business opposite the Wolff shop and one other witness whose identity is being kept secret, but who is regarded as being especially important.

It was demonstrated during the examination of the detectives this morning that the police thus far have traced their entire case against Martin upon the bloody shirt clue and the scratches upon his face and fingers. Detectives James Fishner, Hellyer, Howell, Coleman and Batsy and Policeman Goltz, who found the shirt—the most important evidence unearthed—were present.

Police Contentions.
They traced the case from the time that Goltz found the bloody shirt, through the Opera House laundry, the laundry mark leading to Mr. Sichel, the fact that Sichel had sold the shirts to the peddler, Drey, and that Drey had sold them to Martin—then back to the finding of the bloody shirt again. It formed a complete circle so far as it went, the gap being between the finding of the bloody shirt and the fact that the blood-stained one was found by Goltz. Then a statement said to have been made by Mrs. Martin was introduced, to the effect that Martin had worn a brown tie on the day of the killing of Wolff. It was a brown tie, the officers testified that the collar found in the same size as Martin's, although she denies this and says there is a size difference.

The missing point—the vital defect in the state's case thus far, is that no one has been found to identify Martin as being in the Wolff store at the time or just prior to the murder. All Field says he was in the shop at 5:30 on the night of the murder. He saw a man walking up and down outside the shop, on the walk, looking out the windows. The man finally opened the door and stood waiting in the shop. Fields went over to the door to identify Martin as the man, but was unable to do so. He states that Martin resembles him, but he cannot swear that he is the man he saw in the shop at 5:30. He has nothing unusual for a customer to be in the shop at that time.

Fields' man was of Martin's build, wore a dark suit of clothes, which he says is very similar to that worn now by Martin, but his coat collar turned up and his hands in his pockets. Field said further that the man had no collar on, which would weaken the assumption that the man was Martin.

From the standpoint of the police the important phase of this is that the man "generally" resembled Martin.

Head Segments Overcoat.
But he had no overcoat and the police are trying to show that Martin wore a light overcoat—the one discovered by an ambitious cop the other day in a vacant lot covered with something that looked like blood. Again the state's chief identification outside of the shirt is the collar and necktie—and Field thinks his man wore no collar and tie.

Anyway Fields will be questioned by Mr. Stevenson this afternoon to find out what he knows and may possibly be called as a witness by the state.

Fields himself declares that at no time has he said Martin is the man he saw in the Wolff shop and declares that he was horribly misrepresented in a story printed in a local newspaper to that effect.

Chief Batsy today declared that he is not a tipster considered exhuming Wolff's body. City Physician Ziegler also said the idea was absurd and had never been mentioned outside of one newspaper.

Martin is in the same cell in the city jail that he has occupied since his arrest. He is being given some morphine by Dr. Ziegler but sleeps fitfully and is unable to eat anything. He has not lost his spirits, however, and discusses his case with animation.

Martin Talks of Case.
"It is true that Captain Batsy tried to force me into confessing this crime by withholding morphine from me," he declared today. "I regarded it at the time as merely the efforts of a man who was wrapped up in his business to procure what he wished. I hear that the police have denied the charge, however, and I think the truth should be told. Batsy and Tichenor did tell me that I could not have any morphine until I confessed the crime. They also told me that as soon as I would tell them about it they would let me have all I wished."

Chief Gritzmacher was quite shocked at the idea of withholding morphine from Martin. He said he didn't want the man to die and was sure that Captain Batsy wouldn't do such a thing. It is a fact, however, that Martin was given no morphine until night before last, when Dr. Ziegler, fearing he might go crazy, gave him three pills.

Asked about the Bellingham murder which he was said to have been accused of, Martin laughed and replied he had never been in Bellingham in his life.

"Three years ago I was not there, but in Idaho. I never knew the butcher in question and didn't come out west to drive a screw-driver in his head. I should think if many more such charges

SICK HEADACHES

Distressing Attacks to Which Many Women Are Subject

What the Tonic Treatment Has Done to Correct the Cause of This Recurring and Painful Illness.

There are few ailments that cause more genuine misery in the home than the attacks which are generally termed sick headaches. These attacks are often periodical and when the mother of a family is prostrated at intervals there is not only her own suffering to consider but the discomfort caused the other members of the household. Too often the recurrent symptoms become so regular and familiar to those about her that the sufferer gets but little sympathy in her awful suffering.

Sick headaches arise from a variety of disturbances confined to the stomach and digestive tract and most of them can be cured or relieved to a marked degree. The tonic treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has been successful in a large number of cases, one of which is that of Mrs. Mary A. Terry, of 721 East Main street, Clinton, Ill. She says:

"For thirty years I was subject to sick headaches. They began when I was a young girl and would occur as often as two or three times a week, seldom missing one. When these attacks came on I would get very sick at my stomach and vomit. The strain was so great that the blood vessels in my head would swell up, my eyeballs would feel hot and the muscles in my neck stiff and sore. During these spells the pains in my head were intense and the throbbing would sometimes last for three days. I would be unable to sit up, being often confined to my bed.

