WHY PORTLAND GETS THE RATES Trade Volume Hither From Harbor Country Has Seattle's Beaten.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Olympia, Wash., April 22.—Complaints have been made to the state railroad commission concerning alleged discriminations against shippers on the Grays Harbor and Booth Bend branches of the Northern Pacific as compared with rates accorded Portland in the shipment of certain commodities to Seattle. It is claimed the rates on eggs, poultry and butter are materially higher on the two branch lines than they are on the main line for the lower haul. Objection is also made to the changing of the classification on fresh meats from third to first, resulting in an advance of rates. The railroads claim the Portland rates are made possible by the volume of traffic, which warrants the maintenance of a regular refrigerator car service, which would not be profitable on the branches. The railroad commission has taken the complaint up informally with the railroad officials at Tacoma.

RICH CHINESE WOMEN ROBBED Bound With Electric Light Wire and Gagged With Shoemaker's Wax.

(United Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, April 22.—Their hands and feet bound with electric light wire and their mouths filled with shoemaker's wax to prevent them from making an outcry, two wealthy Chinese women named Ah Ying and Lee Moy, living at 19 St. Louis street, in the Chinese quarter, were robbed by three Chinese early this morning of $30 in money and $70 worth of jewelry. The thieves escaped. The two women were preparing to register when the three thugs broke into their apartments and before they could recover from their fright they were seized and gagged and bound. After making the wax gag tight by winding a cloth over the women's mouths, the thieves bound their victims' feet and arms with electric light wire and then tied them to the bedpost. In a leisurely manner they then ransacked the apartments. A regular hiding place was overlooked, mattresses being torn to pieces, carpets torn up and bureaus pulled apart. Taking the bracelets and rings the women were wearing the thieves left the house with their other loot. Three hours later, after a desperate struggle in which her arms were badly cut, Ah Ying managed to free one arm and released herself and her companion. A regular hiding place was overlooked, mattresses being torn to pieces, carpets torn up and bureaus pulled apart. Taking the bracelets and rings the women were wearing the thieves left the house with their other loot.

The reports of the government's crusade against the anarchists were submitted today to Assistant Attorney General Cooley and the examiners of the new naturalization bureau are now in secret session here discussing the reports and preparing a plan of action. One of the examiners is authority for the statement that thousands of anarchists will be deported.

STANFORD PUNISHES EDITOR OF SEQUOIA (United Press Leased Wire.) Palo Alto, Cal., April 22.—Another storm broke on the campus of the Stanford university when the student affairs committee posted a notice suspending one student for appearing on the campus in an intoxicated condition and withdrawing the privilege of reregistering from two others. The notice, which was posted immediately after a meeting of the student affairs committee, is as follows: "A student was indefinitely suspended from the university for being intoxicated under the influence of liquor on the campus on the evening of April 17. The privilege of reregistration in the university was permanently withdrawn from the editor of the Sequoia for his abuse of the privileges of the college press in his editorial in the last number of the periodical. "For violation of the regulation governing students under suspension a student will not be permitted to register in the university. "The announcement has created great excitement among the students, and a regular celebration of the school is in the air. "The expelled editor of the Sequoia is E. N. Smith of Honolulu. In the offending editorial he severely criticized the student affairs committee for its wholesale punishment of students who took part in the memorable parade following the anti-liquor order.

Arlington, Va., April 22.—While crossing the Columbia river here yesterday the ferryman found a dead body floating down the river. It was taken out and the coroner held an inquest. From papers found it is thought the body was that of J. King, who has been working on the north bank road. Although the body had been in the water several days and was badly decomposed, Dr. Kennedy was able to determine that the man had been stabbed with a knife in the back and it is thought he was murdered and thrown in the river. A knife, a gun and a time check were found on the body. The check was signed by Porter Bros. & Welch. The body was buried here and the officers are investigating in an effort to find the person who did the stabbing.

MONUMENT ERECTED TO MURDERED YOUTH (United Press Leased Wire.) Oak Ridge, Va., April 22.—The first anniversary of the death of Theodore Estes, who was shot and killed by Judge William G. Loving for alleged betrayal of his daughter, was observed today by the unveiling of a handsome monument erected in memory of the young man. The fund for the monument was raised by an association formed for the purpose, composed almost exclusively of ladies who believed that young Estes was innocent of the crime charged against him. The killing of young Estes by Judge Loving occurred at Oak Ridge station, April 22, 1907. Judge Loving was at the time manager of the Oak Ridge estate of Thomas Ryan, the New York millionaire. According to the testimony at the trial Judge Loving's young daughter had told her father that young Estes had drunk and wronged her while out drinking. The father immediately hurried up Estes and without asking for an explanation shot and instantly killed him. On the strength of his daughter's testimony he was acquitted of the charge of murder.

DRIZZLING MIST AT LOS ANGELES

Sailors Enjoy Third Day's Visit Despite Bedraggled Decorations.

Los Angeles, April 22.—A drizzling mist with occasional heavy downpours of rain ushered in the third day of the fleet's entertainment here. Though the acres of bunting with which the city is decorated soon took on a bedraggled appearance, the unfavorable weather had no depressing effect upon the great holiday crowd which surged through the streets toward the ocean-bound carlines on its way to visit the ships. Shore leave was granted 5,500 blue-jackets to attend the barbecue and athletic contests which were repeated today for their entertainment. Despite the rain as large a crowd as has previously joined with the sailormen in the fairmen's auditorium this evening. Every preparation has been made to make it the most brilliant social function ever held in the city. Great care has been exercised in the issuance of the invitations to insure the presence of a most brilliant company of guests. The decorations of the magnificent auditorium have been converted into a veritable fairyland. Practically every one of the higher officers of the fleet who are not on duty will be in attendance, while the army will be represented by a number of visiting officers. The continual social grind since their arrival in San Diego is commencing to tell on the officers and there are few of them who would not welcome a short tour of duty away from pink tea, balls and banquets. Perfect fitting glasses $1 at Metzger's. PIPES SCORES VICTORY (Continued from Page One.) George A. Steel, state treasurer, was the first witness examined. Mr. Steel could not readily remember the details of any conversations he might have had with the officers of the Title Guarantee & Trust company regarding his deposits in that bank. He said that in January, 1907, there was $25,000 in the bank that he had deposited there by his predecessor and which was turned over to him and other funds in other banks. He said he had deposited more money in the bank from time to time in the way of checks, but little coin. In June it was at his order that the educational account was started in the bank as required by the law passed in 1907. This law requires that the educational fund should be kept separate. The educational fund amounted to more than $275,000 at that time, and was checked over to this new "educational" account from the general fund already in the bank. There was a check of $2,000 on Ladd & Tilton besides, making a total of $275,000. He said he might have said something about this new account with the bank to Mr. Ross or Mr. Burkhart, but remembered none of the details. Mr. Steel gave the impression of being an unwilling witness for the state. Letters were produced and special notes of entries were presented to show that this new account was opened at the time, and Charles Kopf, assistant treasurer, Teller E. L. Decatur and Bookkeeper Clyde C. Byers were called upon to identify the entries and directions made regarding this segregation.
