SHERLOCK SIGLER CLEARS UP MYSTERY OF THE TAX ROLL

working your clothes

Reverse the conditions. Let your clothes work for you. Why not? Before a man begins a trip, attends a social affair, gets married, engages in business or contemplates a big financial undertaking, what is the usual remark you hear him pass? "Well, I guess I had better get a new suit of clothes." Why? Because he knows that a well-tailored suit, fitted excellently, made to order by a tailor who knows how, is the safest, surest and best guide to success in the particular effort he is about to launch. In other words, this man believes in having his clothes work for him, instead of working for them. Columbia clothes are IT.

"Now when I send a deputy around to this man to assess his property he will say that he has already sent in his statement. That is not all he will say. He will say that I am trying to make out that he did not tell the truth in filling out his statement and make a few more remarks as to the manner in which the office of county assessor is conducted."

Thus said Sigler. The search through is conducted."

Thus said Sigier. The search through the assessment roll revealed a statement last year which was very similar to the one held by Sigier. In the meantime The Journal reporter wrote a story about the mysterious statement.

When the deputy assessor called on the man he announced that he had read The Journal story but did not think that it could possibly have been about himself because he had been so careful with it. He had set down the various amounts with care and had about himself because he had been so careful with it. He had set down the various amounts with care and had even gone so far as to make a copy of the statement. The deputy showed the statement received by the assessor. It was at once recognized by the man and he was "flabbergasted."

When asked why he had not signed the document and filled in the address the man said that he supposed the secretary of the company for which the statement was made out would do that before sending it in. The secretary supposed that the statement was complete and that was the explanation. The man who made out the statement is at the head of a well-known east side corporation and "made some confidential talk" with the deputy before he got away. The deputy said it was too good a joke to keep and the man admitted it. He was Frank Schmitt, of Frank Schmitt & Co., manufacturers of sashes and doors, 195 East Eighth street.

FOUR LIVES LOST IN

FIRE AT NEW YORK

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, May 7.—Four lives were lost today in a tenement fire, which was evidently started by firebugs.
The blaze started in an airshaft and spread so rapidly that Samuel Sachs, Mrs. Eva Berg, Hattle Kopelam and an unidentified man were burned to death. Hattle Kopelam was 2½ years old. She was roasted to death on a grating at the bottom of a fire escape. More than a score of persons living in the five-story building were badly injured. Lost of them were sleeping when the alarm of fire was given.

The Woods lived at No. 356 Waverly were looked at No. 356 Waverly witnesses, when a game of poker and sold whiskey and other refreshments to his guests. Morgan who lives at No. 235 Academy street, Newark, admitted that he was to have siared the profits of the games with Wood. Morgan said the games usually began at 2 p. m.

"When did they end?" asked Samuel Leber, counsel for Gans.

"When there were no more players, or when all the players went broke?"

"Or when the 'kitty' got all the money,' suggested Howard MacSherry, wood's lawyer.

"Or when Wood got it," amended Morgan, with a certain bitterness.

He added that Mrs. Wood was always at the game, and often were some of her lidely friends.

"The boys went there to have a good time,' said Morgan. "One of the rules of the games was that the man who won

What a Stout Woman Should Wear

"It is a mistake for a fat woman to wear long, loose, sweeping lines. She should wear fitted or semi-fitted clothes, and choose dark materials," said a prominent dressmaker, notable for making "good figures" of stout women. "My success in making stout women appear thin, however, is due, in reality, to the fact that I can make them thinner if they will take my advice. I advise all the stout ones to go to their druggist, get 1/2-oz. of Marmola (being careful to get a sealed package). 1/2-oz. of Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic, and 21/2 ozs. of Syrup Simplex.