"All of my mother's family were subject to violent headaches and the doctors told me I inherited it. They said it was in a bad condition and that I would take some time to cure me. They never gave me more than temporary relief and after years of doctoring I gave them up. I began to get a little better after taking a few boxes and I have felt well since and never have any more trouble with my head. I have always recommended Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to anyone suffering as I did, for I have the greatest confidence in them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

are put up against me that the public would see the foolishness of this whole matter and appreciate that the police have no case against me. But this thing is wearing on me and I don't stand it much longer I'll be able to stand it."

In the information which the district attorney will file against Martin he will be charged with having murdered Wolff with an ax. The theory of the police is that Martin became engaged in an altercation with Wolff in the shop, that Wolff struck him on the head with the hatchet and that Martin, in the excitement, beat his head in with the hatchet.

ACTED LIKE A CRAZY MAN IN EASTERN OREGON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Baker City, Or., May 8.—Edward H. Martin, charged with the murder of Nathan Wolff, lived in Baker City for several months last summer, and owing to his peculiar actions there, until the police finally ran him out of town as a common vag, was dubbed "the major."

Martin arrived in Baker City from Idaho early in the summer. He and his wife took up headquarters in a lodging-house near the depot, and soon afterward Martin, always attired in drugs, began his eccentric actions.

He seldom appeared on the street wearing a coat. He always swung a cane, and, dashing into a cigar store or a hotel, lobby or even meeting strangers on the street, he would launch at once into quotations from Shakespeare or a discourse on some subject pertaining to his service in the Philippines or his escapades at West Point.

The fact that Martin always squared his shoulders before beginning an impromptu speech, and always walked with an erect bearing, gained him the title "the major."

A few weeks after he arrived at Baker City he began stopping people with whom he was unacquainted and insisted on talking to them on topics of literature and education. On several occasions he was arrested and confined for a day or so in the county jail. As soon as the effects of the drugs wore off he became rational again and was released.

Finally he took it upon himself to go to the depot on the arrival of trains to talk with passengers as they alighted from the cars, and it was his interference here that caused the police officials to order him out of town.

It was not known here what had become of him until the account of his arrest on a charge of murder appeared in the Portland papers.

TARS WELCOMED WITH BLACKJACK

Thugs on Barbary Coast Assault Sailor Who Is Seeing San Francisco.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, May 8.—Four negro thugs attempted to hold up James M. Fildew, a bluejacket from the U. S. S. Vermont, this morning on the "Barbary coast" and falling in their attempt struck the sailor on the head with a blackjack, inflicting a possible fracture of the skull.

Fildew, in company with several bluejackets, visited a number of dance halls and other places on the "Barbary coast" about 4 o'clock this morning, when Fildew left his companions and started to return to his vessel.

Four thugs halted him and demanded his money. Fildew refused to stand over his money and yelled for the provocation. The guard arrived just as one of the thugs dealt Fildew a powerful blow over the head with a blackjack, felling him to the ground.

Seeing the police approaching, the thugs fled and escaped in the darkness. Little hope is held out for Fildew's recovery.

ROOSEVELT AND RAYNER AT WAR

President Resents Senator's Attempt to Secure Hearing for Exiled Officer.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Washington, May 8.—If Senator Rayner carries out his determination to introduce in congress a joint resolution demanding a court-martial for Colonel William F. Stewart, who was exiled at Fort Grant, a merry war is promised between him and President Roosevelt.

Rayner insists that the army officer should have a hearing before a court of inquiry, while the president shows no disposition to change his original plans. The senator takes the stand that exile to a remote, ungarmented post is a cruel punishment, that the colonel is being punished without an opportunity to defend himself.

In reply to a letter written him by the statesman, the president said that a final determination had not been reached. The president intimated that he would refuse the request for a court-martial or a court of inquiry, on the grounds that it would establish a precedent.

WHISKEY MEN WIN

wets winning, and the prohibitionists are confident that with the added they will be able to carry the day.

Had the circulators of another petition been three hours earlier in filing it with the county clerk, the result would again have been submitted to the St. Johns precincts alone. The petition combining 80 and 91 with 89 was filed at 12:30 one day, as shown by the records of the county clerk's office, and at 3:25 o'clock the petition for 89 and 91 was filed. The latter petition was rejected because it conflicts with the other. Still another petition was filed later on 89 and 91, and this was also rejected, for the same reason. One of the rejected petitions was prepared by the wets, and the other by the drys.

A peculiar feature of the St. Johns situation was that the attorneys for the liquor men supported the petition that is presumed to be against their interest, as they would stand a better chance if the St. Johns precincts voted alone, without that with the wets. A petition for precinct 60, South Montavilla, was rejected, this being a victory for the wets. In 1904, the two Montavilla precincts voted dry, and the law provides that no election can be held after the time when a subdivision until prohibition has been defeated at a subsequent election held for the entire original territory that voted dry.

