"St. Jerome once wrote of St. Luke:
"He was a physician, and all his words are medicine to the drooping soul."
You are physicians. Have you ever thought that your words may be medicine to the drooping soul? Family secrets are laid before you, confessions made to you which no priest hears.
What wondrous comfort and life-giving power there is in the kind, refined, gentie manner, and the soft, earnest, decided voice of the physician in the sick room.

"Is your intellect not satisfied with the existence of a God when you observe the wonderful skill which planned the human hand? It is probably the most perfect mechanical device of which we have any knowledge. No limit to dexterity—witness the wonderful feats of the magician, and the surgeon in some operations, especially upon the eye. It would seem as if there were a central intelligence sending out orders. It is not the intelligence of the individual. He does not know what is going on in his body. It is all done for a purpose, and accomplishes that purpose. Purpose implies exercise of will. Whose will is it since it is not the will of the individual? There can be but one answer.

True Scriptures of Nature.

True Scriptures of Mature.

True Scriptures of Nature.

"It is the will of the Creator. With your intellect thus satisfied, with this knowledge constantly before you, how is it we are told that now the great Twentleth Century has come, and Jesus and the Apostles, and the Fally once delivered to the saints' are all eclipsed by its brilliancy. Men have learned to look into the rocks, and gases, and an monkeys, and protoplasm, and find it these the true scriptures of nature. We are told 'nerve fluid, evolution, grey matter, 'These be thy gods, O Israel' Let the old Bible go with Olympus, and the Styx, and all the fables that pleased the infancy of the race. Let the saints of all ages be written fanatics and enthusiasis, and revelation a fanciful dream."

"Surely with the evidence of a creating and over-ruling God which you meet with on every hand, you cannot disten to such a false cry. Seek the truth. Never be afraid of the truth. Let your aim be truth, wherever you can find it, and in every situation where her beautiful figure presents itself, ardently seek her regardless of the name or school on which she may deign to shed her glory."

· TRAINED NURSE Remarks About Mourishing Food.

"A physician's wife gave me a package of Grape-Nuts one day, with the remark that she was sure I would find the food very, beneficial, both for my own use and for my patients. I was particularly attracted to the food, as at that time the weather was very hot, and I appreciated the fact that Grape-Nuts requires no cooking.

"The food was deliciously crisp, and most inviting to the appetite. After making use of it twice a day for three or four weeks I discovered that it was a most wonderful invigorator. I used to suffer greatly from exhaustion, head-aches and depression of spirits. My work had been very trying at times and indigestion had set in.

"Now I am always well and ready for any amount of work, have an abundance of active energy, cheerfulfess and mental polse. I have proved to my entire satisfaction that this change has been brought about by Grape-Nuts food.

"The fact that if is predigested is a very desirable feature. I have had many remarkable results in feeding Grape-Nuts to my patients, and I connot speak too highly of the food. My friends constantly comment on the change in my appearance, I have gained 9 pounds since beginning the use of this food." "There's a Reason." Read "The Road to Wellville," in page.

As only six of the ten improvement clubs on the peninsula were present at the meeting last night no decisive action with regard to making arrangements for the rose festival was taken, but the club took up most of the time with a discussion of the single tax question. The principal speaker was tion the defense offered only one witness, James Sullivan, who was arrested with Houghton on the same charge. His testimony was of little benefit, however, as he only denied that he accompanied thoughton to the Velten tailor shop, where two bolts of goods were stolen.

The case was tried before Judge Cleland, who will pass sentence within a short time. Houghton was released to the control of the single tax question. The principal speaker was clearly the because a fellow convict vowed vengeance upon him. The convict is public for the help extended the members in constructing the first colored Baptist church in Oregon. All but $600 of the church debt has been paid, the members having raised $2.500 in cash and $700 worth of lumber by appeal to members of other Baptist churches in the city and state. The congregation expects to have the $600 mortgage cleared by November 1.

The church was erected on Seventh street and completed last December at a cost of $3.200 under the leadership of Rev. B. B. B. Johnson, the pastor. The lots were donated by the White Temple, The trustees of the church are: R. Crowford, John C. Logan, Henry Lawrence, Rev. B. B. B. Johnson, E. I. Watson, E. Frye and E. Woods.

The church was given out as to the results agreed to an advance in freight rates, both as regards class rates and commodity rates. wersion of opinion among the various men present as to what should really be done.

Of course, all railroad men agree that one of two things should be done either an advance in rates or a reduction in wages.

The split in the conference came on the question as to what should be done.

The split in the conference came on the question as to what should be done first. It is understood that President Delano of the Wabash was very firmly opposed to an advance in rates, and that even President James McCrea of the Pennsylvania was at first, to say the least, decidedly "wabbly" on the proposition of the advance in rates which was under consideration.

However, after a long session, it was finally decided that the plan for advancing both class and commodity rates should be approved and that the schedules which the traffic men had been working on for many weeks should be brought nearer perfection in certain points and filled at Washington.

The advance will by no means be confined to class rates. The advance in class rates will amount to from 10 to in some cases 12½ per cent as regards all classes.

There is, of course, no intention of making a sweeping advance in commodity rates, but the price of transporting a large line of commodity relight under the new schedules will be advanced.

The presidents and traffic officials of the trunk lines east of Chicago have agreed to an advance in freight rates, but the extent of 2 cents, and of your shirt 23 cents, and so on, and so on.

"The railroads have repeatedly, for years past, made concessions to the public at large, and to the great army of armslover."

other roads, and thus preserve the rate equilibrium.

Commenting on above, the Wall Street Journal says:

If prosperity can be brought back in one case by the direct and simple method of advancing the selling price of a commodity, so as to avoid the necessity of reducing the wage cost of producing it, why not in other cases, generally speaking? To advance the price of transportation, then the price of steel products, then the price of other great commodities in turn, then perhaps great commodities in turn, then perhaps to advance wages again and begin all over with the commodities—that seems a very delightful solution.
