with a few styles running up to 35 cents. Those without leather trimmings can be washed, but they are more likely to be worn till they are thrown away. The railroad engineer, for instance, who fancied canvas gloves might buy canvas gauntlets by the dozen pairs at a cost of 25 cents a pair and put on a fresh pair every week; the laborer at one work or another might buy a pair of canvas gloves for 10 cents and wear them until they are worn out.

ATTACKED BY BEES.

Harrowing Experience of an Australian Bee Hunter.

From the Sydney News.

Rarely has a human being been in a more painful predicament than that in which a young man named Trunkett found himself recently.

While robbing a bee hive which was built in the fork of a tree 40 feet from the ground in Wangaratta, Australia, Trunkett, who was minus his hat, coat and boots, was completely smothered by the enraged insects. For 10 minutes he remained thus unable to help himself, until some friends saw his plight and by means of a rope hoisted up to him a bag.

With this the unhappy victim beat some of the insects off, and then, wrapping it round his head, slid down the rope to the ground, where he fainted. For half an hour he remained unconscious, during which time his friends, by vigorously rubbing whiskey into his skin, succeeded in drawing most of the poison from his stings, which amounted to several hundreds.

Diphtheria in State Institution.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Salem, Or., April 20—Three cases of diphtheria have been discovered among the children at the state insane asylum. The physicians at the institution, however, do not regard the epidemic as serious. Measures have been taken to prevent its spread. It is thought the disease was brought to the asylum by a child committed last week from Multnomah county.
