

CAUGHT BY SHAKY CAGE

Mrs. Porter's Limb Is Now Paralyzed From a Ride in Marquam Elevator—Was Pulled Out of Shaft in the Nick of Time.

Gross carelessness on the part of someone nearly cost a life last Tuesday afternoon at the Marquam building. Who is responsible the injured woman would like to know but no one seems to be able to tell her.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. J. J. Porter of Vancouver, with M. E. Roe as her companion, was awaiting the elevator on the seventh floor of the Marquam. The lift on the left side of the building stopped for her. She stepped in with her right foot and just then the elevator suddenly started up and jerked back into position again, landing on her right foot. Mr. Roe, seeing the danger he directed the elevator boy quickly to raise it slightly and thus Mrs. Porter's foot that had been imprisoned slipped down the shaft to the knee.

Mr. Roe caught her and pulled the remaining foot out of the shaft. She was taken to the office of Dr. Harry McKay which adjoins the elevator and was there cared for. Dr. McKay sent her home in his automobile, thinking that the accident was not very serious.

Since then Dr. J. A. Pettit has treated her, but her accident has taken a serious turn. The weight had fallen upon her instep, the nerve center of the foot, and seems to have paralyzed the whole limb to her hip. This morning the doctor struck pins in the injured member without causing any sensation of pain. At first he was confident the use of the limb would be restored though he was skeptical about the foot but now he says the whole limb may be paralyzed and at the best will require a very long time to be directly used. Mrs. Porter now can move about only a short distance and that with the aid of crutches. The right limb is entirely numb.

Passengers on the elevator at the time were inclined to blame the boy for the carelessness, but it seems to develop that the blame goes further back than that. It is alleged that the elevator itself is in poor condition and has long been so. The boys say that the lever refuses to work, and if the pressure of the hand is loosened very slightly the elevator will fly up or down at its own will. The boys demonstrated to the passengers that this hand lift was faulty in the same manner, though not quite so bad. They hold, so Mrs. Porter said, that these elevators have long been in need of repair.

At the time of the accident C. H. Fremmer, elevator inspector, was in the case, and he assisted Mrs. Porter to the doctor's office. Dr. McKay openly pronounced it a case of carelessness.

Startling Reductions on Made-to-Order Clothes and the Reason for this Extraordinary Sale and Offer.

Too Many Spring Woolens—Overbought!

In buying our spring woolens for this season's business we took last spring's results as a basis as far as quantities are concerned. You all know how the financial stringency affected the entire country and now it has stagnated local retail trade. Business, therefore, did not come up to our expectations. Our stock is much too heavy—some of it will have to be sacrificed eventually—for we never carry over patterns from one season to another. Instead of reducing our prices at the end of the season, we DO IT NOW. We take our loss and take it quickly; costs and values are entirely disregarded. This is indeed an exceptional opportunity—come and take advantage of price concessions such as you rarely expect to find at the end of the season, never, as in this instance, at its very beginning. In addition to our usual low prices we will give a special discount of 25 per cent, also an extra pair of trousers or a fancy silk vest free. We cut the price but not the quality. We can refer you to our satisfied customers as to our ability in the art of building made-to-order clothes—all goods cut under personal supervision of Mr. Maxwell. All clothes marked in plain figures. Quality, workmanship and fit guaranteed. Garments $2.49 to $15. Maxwell Tailoring Company, 142 Second street, near Alder. Store open evenings.

on the part of the elevator inspector and said he had been expecting a serious accident for some time.

"These elevators are the cause of remarks," he said, when asked about the matter today. "There is no question about the fault and the inspector readily conceded the blame to be with the machine. I believe the patient will ultimately recover."

However, Mrs. Porter feels that the management of the Marquam is not taking sufficient interest. Her sister, Mrs. J. H. Heustis, with whom Mrs. Porter is visiting at 155 East Thirty-fifth street, called up Mr. Little, the superintendent of the building.

"I asked him if he had heard about it," said Mrs. Heustis, "and at first he said no, then he reluctantly admitted that he had heard a little, but did not regard it as serious."