The only other petition rejected was one that sought to combine Gresham and Powell Valley precincts. This also lost in point of time, as it conflicted with a prior petition combining Gresham and Powell Valley. Another petition for Gresham precinct alone was ordered submitted, so Gresham will have a double shot at the question. The court holds that one precinct may vote alone, although it also votes with one or more others as a subdivision, but that the same precinct cannot be included in more than one subdivision at the same election.

A complete list of the petitions to be submitted is as follows: For precinct No. 3. For precincts 100 and 101, Gresham and Rockwood. For precinct 101, Gresham. For precincts 89, 90 and 91, University Park and St. Johns. For precincts 52, 62, 63, 69, 71, 72, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78 and 79. For precincts 42, 43, 44, 46 and 47. For precinct 67. For precincts 99 and 102, Fairview and Troutdale.

ROCHESTER TO HAVE AGENT AND STATION

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Olympia, Wash., May 8.—When the complaint of the residents of Rochester, on the Northern Pacific, between Gate and Centralia, concerning the failure of the railroad to maintain a station and agent at that point was called up by the railroad commission yesterday afternoon the railroad representatives reported that an agent had been appointed and that a station would be located at that point. The agent is to be located at the stopping place at Rochester and will keep a supply of tickets to his house and be a caretaker for freight cars. The commission has decided to postpone the hearing for 60 days to ascertain if such an arrangement will be satisfactory. The railroad was notified that it would be expected to provide a suitable station also.

MOTHER OF MALADIES

Dyspepsia Said to Be Responsible for Most Diseases.

A noted specialist on stomach troubles stated that in Germany dyspepsia is referred to as "Mother of Maladies" and the fact that so many serious ailments originate here has been traced to their origin in defective digestion.

The following simple prescription comes from a physician of prominence and is said to work wonders in correcting the stomach and bowels and restoring them to their normal activity, quickly relieving belching, sour stomach, dizziness, distress after eating, etc.

Two ounces of essence of pepsin; three ounces syrup of cod liver oil; one ounce compound; mix well and use in doses of from one to two teaspoonsful each meal, also at bedtime for the first few days.

The standard compound is the product of the laboratories of the Globe Pharmaceutical Co. of Chicago, and is well known as the other ingredients can be obtained at any drug store and easily mixed.

HETTY GREEN TO ABANDON PLAZA

Richest Woman in World Doesn't Like Notoriety of Spending Money.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New York, May 8.—The richest woman in the world—Mrs. Hetty Green—announced today that she would give up her luxurious apartments in the Plaza.

It was not the cost, she said, but "the disgraceful notoriety" that has followed her removal from her simple Hoboken flat to a princely suite in the Plaza.

Mrs. Green looks at it in this way: The newspapers have devoted great space to the fact that a sensible, strong-minded woman, like the famous woman financier and banker, has suddenly thrown her purse open. In a gentle, joking way, it has been made to appear that Mrs. Green has switched from the most frugal of Hoboken simplicity to almost oriental magnificence in her manner of living. Consequently, people are beginning to think that she has no more regard for filthy lucre than the Galkwar of Baroda or the Nawab of Rampur.

JOHNSON IS CALLED WALL STREET'S MAN

Cleveland Wing of Democracy at Tacoma Supports Minnesotan.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Tacoma, Wash., May 8.—Democrats of this county, who will meet in convention next Wednesday to elect delegates to the state convention, which will in turn select national convention delegates, are sharply divided over the issue of Bryan and Johnson. S. Titlow, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, is pulling hard for Bryan and claims the Nebraska man only has the county but also the state.

Ex-Mayor George P. Wright is lining up Democrats for Johnson and claims the Minnesota man has the state corralled. Wright and Titlow are both very strong with the Democrats of the state, and they have never before disagreed over an issue. Their division makes a hard fight almost certain. The Johnson men want to send the county delegation to the state convention unfractured. The Bryan people are determined to instruct the delegates to elect national delegates who will favor Bryan.

Johnson literature is being thrown into the city almost daily. A great deal of it comes from New York city, and on this account has given Johnson the sobriquet of "the Wall street candidate." In January the Democratic state central committee met here and formally endorsed Bryan as the Democratic nominee for the presidency. There were no Johnson Democrats at that time, but a Cleveland wing of the party fought the endorsement.

Notwithstanding the strong backing Johnson has in ex-Mayor Wright, John J. Malone, Billy Welsh, a strong organizer, and Hugh C. Wallace, the rank and file of the party in the county undoubtedly favor Bryan.

BANK FAILURE CAUSES SUICIDE

San Francisco Freight Inspector Kills Himself After Losing Life-time Savings

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, May 8.—That the suicide of J. A. Holmes, whose body was found in Golden Gate park, was due to the crash of the California Safe Deposit & Trust company, is a fact that developed today.

When the bank was looted Holmes, who was then freight inspector for the Transcontinental Freight company, had $5,000, representing the savings of a lifetime, on deposit there. Since the money was taken away from him by the looters he has been suffering acutely from melancholia. A few days ago he resigned his position with the freight company as he felt that he could no longer fill the place and do justice to his employers.

His remains were found in Golden Gate park yesterday with a bottle that had contained laudanum a short distance away. The 18-year-old son of Holmes identified the body.
